NEWS SUMMARY

SITUATION IN RUSSIA.

Dispatches from Russia are meager, owing to the disturbed condition of the country. The situation in St. Petersburg, where order is maintained by a show of armed force, remains critical, though improvement is shown in the resumption of operations by the electric lighting plants. Communication by rail with the frontier has not yet been re-established. In Kieff the loss of life and property has been very great. In Theodosia, Kostroma and Saratoff the disorders have been most serious. There is an unconfirmed report that Kishineff has been totally destroyed by fire.

A London newspaper's St. Petersburg correspondent estimates that in the leading 50 provincial towns of Russia 1,000 persons have been killed and 10,000 seriously wounded in the last 24 hours. The revolutionary movement in Finland is unchecked.—Pages 1, 2 and 6.

CASTLE SAYS HE WILL SUE THE GAZETTE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., Nov. 3.—"The man or the paper that says I'm guilty of a crime will have to prove it. A certain Pittsburgh paper today contained a statement reflecting on my honesty. I want to say that I'll not answer a syllable of that story. I'll demand the proofs tomorrow. Tonight as soon as I read the account I did not wait. I called up my attorney on the 'phone and he'll proceed tomorrow to demand the proofs. I issued my instructions. They'll answer me, and either they'll send me to jail or I'll take some of the stuff they got in a bargain for a United States senatorship."

This was the reply of Homer L. Castle of Pittsburgh to the statement published in The Pittsburgh Gazette saying that he would be called to explain to the assignee and maybe to the court, his connection with the failure of the Prudential Trust Company. It was made at the Citizens rally.

After the meeting Castle explained his position thus:

"My attention has been called to a letter to the Mercantile Trust Company as receiver for the Prudential Trust Company, alleging irregularities regarding the payment of moneys due the state from the Prudential Trust Company, and to an editorial in The Pittsburgh Gazette based on it. I have directed John Marron of Pittsburgh, my attorney, to bring suit against The Gazette, which will be done tomorrow. I have never paid any money to the state, on behalf of the Prudential Trust Company or any other trust company, and there was never any draft on me for money due from the Prudential Trust Company to the state, and so far as I know, there never was anything irregular or out of the ordinary in the payment of any money due from the Prudential Trust Company to the state."

William H. Graham, president of the Mercantile Trust Company, says that his concern, as assignee of the defunct Prudential Trust Company, will look into the charges made by Joseph J. Gehring concerning the paying of the state deposit by Homer L. Castle and Stephen Stone.

"I know nothing about the allegations made in the letter of Mr. Gehring," said President Graham. "The Mercantile Trust Company as assignee of the Prudential Trust Company will make every effort to realize on the assets of that bank. This matter will be carefully inquired into, as it is our duty to secure every dollar belonging to the creditors."

The state treasury department yesterday confirmed the assertion made in Mr. Gehring's letter that a draft for the $5,000 state deposit in the Prudential Trust Company was issued on Castle and Stephen Stone on June 22, 1904, and was paid the following day.

THREE LOCOMOTIVES MANGLE TRAIN CREW

HAMMOND, IND., Nov. 3.—Three locomotives became uncoupled from a sand train south of Hammond, on the Indiana Harbor railroad this afternoon, and backed down grade into a stock train, killing G. Babcock, a brakeman; injuring nine trainmen and laborers, demolishing 11 stock cars and destroying eight valuable horses. Four of the injured men may die.

BIGELOW MACHINE TRIES TO SAVE THREE MEN

Orders Are Out to Cut and Slash for Cunningham, O'Neil and Dempster.

Orders are now out to the Bigelow machine workers to cut and slash in the hope of re-electing Robert J. Cunningham controller and J. D. O'Neil recorder. Similar orders in behalf of Alexander Dempster for commissioner are expected today.

James A. Clark's friends are satisfied that Director Bigelow will order plumpers for Dempster. They have made their entire campaign in anticipation of such action. Clark has worked for the whole Citizens ticket, but his friends have worked for Clark. Yesterday one of his chief lieutenants offered to wager $5,000 that Clark would be re-elected.

Cunningham and O'Neil are working together, and are complaining about Clark not being for the whole fusion ticket. Yesterday several Citizens offered to wager $1,000 even that five of the eight fusion candidates would be elected. For a long time they desired to base the bet on the "face of the returns." Republicans declined to accept the wager in that form, and finally the money was put up on the straight proposition of election. Every dollar the Citizens have offered has been quickly taken by the Republicans.

Amusing Allegheny Claims.

The Citizens are fighting hard for Allegheny. They claim to have put $40,000 into the contest on the North Side. Mayor James G. Wyman is conducting the campaign, and it is freely reported he is to receive $5,000 if he gives the fusionists a majority on that side of the river. Wyman is reporting to Bigelow that he will carry everything in Allegheny but the Third, Fourth, Tenth and Eleventh wards.

The Allegheny Republicans are amused over the Wyman claims, and are also taking the $40,000 campaign fund with a liberal discount. Some of Wyman's closest friends say that the very best he can hope for in Allegheny is an even break. The stories about the discord in the Republican camp are being put out by the Citizens. They are working overtime to make the voters believe that the friends of Robert K. Cochrane are knifing the Republican ticket. The Allegheny Republican organization is in harmony, and a good majority for the whole ticket is certain.

Rough Work to Be Done.

In Pittsburgh the Citizens are claiming they will carry everything in the city to the Fourteenth ward with the exception of the First and Eleventh wards. The police are to rough house these 11 wards, and it is there the majority for the machine candidates are to be gotten. The bosses say they have to get a lead of 7,000 in Pittsburgh to win. In the big East End wards they are figuring on very small majorities. The Fourteenth ward is being counted as a standoff by those familiar with the inside calculations of the Bigelow machine. Even with the Baltimore & Ohio endeavoring to coerce its men into voting the Citizens ticket in return for franchises, the bosses are not counting on the Twenty-third ward. It is given to the Republicans by a majority of from 100 to 200. On the South Side the fusionists are not claiming any big majorities, and they admit the Thirty-second ward will give the Republican county ticket the largest majority it has given in a number of years. In the country, the Citizens admit they will not carry one of the three legislative districts.

"Buck" Wallace, superintendent of police, is claiming everything from the First to the Seventeenth wards. It is in this

SURETY CONCERNS PAY $376,744 TO THE STATE

Depositors of Enterprise Bank Will, it Is Said, Get Every Dollar Due Them.

The state treasurer yesterday received from the three surety companies, bonded for the state funds deposited at the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny, the sum of $376,744.14 as their proportionate share of the bonds which the state declared forfeited by the failure of the bank. The state had $1,032,600 on deposit at the Enterprise bank and the surety companies claim that the balance of the state deposit, amounting to $655,255.86, must be paid by the directors of the bank.

In fact, an official of one of the surety companies stated last night they expected the entire amount paid yesterday to the state treasurer to be returned to them and the bank directors forced to pay the entire state deposit of $1,032,000, or, at least, as much of it as they are able to pay before the collections are finally made from the surety companies.

The amounts paid yesterday by the three surety companies were as follows: Mercantile Trust Company of Pittsburgh, $104,651.15; Equitable Trust Company of Pittsburgh, $104,651.15; United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company of Baltimore, $167,441.84; total, $376,744.14.

Expect Money Returned.

"We made this payment as a temporary settlement, and we expect to get our money back from the state," said an official of one of the surety companies. "The directors of the bank are bonded to the state before we are, and they must pay first. If that question is determined in our favor by the court then the money we paid today will be returned to us.

"The attorneys for each of the three surety companies met with the attorneys for the directors of the bank and our attorneys proposed that we pay our proportionate share of the entire bonds and the directors of the bank should pay their share likewise. To this the directors would not agree. The state agreed to accept our share of the bonds, pending the final settlement of the question in the Kischineff Again Scene of Horrible Massacres by Mobs.

ODESSA IN TERROR

Rioting and Pillage Continue at Russia's Black Sea Port, With Many Deaths.

AUTHORITIES ARE POWERLESS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

KISHINEFF, Nov. 3.—A horrible massacre has occurred here. Hundreds have been killed. All the pharmacies and hotels are full of wounded and mutilated persons.

NICOLAIEFF, Nov. 3.—The whole town is in the hands of bandits, who are devastating the Jewish houses and shops and beating Jews to death without the slightest hindrance. The authorities here have similar news from other southern cities.

ODESSA, Nov. 3.—On this the fourth day of terror the peaceful population is practically under a state of siege. Even the markets and restaurants are closed and it is impossible to get bread or meat. The mob today pillaged a number of Jewish shops in the main streets, and among others the biggest wholesale grocery, that of Rabinovitch. The rioters also burned three factories and killed a physician and two assistants, who were dressing wounds. This evening the rioters pillaged the biggest drygoods store in the city. The loss in this case is estimated at $175,000. The hardware stores were also looted, involving a loss of $100,000. In addition 12 fur stores were sacked. The consulates and hotels are guarded by troops.

Thousand Roughs Wounded.

The attacks on the Jews were continued today on a regular scale. A great amount of damage was done. A thousand roughs were wounded during the disturbances. The proclamation of martial law has been withdrawn, the proclamation yesterday being due to an official blunder.

The military patrols, which are in all the streets, are unable to check the disorders. Some collisions occurred in Preobraszhenskie street this afternoon between the troops and the crowds. Seventeen persons were killed or wounded. A staff officer was killed in the street by a bullet fired from a window. Three hundred infantry joined with the mobs in looting, but were arrested.

The Red Cross is busy attending the wounded. Up to the present time no Christian shops or houses have been touched. The principal hotels are full of the better class of Jews seeking refuge from the week's disorders.

Three railway stations have been burned between Odessa and Shmerinka, and the postal service has been suspended. Collisions between armed forces continued until late at night in three districts. Today's casualties are believed to have numbered about 500. Among the incidents I witnessed today

HERETIC IS OUSTED BY METHODIST BISHOPS

Prof. Mitchell Will Not Be Permitted to Retain His Chair in Boston University.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—The board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church will inform the trustees of the Boston university school of theology next Monday that the plea of the trustees for the retention of Prof. Hinckley G. Mitchell in the chair of Old Testament criticism in that school cannot be granted.

This decision on the part of the bishops was taken at Washington last week, where they heard intercession for Prof. Mitchell by President W. H. Huntington, Dean W. D. Warren and Dr. Phillips, secretary of the board of trustees of the Boston school. The vote of the bishops was unanimous against the continuance of Prof. Mitchell in his chair.

The bishops had previously decided that Prof. Mitchell could not hold his chair, inasmuch as he was an avowed follower of the Graf-Welhausen school of criticism of the Old Testament, and had boasted he would revolutionize modern theology. Evidence of four students and Prof. Mitchell's book, "The World Before Abraham," formed the basis of his condemnation. The case was reopened, with the result that he is again condemned, and there is no other appeal.

It is stated on the best authority that a heresy trial in Prof. Mitchell's conference—that of Northern New York—may result now, and it is further said the logical sequence of the ousting of the Boston higher critic is that Prof. Terry, of the Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., who has written a book on "The Shortcomings of Jesus," is likely to hear from the board of bishops.

KRAUT KNOCKS OUT ARMY.

Luscious German Dish Puts Volunteers of America on the Sick List.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—As the result of eating sauerkraut cooked in a large iron pot, Maj. Etta B. Knight, Miss Alice Downs and Miss Kittie Burch, all member of the Volunteers of America, were seriously poisoned today.

The kraut was served at the dinner table. Shortly after all became ill and a physician was called. They are now considered out of danger.

CZAR GRANTS AMNESTY TO POLITICAL PRISONERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—The amnesty ukase has been signed. Apparently the text of the ukase has not yet been published. It is expected that it will be tomorrow, but possibly may be postponed until Sunday.

Hang a Dying Man.

SOUTH M'ALLESTER, I. T., Nov. 3.—So weak from tuberculosis that he had to be carried to the scaffold and supported during the adjustment of the black cap, Grant Williams, a negro, was hanged today for the murder in October, 1901, of James Dolan and an unidentified man.

KNOX MAKES AN INSPIRED TALK ON RAILROAD REBATES

Speaks on Behalf of President and Suggests New Tribunal.

ROOSEVELT'S POLICY

Chinese Minister Criticises Exclusion Law at the Chamber of Commerce Banquet.

SPEECHES BY NOTABLE MEN

Immortal words were uttered last night under the entwined colors of the Stars and Stripes and the black dragon of China. It was the annual banquet of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, and in the great dining-hall of the Hotel Schenley Sir Chentung Liang-Cheng, Chinese minister to the United States, was the guest of honor, sharing with Senator Philander C. Knox the plaudits of the big assemblage.

Senator Knox recited the latest solution for the national controversy over railroad rates and their abuse. His speech had been carefully prefaced, and it was understood that it had previously received the sanction of President Roosevelt as voicing the administration's proposed remedy for curbing the power of monopoly in great transportation lines. Senator Knox summed up his arguments in an appeal for prompt legislative action at the next session of congress, and suggested a tribunal to be appointed by the chief justice, to have sole jurisdiction in the matter. These sentiments were received with marked demonstrations of approval by the representative body of Pittsburgh business men gathered around the board.

Spoke for the President.

Congressman John Dalzell, in introducing Senator Knox, accentuated the fact that Mr. Knox spoke by authority of the President, in these words:

"Three years ago or four during the Roosevelt administration, the attorney general of the United States delivered in this room, and before the chamber of commerce of Pittsburgh, a very remarkable address. It embodied the policy of the Roosevelt administration with respect to the control of corporate combinations. It expressed the opinions of the attorney general that the law then on the statute book was entirely competent to cover this particular evil complained of, and this opinion was contrary to that which had already been rendered by many distinguished lawyers. Since that time in the Northern Securities case the supreme court of the United States has vindicated and indorsed the opinion of the then attorney general. He comes here tonight to defend the policy of the President with respect to legislation as to rebates.

Distinguished Guests Present.

At the guest table, beside the distinguished Chinaman and Senator Knox, were Gen. A. W. Greely and Melville W. Stone, special guests of the Carnegie institute; Congressman James Francis Burke, Congressman Dalzell and John Eaton, president of the chamber of commerce. Mr. Eaton introduced the toastmaster, Mr. Dalzell, who spoke of the magnitude of Andrew Carnegie's benefactions to Pittsburgh, and referred briefly to the persistent work of the chamber of commerce for the public weal.

The occasion and its environments were equal to the celebrated men who had traveled far to participate in the gathering and by their voices to stir Pittsburghers' enthusiasm. No banquet ever held at the Schenley was ever better served or more elaborately embellished. Lavish floral decorations were the keynote, but the black dragon on the yellow banner reminded all the guests that under its folds sat one of the most distinguished statesmen and diplomats of the orient. Everybody anxiously awaited his speech, and when he rose to respond to the toast, "The Commercial Relations Between

UNITED STATES SENATOR PHILANDER C. KNOX.

SIR CHENTUNG LIANG-CHENG, Chinese Minister to the United States.

China and the United States," he was greeted by a storm of applause.

A Good Baseball Player.

In the receiving line the guests had made his acquaintance and had noted that his conversation was noted for his faultless English. They knew that he was thoroughly Americanized, because he told many people how he had struck out eight men in one game of baseball when he pitched for Amherst college. He came to Pittsburgh without a secretary and without a valet. Although a titled gentleman at home, he is exceedingly democratic in his manners.

If there was any person in the big hall who did not believe this, his doubts must have been cast aside when the orchestra

CITY PAY DAY IS ADVANCED TO GET MONEY FOR THE ELECTION

City employes are receiving their salaries earlier than usual this month so that they can pay their assessment for election expenses. By extra effort and working overtime the clerical forces of the mayor and controller completed the payroll and warrants yesterday, and by noon today it is expected that every employe of the city will have received his monthly salary, which he is expected to spend to get votes for the Citizens party ticket next Tuesday.

It is customary to complete the payment of city employes on November 9 or later, but the last of the warrants were made out yesterday, six days ahead of the usual time. Not only are the city employes expected to pay their assessments, but they are also expected to spend their money liberally at the polls on election day. If orders are obeyed few employes will have any money after election day. They have been told, however, that more than one month's salary depends upon the result of the election next Tuesday; that if the Citizens party loses the county election it means the defeat of the Citizens candidates in the mayoralty election next February, and consequently the loss of their jobs.

As fast as the warrants were made out yesterday by the clerks in the mayor's office they were signed with the mayor's rubber stamp and hurried to the controller's office, where the assistant controller attached his signature, and the warrants were distributed to the waiting employes. Special notice was given every employe in the city that the warrants for the month would be ready earlier than usual, and they were on hand to receive them as fast as they were signed.

"By noon tomorrow we expect to have every city employe paid," said Assistant Controller Morrow yesterday after a hard day's work with the warrants. "I am glad we do not have to do this every month," he added. As the warrants are issued by the controller's paymaster they are taken by the employes to the treasurer's office and cashed. Arrangements have been made to finish the job by noon today, but if this is not accomplished the controller and the treasurer will dispense with the usual half holiday on Saturday and keep their offices open as long as necessary.

CONSUL IS DISMISSED.

American Representative in England Is Charged With Delaying Deposit of Public Moneys.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—A cablegram from Secretary Root, sent by direction of the President, today cut short the official life of William P. Smythe as American consul at Bersium, England.

Mr. Smythe was removed on complaint of the auditor for the state department that he had been negligent in the discharge of his duties, had failed to observe regulations as to the reporting of his accounts and had unduly delayed the deposit of public moneys. He was born in Ireland and appointed from Missouri last June.

PRESIDENT GETS ROYAL MESSAGE

Prince Louis Delivers a Personal Greeting of Good Will from King Edward.

SPENDS BUSY DAY RECEIVING

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—With great cordial Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg was received by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The prince was the bearer of a personal message of good will from King Edward to President Roosevelt, and was presented to the President by Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador. The presentation was made the occasion for a brilliant reception.

Tonight the British ambassador and Lady Durand gave a state dinner to their distinguished house guest, followed by a large reception and ball.

The trip from Annapolis to Washington was made in a special train. Prince Louis was met at the station by Mr. Bacon, assistant secretary of state, Captain Bromwell, military aide to the President; Lieut.-Commander Key, naval aid to the President and the following officers of the United States navy: Capt. William P. Potter, Lieut.-Commander F. L. Chapin, Lieut. H. Z. Johnson and Lieut. J. W. Timmons. The British embassy was represented at the station by Mr. Walker Townley, counsellor to the embassy, and Mr. Sude, attache.

Shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon Prince Louis and Sir Mortimer arrived at the White House. Following in carriages came the members of the prince's staff. The party was met at the main entrance by the President's military and naval aides and escorted to the blue room, where a distinguished company awaited their arrival. In a few moments the great carved wood doors swung open and the President and Mrs. Roosevelt entered. The prince was presented by Sir Mortimer Durand and he immediately delivered the royal message to the President. The prince then presented the members of his staff and the commanding officers of his squadron. The reception lasted about an hour.

Secretary Bonaparte left the reception early and returned to the navy department to assemble the chiefs of bureaus of the department in his reception room to await the official call of the prince. They were kept waiting for more than an hour, the prince through a misunderstanding having returned to the embassy from the White House. When he finally arrived, accompanied by his personal staff, he apologized quite frankly to the secretary and the chiefs of bureaus and expressed his keen regret at the incident.

Thirty-six guests made up the company at the dinner, which included besides the prince and the officers of his party, and the embassy staff, Secretary of State and Mrs. Root, Admiral and Mrs. Dewey, Lieut.-Gen. and Mrs. Chaffee, Commander-in-Chief of the North Atlantic Fleet and Mrs. Evans, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Davis, Rear Admiral Brownson, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Bacon and Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Oliver.

Three hundred additional guests were invited at half past 10 o'clock, for the reception and ball. The prince received with the ambassador and Lady Durand. Later in the evening, he led the way to the splendid ballroom of the embassy and opened the ball with Miss Durand.

INDEPENDENTS RALLYING TO IVINS AND JEROME

Mark Twain Hopes to Vote His Whole Strength for the Republican Ticket in New York.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—"Municipal Housekeeping Without Regard to Party Politics" was the theme of the Independent citizens mass meeting held at Cooper Union tonight, at which Horace White presided. Former Mayor Seth Low sent a letter earnestly advocating the election of Mr. Ivins.

The following telegram was received from Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain):

"I believe in Ivins and Jerome and hope to be allowed to vote my whole strength for them; that is to say, once as Clemens and twice as Twain.

"MARK."

Addresses were made by Mr. Ivins, the Rev. Lyman Abbott, Stewart L. Woodford, Arthur von Briesen and Horace E. Deming.

PASSES WORTHLESS CHECK.

This Is Charge Preferred Against Former Pittsburgher Who Is Under Arrest in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—George W. Coleman, formerly of Pittsburgh, was again in police court here today to answer to a larceny charge, his third arrest on a similar charge.

It is claimed Coleman passed a worthless check on C. N. Owen, proprietor of the Touraine hotel, Buffalo. The check was returned with the information there were no funds to meet it. It was drawn on the Industrial National bank of Pittsburgh. Coleman, who is prosperous in appearance, will probably settle out of court.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—Dr. Percy D. McLeod of 101 Huntington avenue was arrested this afternoon on the charge of abortion in connection with the suit case mystery. The arrest was on information furnished by Chief Watts from New York. Dr. McLeod is held on the charge that he was the person who dismembered the body of Susan Geary. Dr. McLeod was taken into court this afternoon. He is registered as a member of the Massachusetts Medical society.

A conference between Dr. McLeod and officials lasted until 5 o'clock. At its conclusion Dr. McLeod was removed to the city prison. He is about 35 years old and is married.

Chief Watts informed the officials here that the confession of Crawford in New York included the specific accusation that Dr. McLeod was the person who dismembered the body of the chorus girl. Immediately upon receipt of this message the physician was arrested.

From Capt. Dugan it was learned that last Monday night two headquarters inspectors visited Dr. McLeod at his home. They drove him to the office of Pawnbroker Berkman, who sold the suit cases. The pawnbroker had stated that Dr. McLeod "looked like the man who purchased the cases."

On the strength of the alleged statement by Howard, one of the New York suspects, that the head of the victim had been thrown from a ferry boat into the Boston harbor in a weighted handbag, the police today began dragging the bottom of the harbor at that part ordinarily traveled by the East Boston boats from one of which the handbag is said to have been thrown into the water.

Police Captain Dugan today obtained warrants for the arrest of Crawford and Howard. A warrant also was issued against Howard, charging him with being an accessory to the fact. Police Inspector O'Brien said today Crawford admits having purchased the dress suit cases and to having taken portions of the girl's body to the river, but he denies having had any hand in the death of the girl. Chief Watts said both Howard and Crawford had thrown up their hands.

Crawford was dressed, by order of the New York police, in gray clothing when first seen by the Boston police officials and their witnesses. He had on the same clothing he is believed to have worn in Boston while making his alleged trip with the suit cases to Boston harbor. In his room at 72 West Eighty-ninth street the police found a gray suit and a long rain coat, both of which resembled the clothing that Cabman Howard said the man wore when he drove from Boston to Chelsea.

When the cab driver saw Crawford he immediately identified him as one of the two men who were in his cab with the suit cases on the night when the girl's body was thrown into the harbor. He also identified the prisoner Howard as Crawford's companion that night.

After this identification had been completed the two pawnbrokers and the pawnbroker's clerk were admitted to the prisoners' presence and identified them both. Meyer Kauffman, the clerk, said Crawford, when he entered the pawnbroker's store to get a dress suit case said he had "30 pounds of shot in the satchel he was carrying."

Up to 9:30 p. m. Dr. McLeod had not been released on bail. He will be arraigned in the municipal court tomorrow morning.

Morris Nathan, the lover of Miss Geary, who was arrested in Pittsburgh last Sunday night and brought to this city in a state of collapse, is gradually recovering at the city hospital where he was taken on his arrival here, but is not yet in a condition to be brought into court. Nathan will probably be arraigned Monday.

While at first the police were of the opinion that Nathan was not directly connected with the case, they now say Nathan conducted the negotiations with the proprietors of the Tremont street establishment, the place with which Crawford was connected, and that he was fully aware of the result of the operation.

Tonight the police directed their energies toward locating another man formerly connected with the Tremont street office.

Following the arrest of Dr. McLeod, Capt. Dugan sent out inspectors in search of a woman who, according to the police, has been employed as a nurse at a house in Roxbury where Miss Geary was sent to recover after the operation. It is claimed that the nurse was present at the second operation, alleged to have been performed by Dr. McLeod and knows the relations the doctor bore to the office where the dead girl underwent the original operation.

was the following: A student and a girl were driving in a droshky, the girl wearing a Red Cross armlet. Six Cossacks were quietly passing when suddenly the girl fired, wounding one of them in the leg. The Cossacks replied, shooting the student dead. The girl attempted to flee, but was shot, and, as she fell, it could be seen that the feminine dress masked a student.

Jews the Aggressors.

There was a veritable reign of terror on October 31. After the emperor's manifesto granting a constitution to Russia had been published the Jews made the Russians furious with rage by making a prominent display of red flags, trampling on a portrait of the emperor and tearing down the emblem of the crown. Late in the afternoon there was firing in the outskirts of the town and the massacre of Jews commenced and lasted during the night of November 1. All Jews found in the streets were severely beaten and many were killed in their shops, which were ruthlessly pillaged.

In the poorer Jewish quarter on the outskirts of the town whole streets were destroyed, the soldiers apparently looking on. Crowds of workmen, rowdies and children laden with all kinds of loot walked openly through the streets quarreling over the spoils. Bombs were thrown in various parts of the town. Late that night patrols of soldiers restored some semblance of order.

The pillaging was continued yesterday and there was heavy firing all over the town. Nobody was safe in the streets. People carrying arms who were caught by the troops were shot on sight. The shutters of all houses were ordered closed and people detected shooting from windows were promptly shot. The soldiers used machine guns to clear away the crowd from the vicinity of the port.

Continuing the Carnage.

Firing is still going on. Trade is at a complete standstill. Provisions are still obtainable at greatly enhanced prices. The gas and water works are working. It is impossible to make a correct estimate of the number of killed and wounded.

Similar serious reports reached Odessa from most of the other towns in southern Russia. Bodies of police escorted by squads of infantry are placarding the city with notices from the mayor appealing to all peaceable citizens to remain indoors unless the most urgent necessity takes them out.

The recriminations of the different factions in regard to the responsibility for the outbreak are bitter. Official circles blame the Jews, but the Liberal leaders declare the disorders were engineered in St. Petersburg.

A leading general, in an interview today, argued that the disturbances were the result of the behavior of the Jews, who shocked Russian patriotism by the manner in which they celebrated on Tuesday the publication of the imperial manifesto. They abused their new-found freedom, he declared, by tearing down the national flag, hoisting revolutionary banners, insulting the emperor and boasting that they alone gave Russia freedom.

On the other hand, the Liberal leaders say the simultaneous manner in which the disorders broke out in many towns proved that they were dictated from St. Petersburg in revenge for the concessions recently granted and with the object of creating the impression that the Russians did not desire the new order of things. The Liberals contend that the governor had all the means to stop the outbreak in the first hour and that his inactivity during the three days of massacre and his protection of the murderous rabble in the guise of patriots proved the real origin of the trouble.

Cossacks Make Unprovoked Attack.

WARSAW, Nov. 3.—The greatest rage is felt against the Cossacks whose attack on the crowd before the city hall was unprovoked. Many were killed or wounded. The authorities have released 350 political offenders who were imprisoned in the citadel. A regiment of dragoons has arrived here to reinforce the garrison. The post and telegraph employes threaten to strike tomorrow. The strike of the druggists continues. Encounters between the troops and mobs continue in some places. A number of persons are reported to have been wounded.

At a Socialist mass meeting this afternoon two infantry soldiers in full uniform delivered revolutionary speeches, assuring their hearers that the revolutionary propaganda was growing in the army and that the time was not far remote when the army would join in a revolution to overthrow a despotic throne.

KIEFF, Nov. 3.—The whole city is in a ferment. A report that the Jews had destroyed a Christian monastery was circulated among the mob, and served to excite a renewal of the trouble. The massacre continued. Gen. Karass, the military commander, called out the Cossacks, who were met with bombs, whereupon the Cossacks fired into the crowd, killing 12 persons and wounding four. All the stores in the Jewish market have been plundered and destroyed.

MOSCOW, Nov. 3.—A procession of students returning today with some of their comrades who had been released from prison, was set upon by a mob of workmen at the Triumphal arch. Ten of the students were killed. The "Black Hundred" today attacked with arms a procession of Social Democrats returning from the funeral of the victims of the recent rioting. A number of persons were wounded on both sides.

Only Smoking Ruins Remain.

ROSTOFF-ON-DON, Nov. 3.—This city presents a scene of desolation, but the rioters are exhausted by last night's excesses, and the rioting was not resumed this morning. Of the Jewish quarter only smoking ruins remain. In other sections stores are still burning.

SMOLENSK, Nov. 3.—The "black hundred" (term applied to the lowest class without any special political views) are attacking the Jews here, and the business people are appealing to the people to restore order.

POLTAVA, Nov. 3.—The revolutionists, not satisfied with the action of the governor in releasing some of the political prisoners, stormed the prison yesterday. The police made an ineffectual attempt to beat them off, wounding 38 persons, but the mob effected an entrance and threw open the doors.

ROMNEY, Nov. 3.—During the pillage of the Jewish stores, which lasted until yesterday morning, 15 stores were burned to the ground and many more were sacked. The rioting began when a crowd killed a rich merchant for refusing to take off his hat to a red flag. Many persons were killed.

CITY OF KISHINEFF DESTROYED BY FIRE

Scene of Horrible Jewish Massacres Is Reported Absolutely Wiped Out.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Daily Mail's Odessa correspondent gives an unconfirmed report that Kishineff has been absolutely destroyed by fire. He says that the three suburbs of Odessa—Peresseyp, Zastava and Moldavanda—have been completely devastated.

The Kieff correspondent of the same paper says that the British consulate has been riddled with bullets. The situation there he adds, however, is improving, but during the riots bands of rowdies stopped everybody in carriage, or afoot and compelled all to prove they were not Jews before permitting them to go on. The British consul was stopped by soldiers with leveled rifles, who, however, permitted the mob to wreck the house of a wealthy Jew. Nearly all the houses and shops display ikons and other Christian emblems.

A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from St. Petersburg states that Prince Alexis Obolensky has been appointed to replace M. Pobledonostseff as chief procurator of the holy synod.

The Daily Telegraph's Odessa correspondent also reports Kishineff in flames.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—The Tageblatt prints the following dispatch from the Jewish owner of three houses in Kieff:

"Anti-Jewish excesses have been raging here for three days and all the Jewish shops and many private houses have been totally destroyed. The number of Jewish victims is large and children and old people have been barbarously murdered, while the military and police looked on with cynical indifference. The situation is desperate."

The Lokal Anzeiger's Kieff correspondent says the number of dead on both sides is about 100, but many hundreds of persons were wounded and mangled, and the city presents a horrible appearance.

Purging the Registry.

The hearings to purge the registry lists filed by the Republicans were completed by Judge J. A. Evans yesterday, and this morning the petitions filed by the Citizens to purge the lists of three districts of the First ward will be heard. The hearings on the Republican petitions lasted all day. Seven names were stricken off the list in the Second district of the Sixth ward, and 14 off the First district of the same ward yesterday afternoon; two from the First district of the Ninth ward, and 36 from the First district of the Second ward. During the morning 121 names were taken off as follows: Second district, Seventh ward, 29; Fourth district, same ward, 21; First district, Tenth ward, 10; Thirtieth district, Seventh ward, 47; Third district, Fifth ward, 8; Third district, Eighth ward, 18. The exact number of names to be taken from the lists will not be known until the court's order is made and formally entered, and these figures are likely to be changed somewhat, for there are others to replace some of those stricken off, the respondents assert, and the court has the names and the facts concerning them. During the afternoon those registered from the Shelter home were up for revision. This is in the First district of the Second ward. Its inhabitants are continually changing, and a good many names were stricken off as not residents there now but had been at the time of the registry.

William Wuerthele filed a statement in his action against the Young Men's Republican club. He says he leased the defendant a pool table, a refrigerator and a clock, but they failed to pay the rent according to agreement. The goods were valued at $210, he says, and he avers he has sustained damages in the sum of $420.

EPISCOPALIANS UP IN ARMS AGAINST IRVINE

Oppose Admission to Greek Catholic Church of the Deposed Priest.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Existence of the cordial relations now existing between the Russian, or Orthodox branch, of the Greek church, and the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States, is threatened through the action of Archbishop Tikkon, Russian bishop resident in New York, agreeing to admit to the Russian church priesthood the Rev. Dr. Ingram N. W. Irvine, a deposed and unfrocked priest of the Episcopal church.

Episcopal clergymen all over the country, who have heard of the report, are in arms, and they declare a union of American anglicanism and the Russian church now seems farther removed than ever, or else will become entirely impossible. Letters have been sent to New York asking for information, and one of the questions is: "If it can possibly be true Archbishop Tikkon is about to insult the Protestant Episcopal church by questioning her orders."

"The Living Church," a newspaper representative of the Catholic party in the Episcopal church, has taken up the matter, and in the issue of the current week, out today, makes this statement:

"We sincerely trust there may be no truth in the report, published early this week, that Dr. I. N. W. Irvine, a deposed priest of the American church, is to be ordained to the priesthood, or even to the deaconate or to minor orders in the Russian Orthodox church in its cathedral in New York next Sunday.

"The question of comity between churches in the rehabilitation of a deposed priest by another branch of the church Catholic sinks into insignificance beside the deed of sacrilege, which would be involved in a reordination of one already a priest, though deposed."

SURETY CONCERNS PAY $378,744 TO THE STATE FOR FUNDS HELD BY BANK

court, and we paid every dollar demanded of us by the state."

Depositors Won't Lose Cent.

Depositors in the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny will not lose a cent.

This statement is made by a man who is a stockholder and who has been intimately associated with the affairs of the bank for years. To prove his declaration that the depositors are positively secured against loss, he furnished The Gazette yesterday with a statement of the bank's present condition. The figures are taken from books and papers in the Enterprise bank and are correct.

"I cannot see where the depositors are going to lose a cent," he said. "For several days I have heard it declared by persons who profess to have inside information that only 10 per cent, or less, will be paid to depositors. The actual condition of affairs at present does not warrant any such assumption. Those who are doing such talking are simply guessing.

"It is a shame to create misery and despair in some 3,000 homes in Allegheny, and for this reason I am prevailed upon to submit real figures to disprove these guesses. A glance at the statement prepared by Receiver Cunningham and his assistants will show the falsity of some recent reports."

Following is the statement of the present condition of the bank:

Capital	$ 200,000
Surplus	200,000
Undivided profits	97,000
U. S. government bonds	150,000
Securities	286,000
Assessment on stock	200,000
Loans and discounts	2,175,000
Total	$3,252,000

Present Condition of Bank.

"The amount of money on deposit in the Enterprise bank the day its doors were closed was within a few dollars of $2,200,000. This includes the state deposit of $1,032,000. Subtracting this state money leaves a balance of $1,168,000 in individual deposits.

"The capital, surplus and undivided profits are accounts in the bank that are untouched insofar as the loss is concerned. The United States government bonds are inviolate. The item of securities represents absolute assets, as they are bought outright and include Allegheny City assignments and bonds. The 100-per-cent assessment on stockholders is undeniably collectible under the national banking laws.

"The item of loans and discounts seems to be a doubtful asset, if all reports are true concerning the re-discounting or hypothecating system of Cashier T. Lee Clark.

"How much collateral still remains in the bank as security for loans is not known definitely, but enough is known to give assurance of the collection of a great part of this asset. Even throwing out the loans and discounts as a dead loss, which is not reasonable, the amount of undisputed assets is $1,077,000. This is $91,000 less than the individual deposits, so that even with the loss of the last-named amount the depositors would get almost their entire deposits.

Outstanding Loans Are Valuable.

"However, it is absurd to suppose none of the loans and discounts are valuable assets, and there is proof already in plenty that, added to the other assured assets, the collections on outstanding notes will more than cover all individual deposits.

"Taking the entire total of presumably available assets, and I am including the item of loans and discounts, and taking from it the amount of the state deposit, there remains a balance of $2,200,000, which is $20,000 above every cent of the individual deposits.

"In making these calculations I have ignored the fact that the state money is bonded both by trust companies and the directors of the bank. The figures shown make allowance of collection from the bank's assets of the state deposit. No attention is paid in the above statement to the individual and corporation liability to the state. By the state treasurer collecting from the trust companies and the directors, the available assets securing individual deposits is increased more than a million dollars.

Expects Bank to Reopen.

"The whole situation is infinitely more hopeful than many people seem to think, and I see no cause for undue anxiety on the part of depositors. I say this sincerely, because I am both a stockholder and a depositor. Everything I own is involved in the Enterprise bank, and I am not trying to fool myself with figures, you may be sure. The prospect really looks good to me."

Coincident with the foregoing statement, Vice President W. T. Bradberry expresses hope that the bank will open again. The accounts, he says, are badly complicated and it will be some time before everything is straightened out. In his opinion the recovery of the Enterprise bank is merely a question of time.

Sufficient proof has been exhibited in the examination being made by Examiner Moxey and Receiver Cunningham to show that the financial crookedness in the bank had its origin within the past four months. A national bank examiner went through the books and scrutinized every bit of paper and collateral in the Enterprise bank during the latter two weeks of June, 1905. At that time everything was perfectly regular.

Trips to Arrott Building.

More than this, it has been brought out that since early in July daily communication was carried on between Cashier Clark and persons in the office of W. H. Andrews in the Arrott building. Almost every day envelopes and packages were transferred between the Arrott building and the Enterprise bank. No one but Cashier Clark in the Enterprise bank had any knowledge of what was going on, and not one of the clerks ever knew that these mysterious transactions were part of each day's routine. The one man who was an innocent party to the three months' actions is in daily communication with Receiver Cunningham and has told what he was assigned to do by Cashier Clark and F. R. Nichols in Andrews' office. His testimony is regarded as valuable and is being used by Receiver Cunningham.

Thomas W. Harvey, who was paying teller of the Enterprise bank, has, through his attorney, served notice on the officers of the Bellevue Water Company not to transfer stock certificates of the company that were put up by him as collateral for a loan made in July. Harvey has discovered that a certificate for 188 shares of Bellevue Water Company stock was hypothecated by Cashier Clark and its whereabouts is unknown.

Collateral Has Disappeared.

When Harvey sought to secure a loan in July he made a note that was, according to his understanding with Clark, to be put into the Dollar Savings Fund and Trust Company of Allegheny. Harvey at that time expressed to Clark his unwillingness to negotiate the loan from the Enterprise bank, as he was an officer of that institution. Investigation has shown that the other bank named never had possession of the collateral, and what disposition has been made of it is unknown. Harvey was a lifelong friend of Cashier Clark and trusted him absolutely. The shock of discoveries concerning Clark's methods have brought illness upon Teller Harvey, and his physician has ordered him to remain in the house.

Attorneys Thomas P. Trimble and William B. Rodgers, counsel for the directors of the Enterprise bank, had a long conference yesterday morning in the Frick building. Mr. Trimble said last night:

"Mr. Rodgers and I will start proceedings tomorrow. I will not tell you what is the nature of the proceedings, but we will start tomorrow, and then I will tell you all you want to know about it. It would not be policy to declare to the press and the public what our plans are before something is done."

May Oppose Collection.

It was suggested to Mr. Trimble that the action for the directors might be to oppose the collection by the state treasurer of the money for which the directors are bonded for state deposits. Such a course was intimated several days ago by Mr. Rodgers. Mr. Trimble refused to say whether or not this is contemplated and Mr. Rodgers refused to say a word. It is generally believed, however, that the directors feel they are not responsible to State Treasurer Mathues, as the bonds they made were to Treasurer Harris, whose incumbency antedates Mathues. Besides Attorneys Rodgers and Trimble, it is said, W. A. Sipe, J. Scott Ferguson and Reed, Smith, Shaw & Beal will be counsel for the directors.

In response to the call sent out to stockholders several days ago by Receiver Cunningham the latter is receiving checks from stockholders covering their holdings. The assessment is 100 per cent.

United States Attorney John W. Dunkle said that in his talks with Edward P. Moxey, special examiner at the Enterprise National bank, the question whether criminal suits ought to be begun against the directors of the bank had not come up.

No Evidence of Criminality.

"If the directors were careless or negligent in signing a bank statement about which they knew little or nothing, they might be liable for civil action," said Mr. Dunkle, "but before a criminal charge would hold against them it would be necessary to prove that they signed the statement with criminal intent. Even if the bank was insolvent long before the statement was signed it would be necessary to institute successful criminal action to show that the directors had knowledge of the fact. From what I have learned, I believe the directors were unaware of what was going on in the bank.

"No criminal prosecutions against anyone in connection with the Enterprise bank failure are contemplated at present. If Mr. Moxey discovers evidence of criminal practice I will immediately go ahead with charges. No such discoveries have been made so far."

Will Engage Counsel.

The executive committee of 10 appointed on Thursday night to represent the depositors of the Enterprise bank met last night in the Manchester (Second) Presbyterian church, Market street, Allegheny, and elected the Rev. D. A. Green chairman, and James P. Wall secretary.

It was decided to secure legal counsel at once and to take immediate steps to assure protection to the depositors of the bank. A committee composed of Thomas W. McBride, D. A. Green, Dr. Paul Doyle and J. P. Wall was chosen to call upon attorneys today and arrange for the legal action that is contemplated. This committee is to report to the executive committee tonight at a meeting in the Manchester church.

The committee sends out the request that every depositor in the Enterprise bank send his or her name and address to the Rev. Green or to Secretary Wall. The purpose in securing every name is to complete a mailing list. When this is done notices of another meeting of all the depositors will be sent out.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE HOUNDED BY POLICE

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Detectives sent to arrest Justice of the Peace Charles F. Knuth of this city on a warrant charging embezzlement of state funds and extortion reported tonight that he is in a private sanitarium near Pittsburgh. His case is set for hearing November 5, but it is likely that the hearing will be postponed. His condition is the result of being hounded by the police.

SPEAKERS ASSAIL B. & O. METHODS

BIG MEETING IN GLENWOOD

At the biggest Republican meeting ever held in Glenwood, largely composed of employes of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, corporate coercion of voters was condemned. It is well known that employes of the railroad are receiving orders to vote for the Bigelow candidates for county offices, although two years ago they voted against the Citizens' candidates because the city administration held up in councils the Baltimore & Ohio improvement ordinances, which meant so much for the Twenty-third ward and the city. The present efforts to coerce the employes is only arousing indignation among the American, Irish and German workmen, who will vote the Republican ticket, as they had intended to do right along.

The meeting was held at Second avenue and Almeda street, and more than 250 persons were in the hall. Dr. F. C. Blessing was the chairman. The first speaker was Patrick Dolan, president of the United Mine Workers of the Pittsburgh district, who urged his hearers to vote the entire Republican state and county ticket. Mr. Dolan, speaking of Alexander Dempster, Citizens candidate for county commissioner, said that for years Dempster, as a coal operator, had met with the miners' union's representatives, had agreed to contracts which he himself did not live up to.

William Dodds, candidate for clerk of courts, refuted several statements which have been made against him by Citizens' orators and organs.

Magee Talks of B. & O.

W. A. Magee, Jr., referred to the orders received within the last few days by employes of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad to vote for the Citizens-Democratic candidates. He continued:

Corporate influence is at work in the Twenty-third ward to coerce their employes. These corporations are of course not attempting to vote themselves; they are not attempting to cast one vote, but to cast thousands of votes. In this ward there are three or four corporation employers of labor. If all were able to vote their employes whatever side they advocated would win by a practically unanimous vote.

Two years ago the Baltimore & Ohio railroad came out openly and urged its employes to vote against the Citizens ticket. The railroad's efforts were approved by all good citizens. Its general agent and its solicitor had me call a meeting and came out here and gave good reasons why we should vote against the Citizens. Now the employes are told there are good reasons why they should vote for the Citizens, but no reason is given.

I don't know who is behind this attempt to coerce the employes of the railroad. I know almost from the mouth of the general superintendent in Pittsburgh that he is not behind it. I am reliably informed he said within the last two weeks that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is not interested in this election. Yet somebody is trying to coerce the workmen on the railroad to vote for the Citizens.

Farmers Awake to Issues.

Charles B. Price, Republican candidate for county commissioner, said that in his tour through the country districts he found that the farmers and storekeepers are wide awake. They had helped put the Citizens into power in the county. They were looking to Pittsburgh and Allegheny; they had seen the misuse the Citizens had made of their power in these two cities.

The Republicans of the Sixth ward, Allegheny, had a big meeting in the ward school hall. The speeches were preceded by a parade over the principal streets. Robert K. Cochran presided at the meeting. Speeches were made by George J. Churchill, H. S. Lydick, H. L. Riley, ex-Judge Elliott Rodgers and others.

Mr. Lydick referred to the desperate efforts made by the Citizens-Democrats to connect the Enterprise bank failure with the Republican party, and said: "What has been the conduct of the Republican party in this matter? The ruined condition of the bank was discovered by a Republican bank examiner. He immediately reported it and closed it. He has taken charge of the ruined institution and has since that time worked assiduously to turn all of its assets into cash for the depositors."

Mr. Riley and Judge Rodgers discussed the political issues in a general way and predicted the success of the whole Republican state and county ticket at the polls.

Tonight's Gathering in Allegheny.

The Republican rally at Coraopolis was well attended and much enthusiasm was shown. The principal speakers were John F. Cox and Joseph A. Langfitt. The rally was the last one of the campaign in that section.

The Republican mass meeting in Carnegie hall, Allegheny, this evening promises to be one of the greatest ever held. John C. Haymaker, Elliott Rodgers, Maj. A. B. Hay, Congressman A. J. Barchfeld and Perry A. Shanor will speak. The meeting will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Other Republican meetings will be held at the Twentieth ward headquarters, 6008 Penn avenue; Groetzinger's hall, Leetsdale; Woolslair school, Sixteenth ward; Colfax hall, Springdale. Many ward meetings of workers will also be held.

The Republican county executive committee will hold its last meeting of the campaign in common council chamber in city hall at 2 p. m. today. Chairman Ford will give his closing words of advice and instructions to the committeemen, and there will probably be addresses by other well-known Republicans. At the conclusion of the meeting the members of the committee from the boroughs and townships will repair to Republican headquarters, 416 Grant street, and get their pollbooks and other papers for election day. Allegheny pollbooks are to be distributed from the Allegheny headquarters and Pittsburgh pollbooks will be in charge of City Chairman Leslie, from whom they will be transferred to the ward chairmen for distribution.

EXPECTING A CONFESSION FROM THE EXPRESS ROBBER

Edward George Cunliffe, who stole $101,000 from the Adams Express company on October 9, is expected to make a full confession of the affair when he is called for sentence a week from today. Attorney Clarence Burleigh, who represents the express company, will make a statement for the prosecution. About $6,000 is still missing and the officers of the express company and the detectives expect to recover this before sentence is pronounced on Cunliffe.

Bishop Canevin in Rome.

ROME, Nov. 3.—The pope today received Bishop Richter of Grand Rapids, Mich., in private audience and afterward received Bishop Canevin of Pittsburgh, Pa. Bishop Canevin presented the pope with a complete history of the 12 Italian parishes in the Pittsburgh diocese and offered the pontiff $8,000 in Peter's pence.

DICK PROPHESIES ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Says Herrick's Majority Will Equal or Exceed that of Two Years Ago.

IS PRESENTED WITH A TRUNK

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—"There are many uncertain elements in this campaign, but I will be greatly mistaken if Gov. Herrick's majority this year does not equal or exceed that given him two years ago."

This statement, made today by Senator Dick, state chairman, shows what the Republican organization is expecting from the election returns next Tuesday. Two years ago Herrick beat Tom Johnson by over 13,000, the high-water mark of Republican pluralities, and now Senator Dick expects that record to be equalled if not surpassed. The senator will tomorrow evening give out his official estimate.

This was Senator Dick's birthday and the staff at headquarters, following the custom of several years, presented him with a token of their regard. It took the form of a very fine trunk. The presentation speech was made by Judson W. Lyon, registrar of the treasury of the United States, who is here making speeches in the interest of the Republican tickets. Clerks, stenographers, secretaries, messengers and janitors, to the number of about 50, crowded into the senator's office to witness the ceremony.

Senator Dick thanked his associates for their kindness in remembering his birthday and paid a high tribute to the loyalty and the efficiency of those employed at headquarters. He said never in his experience had a campaign been conducted so smoothly and so well as this. Then he made his prediction on Herrick's majority.

If Senator Dick's official ante-election prediction is in line with the belief expressed by him today, it will be a great and welcome surprise to the Republicans of this state. Bets have been made on the basis of 50,000 for Herrick, but there are few enthusiastic Republicans who have ventured to hope for a much larger plurality than this. During all the years Senator Dick has been state chairman he has never made an ante-election estimate that has exceeded the real plurality.

Harvey C. Garber, Democratic state chairman, today declined to give out his estimate of the result, but said it would be given to the public tomorrow.

As far as the Republican managers are concerned, the campaign is over. Gov. Herrick is completing his itinerary and there will be few speeches next week, but the work is practically over and the headquarters staff is preparing to disband early in the week. Senator Dick went to Dayton to address a meeting this evening. He will speak in Toledo tomorrow evening.

MATINEE CONCERT TODAY.

Pittsburgh Orchestra Plays This Afternoon—First Organ Recital of Season This Evening.

The first afternoon concert of the season by the Pittsburgh orchestra will be given today in Carnegie Music hall. A number of good seats are still purchaseable at the ticket office until noon, and at the box office in the hall until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The full program for this afternoon is as follows:

Overture, "Oebron" ..... Weber

Siegfried's Funeral March, from "Die Gotterdammerung" ..... Wagner
Siegfried's Rhine Journey, from "Die Gotterdammerung" ..... Wagner

The eleventh season of free organ recitals at Carnegie Music hall, Pittsburgh, begins this evening. Clarence Eddy has been invited to open the year and will also give the recital on Sunday afternoon. The recitals will begin at 8 o'clock and will continue about an hour and fifteen minutes, with five minutes' intermission. The program in full is as follows:

Concert Fantasia in F Minor (new) ..... Arthur Bird
"Spring Song" ..... Alfred Hollins
Seventh Sonata, Op. 93 ..... Alex. Guilmant
(1) Entree. Tempo di Marcia, Maestoso.
(2) Reve (Dreams). Lento assai.
(3) Intermezzo. Allegretto.
(4) Grand Choeur. Allegro con brio.
(5) Cantabile. Andante.
(6) Finale. Allegro.
Fugue in E Flat, "St. Anns" ..... Johann Sebastian Bach
Theme, Variations and Finale ..... Louis Thiele
"Sursum Corda" (Elevation) ..... Edward Elgar
(Arranged by Edwin H. Lemare.)
Toccata in F Major ..... Charles M. Widor
(From the Fifth Organ Symphony.)

NOT SEEKING CONTROL.

Recent Philadelphia Company Stock Purchases Not for That Purpose.

J. D. Callery, president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and vice president of the Philadelphia Company, said upon his return to the city yesterday that in his opinion nothing more than investment was shown by the recent large purchases of stock of the Philadelphia Company. He does not believe that the buying is for the purpose of control.

It has been pointed out repeatedly in the last year that the Philadelphia Company stocks are the only ones of the kind in the country which have been selling below par. They have been attractive to investors and the recent purchases have put the common stock above par.

LOVE IS BULLET-PROOF.

Husband and Wife, Whom He Shot, Are Reconciled.

With bullets still in their breasts as the result of a shooting affray in Evans avenue, McKeesport, recently, Mr. and Mrs. John Swakoski of that place have become reconciled and have arranged to seek another city and begin life anew.

Mrs. Swakoski visited her husband in McKeesport hospital yesterday and arrangements have been made to have him released on bail on the charge of shooting his wife. The suit, however, will not be pressed and when he leaves the hospital the couple will leave town.

Alleged Elopers Are Caught.

Luigi Spino and Lean Dina Cippolo, Italians, were arrested at the Star hotel, Seventh avenue and Grant street, last night by Detective Aviner, on information sent here from the police at Philadelphia. The couple are alleged to have eloped from that city, after taking $700 from the girl's parents. Information was made against them by Pasquala Solci in behalf of the parents. Officers will come here from Philadelphia today to take the prisoners back.

Objects to Price Proviso.

The Philadelphia Company has notified the borough of Munhall that it will not accept the ordinance passed at a recent meeting of council. The reason is that it specifies the price shall be as low as any place in Allegheny county, while the company desired it to read as low as the city of Pittsburgh.

Money Taken from Trunk.

The residence of Mrs. Catherine Cavanaugh, of No. 151 Butler street, was entered during her absence last Thursday, and the rooms were ransacked. A trunk was forced open and $8 was taken. Clothing was scattered over the floors and drawers and cupboards were opened.

The better plan is to select an old-established, strong bank, like the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, Smithfield st. and 4th ave., where savings will be not only safe from fire and burglary, but will earn Four per cent compound interest.

WEAVER TAKES GUFFEY'S ORDERS

Says City Party of Philadelphia Must Support Berry for Treasurer.

NO CHANCE FOR DEMOCRATS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Press Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 3.

Col. James M. Guffey's visit to Philadelphia forced the hands of the Wanamaker political managers. As a result of the colonel's demands—and they were in the form of an ultimatum—Mayor Weaver now advocates the election of Berry for state treasurer. In three speeches last night Weaver told his audiences that they had better get clear outside the Republican breastworks by voting the Democratic state ticket as well as for the "grievance" bunch on the City party ticket. Weaver did not want to support Berry, but Judge Gordon told him he "must." Gordon did not want to give this order, but Guffey said he "must," that if he did not the City party ticket could not expect the local Democratic support.

Senator Penrose today said there was not the slightest chance of Democratic success in the state or in Philadelphia. He was positive that the Republican majority was growing hourly. This, he said, was not only shown by reports of county and city leaders, but by the desperate efforts being made by the Wanamaker newspapers to fool the people. President Roosevelt and Vice President Fairbanks on down to division leaders, are all claimed to be in sympathy with the Weaver-Gordon syndicate. Said a Republican leader today:

"Feeling certain that their position precludes them from making a public denial, both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Fairbanks are quoted as having said they hoped the Republican city ticket would be defeated. This on its face is an audacious falsehood. Mr. Roosevelt is never quoted on the subject of local political controversies, in fact, he is never interviewed at all, and if he should express an opinion in the privacy of the White House the man who repeated his remarks would hardly be invited to call again, if indeed, he was not publicly branded for a breach of confidence. You cannot express it too strongly that neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Fairbanks have uttered one word which would be harmful to the Republican state ticket or the Republican county ticket."

CHESTER D. POTTER.

Blankenburg Is Set Free.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Rudolph Blankenburg, charged with criminal libel by Felix Isman, was discharged today by Magistrate Eisenbrown, before whom the case was heard. In deciding the case the magistrate said that the statements complained of were made orally by Mr. Blankenburg and not written or printed by him, therefore did not constitute a libel.

MORE HIGH RECORDS.

National Tube Works and New Castle Plants Share October's Glory With Sharon and Braddock.

From General Manager G. G. Crawford down to the least important employe all connected with the National Tube Works at McKeesport were smoking the best of cigars yesterday out of a consignment of 10,000 sent to the big plant from the general offices of the company in celebration of the making of new high records for production in October. On October 31 no less than 1,832 tons of finished tube and pipe was produced, as compared with the best previous record of 1,574. The month's record was made 33,974 tons, 32,040 being the old high mark.

At New Castle yesterday it was announced that the four blast furnaces of the Carnegie Steel company produced in October 59,358 tons of pig iron. The Shenango Valley Steel plant produced 60,002 tons of ingots, which was rolled into 52,000 tons of steel bars.

The records made in October at the South Side blast furnaces and open-hearth department of the Carnegie Steel company and at the rail mills of the same company at the Edgar Thomson plant, Braddock, were told in yesterday's Gazette.

REVOKES FRAUD ORDER.

Arthur K. Sykes of Pittsburgh Proves He Has Left Preferred Mercantile Company of Boston.

The fraud order issued against Arthur K. Sykes of Pittsburgh for his connection with the Preferred Mercantile Company of Boston, was revoked yesterday by Postmaster General Cortelyou, who took this action because he became convinced that Mr. Sykes is no longer with the Boston concern.

An application was made by Mr. Sykes for the revocation of the fraud order September 16, and the case was placed in the hands of Postmaster George L. Holliday. An arrangement was made by which Sykes was to open his mail in the presence of the postoffice for 30 days so that it could be proved that the petitioner had severed his connection with the Preferred Mercantile Company. This examination satisfied Postmaster Holliday, who recommended the action taken by the department.

ARE NOT KNOWN HERE.

Missionaries in Chinese Massacre Have No Local Connection.

Little is known in Pittsburgh of the Lien Chow station or the missionaries said to have been killed there during the massacre just reported. Several local churches contribute to the Canton missionary field, and the late Rev. Dr. B. C. Henry of Sharpsburg established the Lien Chow station.

Dr. Henry left the field in 1899, and recent missionaries at that point are not known here. The Rev. Dr. Frank Chalfant, who is a missionary in Northern China, and who is in the city on a furlough, stated yesterday that he had never visited Lien Chow mission, but had always heard that the district was a safe one.

PATRICK HEARS HIS BAD NEWS CALMLY

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer convicted of the murder of the aged millionaire, William Marsh Rice, was notified in his cell in Sing Sing prison today that the court of appeals had unanimously denied his appeal for a new trial. The prisoner took the news quietly, and said he would at once prepare papers for an appeal to the United States supreme court.

THE average male doesn't devote a great deal of time to shopping—generally he runs into such and such a place (the one he is accustomed to), and asks for this and that and hurries out again.

Naturally, then, variety is more to the male shopper than to women, because a woman takes a certain amount of pleasure in seeing what each store has, while the man prefers to patronize a store carrying a great variety of masculine belongings, thus obviating all running around.

That's why so many men come here—we have a variety of everything right at hand.

Men's Underwear—

Cotton, linen mesh, merino, all wool, silk and wool, all silk, "kotedsilk"—in fact all the reliable kinds, made here and in Europe.

Kotedsilk Underwear—Men who cannot wear wool find Kotedsilk a luxury. It does not shrink. Needs no care in washing. The delightful softness of kotedsilk always remains. A cotton garment with an inside coating of pure silk. Here exclusively. $2.50 a garment.

Vellastic Underwear—it has a lengthwise rib with fleece running crosswise. No ordinary washing will shrink it. Natural gray color. 50c a garment.

Norfolk and New Brunswick Underwear—for service and comfort; Gray Merino, $1.00 and $1.50 a garment.

Drab Merino, $1.75 a garment.
Brown Merino, $1.50 and $2.00 a garment.
Natural Wool, $2.25 and $2.50 a garment.
White Wool, extra heavy, $2.25 a garment.
Ribbed Balbriggan (cotton), $1.25 to $1.75 a garment.
Ribbed Merino, $2.00 and $2.50 a garment.
Dr. Jaeger's Natural Wool Underwear, half hose, night shirts, knee warmers, etc., at catalogue prices.
Men's Combination Suits:
Merino, $2.50, $3.50, $5.00; cotton, $2.00.
Jaeger Natural Wool Suits, $4.20 to $9.20.

Men's Neckwear—Best for Money—

More new neckwear to be seen—each lot appears prettier than the last. Styles at 50c are shown in endless variety—plain colors, figures, stripes.

Finer qualities at $1.00 and $1.50—made from rich, lustrous silks, which distinguish them from the general run.

Men's Half Hose—

Shown in all wool, merino, cotton, lisle and silk—the latest Autumn and Winter colorings—

Black Cashmere, 25c, 35c, 50c to $2.00 pair.
Colored Merino, 50c to $1.00 pair.
Cotton, all black or with unbleached soles, 25c, 35c, 50c pair.
Black Cashmere, neatly embroidered with figures in contrasting colors, 50c pair.

Men's Llama Wool Jackets—

These are made for us in France, and cannot be had anywhere else in Western Pennsylvania. Light weight, soft and warm. Come in gray and brown. An ideal garment for motoring, golfing, etc. $4.00 to $6.50.

Other Golf Jackets of imported all-wool worsted, $6.00, $9.50, with silk sleeves, $12.50.

Men's Gloves—

If your price for a pair of gloves is an even dollar, we have the glove you'll be pleased with—stylish and well fitting.

English Walking Gloves, $1.50 pair.
Fownes' Walking Gloves, $2.00 pair.
Dent's Walking Gloves, $1.85 pair.
Fisk's Walking Gloves, $2.00 pair.
Reynier Walking Gloves, $2.25 and $2.50 pair.
Warmly lined gloves at from $1.50 to $7.50 pair.
Scotch Wool Gloves, 50c to $1.50 pair.

For Girls—Hats for School, Street and Dress Wear.

Saturday is always a great day for Girls' Millinery—no school on that day, therefore mothers are wont to bring in their daughters on a Saturday to see what is new in children's hats.

There's always something new here, for as fast as a line is broken it is replaced with something different, which brings about more individuality than if we were to replenish along the same lines.

The collection of ready-to-wear hats for girls is well worth seeing—from the French felt hats with no other trimming than band and buckle to the stylish velvet Colonials, Continentals and Napoleons of kid, beaver, patent leather and pressed felt.

Shapes suitable for every age and becoming to every youthful face.

From $1.00 to $5.00.

And Now, Please, Referring to New Neckwear for Women.

Let's see, there's a lot of new Chemisettes, with cuffs to match that you'll be interested in—pretty things of soft mull, of lace and chiffon cunningly combined—dozens of different styles. $1.25 to $25.00.

Collar and Cuff Sets, made of mull and trimmed with lace and embroidery, 50c to $7.50 set.

New Jabots made of handsome Cluny lace, mull and chiffon, some trimmed with colored velvet. $3.00 each.

New Ruchings and Rufflings, 15c to $1.50 a yard.

Du Barry Scarfs of crepe, in solid colors, or in beautiful printings, 50c to $14.00 each.

Liberty Boas, long pleated ends, $2.25 to $15.00.

Marabout Stoles, black, natural and evening shades, $5.00 to $50.00.

Marabout Muffs, $5.00 and $10.00.

Ostrich Boas, black, white and colors, $18.00 to $100.00.

Ostrich Muffs, $35.00 each.

Ostrich Sets, stole and muff to match, black, white and colors, $90.00 a set.

SPECIAL—Lace Stocks, Mull Sets, Chemisettes and Boxes of Ruching, 50c values for 25c.

Kodak Belongings.

Books for mounting your summer pictures—all sizes—cloth, imitation leather, leather bindings. Most any price from 35c up to $8.00. Post card albums, new and handsome line direct from Germany. 35c each up to $2.50.

Also a big lot of leather-bound albums, $3.00 to $5.00. Large size, hold 300 to 500 cards.

$2.00 Eyeglass Holders, $1.50.

These are automatic, they have Roman gold finish, they are superior to the ordinary chain in that when the chain is out of use it is coiled up in the holder, thus preventing tangling or breaking. Place for engraving monogram. On sale in the Optical Department we have also

Gold Filled Eyeglasses, $1.50 up.
Solid Gold Eyeglasses, $4.50 up.

Stereoscopes, an Oldtime Fad Revived.

We sell them at 50c each and we don't know anything that gives more fun or enjoyment this side of the graphophone.

For another half dollar you get a box containing 25 beautiful subjects, scenery or comic pictures.

On sale at Kodak Counter.

Attractive Fancy Needlework.

Somewhat singular, but still it is a fact that Saturday is one of the big days in the Art Needlework Department. Perhaps women select their pieces upon which to work the week following.

New Luxemburg Squares and Scarfs, hemstitched all round, tinted for outlining, in oriental colors and conventional patterns. At 25c, worth 45c, squares 18x18 inches; at 50c, worth 75c, squares 24x24 inches; at 85c, worth $1.00, squares 30x30 inches; at 75c, worth $1.00, scarfs 18x54 inches.

New Stamped Collars for empire embroidery to be worked in narrow Rococo ribbon, 10c each.

Large line of new stamped and tinted Pillow Tops, conventional and floral patterns, tinted on black and tan backgrounds, 25c each, worth 50c.

Cords and Tassels for Sofa Pillows and Bathrobes. We carry only the best makes, and our prices are the least such goods ever sold for. Large variety of colors, both plain and mixed; the cord is well covered. Mercerized cord and tassel, 3 yards long, 25c; silk cord and tassel, 3 yards length, 50c; fancy heavy cord and tassels, 3 yards in length, 85c.

Med's High Grade Hats.

Our hats for men will stand muster in any company—this is true not only of the highest price ones, but just as much so of the hat we sell for $2.00, though, of course, the latter will not wear like a hat that we sell you at $5.00.

Stetson's Special, $5.00.
Stetson's latest, the "Dudley," self-conforming and extra light weight, $3.50.
In Soft Hats, Stetson's "Arian" is the favorite—$3.50 and $5.00.
Our own "Onyx" Derby is a beauty—$2.00 and $3.00.
Silk Hats, $5.00, $6.00, $8.00.
Opera Hats, $5.00, $6.00, $8.00, $10.00.

A new shipment of Automobile Caps just opened—see them today. The English "Buck" is a nobby new number in caps.

A section of this department is devoted to the wants of boys—the lines are replete with every style of hat and cap affected by boys, big or little. Popularly priced.

A Ribbon Purchase and a Ribbon Sale.

A Paterson, N. J., manufacturer of fine ribbons offered us a lot of choice ombre and double satin ribbons at a way-down price the other day. We snapped at the offer and have the ribbons on sale today.

Just the sort of ribbons you will need in making fancy gift articles—all the new rainbow effects, with plenty of white and pink and blue.

65c grade, 7 inches, ombre ribbon, at 35c yd.
85c grade, 7 inches, double satin ribbons, 50c yd.
$1.00 grade, 8 inches, double satin ribbon, 55c yd.

Three Pieces Popular Music, 10c.

That comes pretty near to giving music away. Three and one-third cents a copy for popular music.

The three pieces are put up in rolls and you can have your choice from vocal and instrumental packs. Remember you are not buying a pig in a poke, you can tell what pieces the roll contains.

Our new holiday line of Music Rolls has arrived, finest assortment ever shown in the city—all styles and colors. We have special lots at 25c, worth 50c; at 50c, worth 75c; at 65c, worth $1.00.

Homer L. Castle, in an address at Altoona last night, said he would bring an action against The Gazette for its publication yesterday of the statement of his connection with the failed Prudential Trust Company, and would demand the proofs of the charge. If Mr. Castle wishes to rush into the courts he will find The Gazette ready with the required proofs. The Gazette makes no statements against persons which it is not able to fortify with facts.

The decision to equip all the railways of Germany with the wireless telegraphy system, both on trains and at stations, as reported by a United States consul, illustrates the latest practical adaptation of the wonderful "wireless." Experiments seem to have demonstrated the efficiency of the system in preventing disasters. Trains running at full speed can be communicated with from stations or from other trains. American railway officials might well look into the idea.

A significant statement was made by the Chinese minister at last night's banquet concerning the finesse employed by our competitors in the race for Chinese trade. A policy not only of conciliation but of ingratiation is pursued which has done much to increase the popularity of Europeans in the orient. The interesting outline given of China's recent commercial progress and her plans for the future should be studied to their profit by American merchants and manufacturers.

In the appearance of Gov. Folk of Missouri in the Ohio campaign, there is a suggestion of the duty of Republicans to support their party. Joseph Folk is looking forward to the Democratic nomination for President. He is getting before the people for that purpose. He is doing the Democratic party a good turn wherever he can do so, because he appreciates the effect of Democratic victories in "off" years. If Republican voters are less alert to their duty to their own party in Ohio or in Pennsylvania, it is not Folk's fault.

The testimony of Kenyon college students at Mount Vernon, Ohio, that the tying of candidates on railway tracks was a regular part of a fraternity initiation will strengthen the case of the prosecuting attorney who is investigating the death of the student killed by an engine Saturday night. If this dangerous custom prevailed, a more rigid supervision of the fraternities on the part of the college authorities certainly is necessary. That the distressing occurrence was "accidental" should not prevent the prosecution of those whose criminal carelessness caused the fatality.

The civilized world is again shocked by the news of a terrible massacre at Kishenef. Bulletins from other cities of southern Russia bear similar gloomy tidings. As usual, the fury of the murderous mobs is being expended upon the helpless Jews, who are beaten to death and their homes pillaged and destroyed. Odessa is trembling under a reign of anarchy and terror, with the troops impotent spectators of the outrages. Bitter charges and counter-charges as to the responsibility for the awful scenes have been made. The disorder seems to have passed beyond the control of the authorities and we may be prepared to receive even more appalling news before normal conditions are restored.

The annual banquet of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce last evening was attended by the usual representative gathering of the community's conspicuously successful men and was honored by the presence of distinguished and eloquent guests. The oratory, which was of a pleasantly diversified nature, possessed the conversational quality so appropriate to affairs of the kind, though some of the statements made will be published in every newspaper in the country this morning and provide a variety of comment. Pittsburgh is famous for its banquets, and last night's amply sustains our reputation for gatherings characterized not only by abundant good fellowship, but speeches worth the hearing.

A correspondent suggests that while we are contemplating the struggle of the Russian people for freedom and for a hand in their government, something be said concerning the large number of American citizens who do not exercise the privileges they have always enjoyed. It would be difficult for the Russian agitator to understand the mental attitude of an American citizen who, through carelessness or apathy, fails to record his opinion at the polls. Yet annually thousands of citizens fail in this regard. That right which the Russians are on the point of gaining, after a battle of years, many an American citizen regards so lightly as to permit the most unimportant considerations to prevent him from exercising it on election day.

A Few Bank Facts.

In view of the persistent false reports concerning the Enterprise National bank wreck, a stockholder, who is intimately familiar with the bank's affairs, has made a statement. The figures indicate to this man, who is a depositor as well as a stockholder, that he will receive 100 per cent on his deposit and, of course, that other depositors will receive the same.

There is nothing occult about the figures. Every person who has ordinary knowledge of arithmetic, a very little idea of banking, a modicum of common sense and a conscience, will reach the same conclusion after examining the known facts. The talk about a 10 per cent dividend is entirely dishonest and wholly for political effect.

Stockholders and directors of the bank will suffer, especially the latter. The banking laws are designed for that purpose. The state treasury will not lose a dollar and there is a fair probability ordinary depositors will be paid in full. Ten per cent of ordinary deposits has already been collected without considering capital, surplus, securities or assessment on capital and these items cover nearly 60 per cent of individual deposits. The Enterprise bank affair is bad enough without exaggeration and the liars should be suppressed.

Squeezing the Pay Roll.

City employes are being paid in advance of the usual date so they can contribute to the political expenses of the Democratic-Citizens campaign. They are told their JOBS DEPEND ON THE ELECTION of that ticket next Tuesday. The pledge-breakers and franchise plunderers are fighting for continued control of the cities, not for the county offices, and they give city employes to understand it is worth a month's salary to win this election. No measly 2 per cent assessment for political purposes, but the whole month's salary.

In this sort of a campaign it behooves every good citizen to be alert and on guard to defend his own interests. Employes who give up their salaries and energies for political purposes are not expected to serve the public. The men back of them do not intend to serve the public. They intend to grab franchises, collect graft, manipulate deposits and filch from the public pockets all the plunder they can reach. They have been doing these things on a large scale in violation of their pledged word of honor and they intend doing them on a larger scale if they win in next Tuesday's election. The past record is well known; the future is portentous of public injury if this looting gang is not rebuked by honest ballots.

District Attorney Stewart's appointment of officers to protect the polls is timely. Twice as many guardians would better insure the right of every qualified citizen to register his will through the ballot box. The pledge breaking and plundering gang is desperate and preparing to use foul means to gain its end. The fight depends on the good people of the county. They have but to do their whole duty fearlessly to redeem their patrimony from the corrupt Democratic-Citizens oligarchy. Turn out and vote, vote once, vote right.

Regulating Railway Rates.

A clear, concise and authoritative statement of the administration's position on the subject of railway rate regulation was made by Senator Knox at last night's banquet of the chamber of commerce. The President's policy in the matter is simply in line with his insistence upon a "square deal" for everyone. How this policy is to be extended to disputes between railroads and their customers was explained by Senator Knox in language devoid of ambiguity and technicality.

Senator Knox took occasion to correct popular misapprehensions regarding the proposed action of congress. It is not proposed to take away the power of rate-making from the railroads, but simply to vest in the interstate commission authority to substitute a reasonable rate for one found by it after complaint and full hearing to be unreasonable. The rate must be proved to be unreasonable. There must be no snap judgment. Opportunity is to be provided for the fullest hearing and argument. Then the action of the commission will necessarily be subject to review in the United States circuit court. Thus a complete remedy is provided for the railroads against injustice. Senator Knox effectively punctured the legal argument recently interposed by Mr. Richard Olney, showing the unquestionable constitutionality of the proposed amendment.

To the objection that the commission would not be competent to pass upon the reasonableness of a rate because of the technical character of the work, for which railway experts only are qualified, it was aptly shown that no greater power is conferred upon the commission than is possessed by courts of equity, which daily pass upon the evidence of experts in mechanics, medicine, art and finance. The legality of any act, however technical or complex, may be made the subject of inquiry in a court. The commission now has power and does pass on this question, but lacks power to enforce its decision.

In the opinion of Senator Knox, "a very short and simple law," two brief amendments, would provide the desired remedy. For such a law, to operate along the lines which Senator Knox suggests, there seems to be a generally imperative demand, and it should be given careful consideration at the coming session of congress.

The Business Situation.

If there were any lingering doubts as to the outlook for business they must have been removed this week by the publication of the quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation. That report showed unfilled orders on the books of the corporation amounting to 5,865,377 tons, the largest total in the history of the company. The nearest approach to these figures occurred in the March quarter of 1903. It will be recalled that at that time there was an urgent demand for material and consumers bid a high premium for quick delivery. The railroads were overwhelmed with business, just as they are today, and the congestion became so great and the increased expense so large as to reduce net earnings. It was a case of having "too much of a good thing." Since then, however, immense sums have been expended in increasing facilities of both railroads and manufacturing plants, and business is not likely to be hampered by the same causes this year.

It will be recalled, however, that it was in that same year 1903 that a reaction occurred in financial and industrial circles, and that it was well along into 1904 before the country recovered from the effects. The real cause of that reaction, it was subsequently admitted, was the speculative excesses of the closing months of 1902 and the first quarter of 1903. Stock market prices were rushed upward regardless of values, and the fever of speculation extended to commodities, especially cotton. The rise in call loan rates from 5 to 35 per cent was unheeded. The result was active competition between commercial borrowers and speculators for the use of credits. The commercial borrower got the preference, and forced liquidation in the stock market ensued. The resultant decline disturbed confidence and finally brought about a period of distrust. So great was the latter that corporations of good standing were unable to borrow on favorable terms, and adopted the alternative of postponing improvements. Orders were cancelled and new projects were held in abeyance. The contraction in financial and industrial circles was one of the most remarkable ever experienced.

There is no longer any serious dispute regarding the cause and effect of our last period of depression. The cause was over-speculation which strained the resources of the money market. The effect was in some part chargeable to bankers, who did not put on the brakes soon enough. Without the aid of bankers there could be no "corners" in commodities and no large speculative pools in the stock market to upset the equilibrium between price and value. There are some points of similarity between the situation today and three years ago, and much depends upon the custodians of banking credit whether the parallel continues, or whether it will stop short of repeating the experiences of 1903.

The Chinese minister's hint that Uncle Sam should be a little more chummy is worth a thought.

The men "with stolen goods in their pockets" should be given a stern rebuke next Tuesday.

Mr. Castle is now experiencing the effect of the boomerang.

Berry's Measure Taken.

If the people of Pennsylvania could know William H. Berry as the citizens of Chester county know him—here in his home—he would be turned from with the scorn that is due the most monumental political fraud and hypocrite that ever trod the state. It is the common expressed opinion since the man has been tried as mayor, since he has gone about Pennsylvania and deliberately lied about the conditions in Chester and about the city's public officials, that William H. Berry has fallen lower in political infamy than any citizen would have believed possible before he entered public life last spring.—Chester Citizen.

The "Bunch" Sized Up.

If some one offered you a bunch of ragweeds with a couple of roses among them and called it a bouquet of roses, you'd think the giver was either "daft" or took you for an "easy mark." Read the analysis of the Orphan's ticket, by the Star and note the proportion of Republicans in the bunch! Two! Well your not daft, so you will hardly be "easy" enough to accept that bunch as Republicans or vote for that ticket, simply because the Orphan advocates say it is "made up of Republicans."—Turkeyfoot News.

Plummer Properly Sized Up.

"J Lee Plummer is a man of good character and highest integrity. He has demonstrated fair ability in the legal profession and has certain knowledge of treasury operations. He is highly esteemed by his neighbors, who testify he is honest and capable. There are no political vagaries charged against him. Assuredly he is every whit as good a man as Berry and as much to be trusted."—Altoona Gazette.

The Vote of Rebuke.

A vote for J. Lee Plummer will be a vote against the calumniators and character assassins.—Williamsport Gazette.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

Our Emotional Natures Need to Be Cultivated and Schooled.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Between the acting of a dreadful thing
And the first motion, all the interim is Like a phantasma, or a hideous dream:
The Genius and the mortal instruments
Are then in council; and the state of man,
Like to a little kingdom, suffers then
The nature of an insurrection.
—Shakespeare.

There is a very general disposition on the part of the more intellectual and cultured to ignore, or at least to discredit, the emotional element in man's make-up.

Their chief argument is that the emotions are liable to lead one astray, having neither sense of right nor the quality of discretion to control them.

This argument is very weak, almost too weak to be worthy of notice.

None of the senses, or feelings which prompt us to act possess the quality of discretion. This quality, like the sense of right, belongs to the group presided over by judgment.

That which we call conscience is the ever ready go-between, the faithful monitor who calls for judgment on every doubtful play of the emotions, even before another move is made.

If, however, the emotions have not been disciplined and taught to heed the monitor they may run riot and lead us into trouble and difficulties of the worst sort.

But if they have been cultivated and disciplined they contribute largely to our happiness and usefulness, for it is from these we receive the impulses to perform acts of kindness, or to selfishly help ourselves.

It is most important, therefore, that the emotional natures of children should be carefully cultivated.

Religious revivals are held by some to be mere emotional storms which soon blow over, leaving a lot of wreckage to be cared for by the sober senses.

This may be true at times, but hardly ever; at least, not so often as to call for the abandoning of the religious revival.

The average individual is naturally emotional to a greater or less degree. Without this quality man would be as coldly indifferent to the comfort of his fellows as is the average animal.

It is true that animals are more or less emotional, but they are blindly so, while man can, through reason and judgment, not only control his emotions, but can so cultivate them that they will conduct him into and along the most pleasant paths that lead through this vale of life.

The emotions, like human tastes, may become dulled, even stupefied, by neglect and disuse, therefore they need to be excited, stirred up, and exercised; hence, the wisdom, the usefulness and the efficiency of the revival, whether political, social or religious.

Most persons act mainly upon impulses from within, without which they would remain inactive, negligent of body, mind and soul.

Now that impulses come from the emotional centers, you can readily understand how it is that revivals are not only beneficial, but are really essential to the moral, social and political welfare of the people.

The abuse of a good thing may lead to bad results, but this does not prove that it is not a good thing when used discreetly and with good intentions.

Call it psychology of the mob, if you please, for that will come as near explaining the phenomena associated with revivals as any other phrase or sentence.

Emotional energy is most subtle, penetrating the mind and heart, and through these prompting men to deeds of greatness or to deeds of madness. And nothing seems to excite emotional energy like other emotional energy.

Thus it is that one who possesses this energy in a marked degree can excite the emotions of others by first exciting his emotions to a high tension. This is usually done by appealing to the sympathies of those to be aroused to action.

If the cause be just and the demand reasonable, then will such an appeal be justifiable, and the results laudable and profitable.

Emotional excitement may lead to bad results as well as good, according to the nature of the exciting spirit.

There may be several anarchists in a community, but as long as they are isolated from each other no harm may come; but let them get together, sing a few anarchistic songs, listen to a few flaming and inflammatory speeches, and you have a mob ready to kill, burn and destroy without sense or judgment.

Psychology of the mob is the explanation for this phenomena.

A religious, or any social assembly, may be affected psychologically, but the intent of the exciting forces, and the state of mind and heart of the assembly being laudable, the resultant phenomena will also be laudable.

In these assemblies there may be many who only need to have their emotions aroused in order to be prompted to do that which they have long known to be right and proper.

Have Fallen Flat.

It is less than a week yet until election day and already the Democratic campaign of slander and abuse has fallen flat. It is true some of their alleged orators are claiming the election of Berry by a plurality of 60,000 votes, but they put forth the same claim last year when the majority against them was more than half a million votes.—Meadville Gazette.

PURDON CLARKE WILL BECOME A CITIZEN

Titled Head of Metropolitan Art Museum Admires Morgan's Judgment.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Pittsburghers now enjoying the annual art exhibition of the Carnegie institute will be interested in the interview given by Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke, the new head of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, who arrived today. He will establish a permanent residence here and become an American citizen. He referred to the investments by J. Pierpont Morgan, and said Mr. Morgan had displayed wonderful tact in purchasing art treasures; that this keenness was on a par with his commercial and financial cleverness, and that the things which Mr. Morgan bought six or seven years ago could now be sold by him at an enormous profit. Speaking of America and art, Sir Caspar said: "Americans are equal to Europeans in art judgment, I am satisfied. The American buys everywhere, and, as a rule, when a good thing turns up the American, because of his liberal ideas, gets the first call. It is a hard thing to catch an American with bogus art. The men who pay big prices for art treasures are usually bosses in commerce, and I have found the good commercial agent usually makes a keen art purchaser."

Chases Liner With Tugboat.

A forgetful porter on the night mail from Dublin, a wild dash in a rickety Irish jaunting car down to the White Star line docks at Queenstown, and an exciting chase in a tugboat, were the salient features of a story told today by Mrs. H. R. Eddy, a cousin of Ambassador Reid, and a passenger on the Cedric. "You see," she said, "the porter forgot to wake us when it came time to change cars for the Queenstown express, and so we had to take a slower train. We got one of those awful Irish jaunting cars at the station and reached the dock just as the Cedric left. After a frantic search we found a tugboat, bundled our luggage in, and set off after the ship, which was perhaps half a mile away. Luckily she hadn't got under full headway, and so we caught her after a most exciting chase."

Young Waldorf Astor Very English.

William Waldorf Astor, Jr., arrived today on the Cedric. He wore a monocle, pale, cream-colored spats, a cruller-shaped hat and a British accent as thick as Cheshire cheese. In answer to a customs inspector's query he said: "Oh, yaas, I'm an Englishman, doncher know." William Waldorf Astor, Jr., also brought over with him 33 suits of West End glad rags, two cockney valets and a sardonic smile that is frozen in his face. He will book at the Hotel Netherlands until he has drawn up his visiting list.

Flower Show Breaks All Records.

Thousands have thronged the Herald Square Exhibition hall since Tuesday to view the display of flowers at the great chrysanthemum show of the American institute, which closed tonight. For 24 years the institute has held these exhibits annually, and the present affair far outstrips any of its predecessors. Perhaps the most beautiful single exhibition in the hall was a large chrysanthemum and 50 enormous white blooms. It brought the first prize in its class for its owner, H. McK. Twombly.

Must Accept Even "Straw Bonds."

Police Commissioner McAdoo received this morning a long opinion from Corporation Counsel Delany regarding the acceptance of bail bonds by the police. The corporation counsel said, in effect, the police must accept bail bonds in cases of misdemeanor, even if the parties offering bail are professional bondsmen but if there is any doubt about the security the police should put the bondsmen under oath. They have no right to hold prisoners over, because it interferes with their rights as citizens and is a violation of the law. Recently, in the Tenderloin district, Police Capt. Dooley refused to accept a bail bond in the case of misdemeanor.

Finn Is for the Saloon Men.

Twenty hotel and saloon keepers, whose license have been revoked under the Ambler law, but who are still doing business in hope the appellate division of the supreme court will declare the law unconstitutional, were arraigned before Magistrate Finn in the Yorkville police court. "One arrest in each case is enough," said Magistrate Finn. "If the law is declared unconstitutional these arrests will then be for only technical violations of the law."

Rockefeller Is Well Guarded.

John D. Rockefeller has come to the city for the winter and is at his own house, 4 West Fifty-fourth street. Mr. Rockefeller came in from Pocantico Hills, closely guarded by two athletic-looking young men, who walked on either side of him from the time he left the train in the Grand Central depot until he entered his house. Mr. Rockefeller is more closely guarded now than ever before.

Only Fit for the Dark Closet.

Mrs. Warren's profession was described by Rudyard Kipling as "the oldest in the world." It is a profession not commonly referred to in polite society. When Bernard Shaw wrote the play in which he describes the possibilities of that profession and cynically excused its practice, he never gave thought to having his drama presented on any stage. Manifestly it was a play for the closet—and a dark closet at that.—Chicago Tribune.

They Probably Will.

There seems to be little hope of securing the body of William Penn by the University of Pennsylvania. The body is buried in England and the society of Friends in that country make vigorous objection to the project. No doubt this attitude causes a feeling of resentment, but the societies of both countries will probably remain Friends.—Albany (N. Y.) Journal.

An Unexplained Candidate.

Candidate Pattison has traveled extensively in Ohio since his nomination forced wondering citizens to ask, "Why Pattison for governor instead of any other man that might be hit upon almost by chance?" He is no longer unknown, but he is still in large measure unexplained.—Cleveland Leader.

Some Wholesome Advice.

This is a good time for every Republican in the county to settle down to the good notion of supporting the whole Republican ticket at next Tuesday's election and just kindly speak to his neighbor about doing the same thing. The ticket is a good one and will be elected from top to bottom.—Kittanning Tribune.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

W. J. Diehl, former mayor of Pittsburgh and grand commander of the Knights Templar of Pennsylvania, was the central figure of interest for a dozen other officers of the grand commandery at the Fort Pitt hotel and Union station last night. The officers had spent the day at Beaver Falls, where the new Beaver Valley Commandery No. 84, Knights Templar, was instituted with impressive ceremonies. After the return to the city from Beaver Falls the officers went to the Fort Pitt hotel, where a conference was held on the grand commandery meeting for next year. The officers took dinner at the Fort Pitt.

"We had a very good day at Beaver Falls," said Mr. Diehl at the Union station, where he escorted the other grand officers for departure to their respective homes over the state. "There were probably 200 of the Knights present from Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, and there were 14 grand officers present for the installation of the new commandery. This starts off with 45 charter members and has every promise of being one of the good commanderies of the state. After the constitution and installation exercises, the 200 Sir Knights divided into three parties and went to the churches at Beaver Falls, where the ladies served an excellent dinner."

"What! a girl,
Just a girl!"
Ah, but why the sadness there;
Why the bitterness displayed?
Some day some strong man will swear
That the great round world was made
For that girl,
Just that girl.

Why did Adam take the bite?
For a girl,
Just a girl.
Oh, would heaven still be bright
And would any good men care
To achieve it if he might Never claim forever there
Just a girl,
Glorious girl.

SHOULD WOMEN VOTE NEXT TUESDAY?

Prominent club women and social leaders of Pittsburgh will discuss Woman's Suffrage in next Sunday's Gazette. You will be interested in this symposium, which presents many striking arguments, and you will be interested in a score of other features in

THE SUNDAY GAZETTE

There will be the first of a series of articles by the Rev. John Watson, author of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush." He will write about "The Cosmopolitan Scot," and tell why he is so popular in America. You should not miss this series of eight articles by the popular

IAN MACLAREN.

Another feature that will attract wide attention is an illustrated account of "William Dean Howells in His Old Home." The popular novelist is a native of Ashtabula, O., and W. Frank McClure has given a most picturesque account of his literary beginnings, which should gratify every admirer of

W. D. HOWELLS.

Many other features will make this number a notable one. Among them are:

"Christy Mathewson, Pitcher," a sketch of the league's greatest twirler.

"Old John Chinaman," an illustrated account of life in the Celestial empire, with its picturesque phases.

"Are Angels Masculine, Feminine or Neuter?" What artists and sacred writers have thought upon the subject.

"Barefoot and Treetop Cures" an entertaining article on freak hygiene by Felix L. Oswald.

"The Decline of Angelhood," brilliant and witty social sidelights by Kate Masterson.

"The Purple Dress," another of the clever stories, full of human interest, written by O. Henry.

"The Light That Lies in Woman's Eyes," an affecting love story by Vincent Ellis.

"Tripped Over a Pocketbook," another exciting detective story by Derek Vane.

"A Female Tolstoy Talks About the Simple Life," England's most remarkable woman interviewed by W. B. Northrup.

"Rudyard Kipling's Worst Story," a caustic bit of criticism by George Seibel.

"Conkling's Hate for Blaine Makes Garfield President," more of Col. A. K. McClure's reminiscences of old-time politics.

"Chafing Dish Suppers," a most suggestive and helpful page of the Housewives' Congress.

"The Price of Virtue, or the Raffler Rebuked" — one more pointed Little Poem of Greater Pittsburgh.

"New Gowns Aglitter With Tinsel," the latest modes described by Mme. Fullerton.

"Gowns for the Debutante," suggestions for the Home Dressmaker by Catherine Howard.

"Ruth Ellings Talk" will discuss the degenerate woman.

All the regular features will be there as usual, including

BUSTER BROWN,
MISTER COON,
JIMMY SWIFT,
FOXY GRANDPA,
TINY TADS,
LATTER-DAY RESCUES,

and many others.

BOOKS and BOOKMEN

BY GEORGE SEIBEL

THERE have been fewer publications of prime importance this week than during several weeks past, but several of exceedingly great interest. Charles Major's "Yolanda" is perhaps the only one that has been awaited by a large clientele of readers, won by "When Knighthood Was in Flower," F. Marion Crawford's "Fair Margaret" is also sure of a warm welcome. Both of these books bear the imprint of the Macmillan Company.

Other publications of special note are "The Florence of Landor," by Lilian Whiting, published by Little, Brown & Co.; "Two in Italy," by Maud Howe, published by the same firm; "Lem Jucklin," by Opie Read, and "Sons of Men," by G. B. Lancaster, both published by Doubleday, Page & Co.

THE USELESS LIFE.

The House of Mirth. By Edith Wharton. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 555 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

NOT since "Madame Bovary" have we seen a woman's soul turned inside out like Lily Bart's. Every fold and fiber is exhibited relentlessly; it is as if a searchlight, shining through the physical body, revealed the flabbiness of every moral muscle, the atrophied volitions and desires, the shriveled stamina of self. Lily Bart is the consummate flower of the useless life; to continue the botanical simile, she is the most remarkable case of social zygomorphism, the development of highly irregular forms adapted to insect agency. Judge Grant probably had this simile in mind when he called the heroine of his latest novel "The Orchid;" and Mrs. Wharton herself sums up Lily Bart in one sentence, as follows: "Inherited tendencies had combined with early training to make her the highly specialized product she was: an organism as helpless out of its narrow range as the sea-anemone torn from its rock."

That "narrow range" is the uppermost circle of society. There Lily Bart's solitary function was to please. A little lower than the seventh social heaven she might have been asked to play the piano; here there is no intimation that she has even caught this plebeian accomplishment, any more than she could turn to the washtub. There is no evidence that she ever read a book, though we are told that she once "picked up" the "Eumenides;" as for the obsolete feminine avocation of tatting or its modern equivalents, these, of course, belong to the lower limbo of social life, and are not even to be mentioned in the Van Osburgh and Van Alstyne precinct. Lily Bart has but one accomplishment—how to please. She reminds one of the traditional angels and saints who sing around the throne, and seemingly never vary their continuous performance by taking any exercise, nor ever sit down because—they might crumple their wings.

Lily Bart's one function is to please; her sole ambition is to capture a husband enormously wealthy. Her function does not always work normally; sometimes she pleases herself, and so she wrecks her ambition. "She could not figure herself as anywhere but in a drawing-room, diffusing elegance as a flower sheds perfume." And she is out of place anywhere else; she cannot breathe the air; the smell of cooking makes her ill; the smoke of cigarets is more congenial.

She fails in her schemes to capture a husband, though she comes down from Percy Gryce to Simon Rosedale. At the same time her impecuniosity is accentuated by bridge-whist, though she is not a gambler, like Mrs. Thurston's Clodagh; Lily Bart plays only to please others. She borrows money from her friend's husband—virtually borrows it; by a multitude of minor indiscretions, which make her vulnerable at last to insult and suspicion, she brings about her exile from the charmed social circle where there is at least a divorce and a case of appendicitis in each family. But she cannot live outside of "the great gilt cage in which they were all huddled for the mob to gaze at." When Bertha Dorset's treason and her aunt's testament make her an outcast and a pauper, her doom is spoken. "Diffusing elegance" is not a good preparation for earning a living as a milliner. When she who had been bred upon brilliance and taught to abhor nothing so much as dinginess, comes down to a cheap boarding-house and strong tea, "tis as pitiful as Minerva soliciting subscriptions for a ten-cent magazine.

And here comes the most marvelous part of Mrs. Wharton's book. Along with Lily's social degradation she pictures Lily's moral growth. Flaubert shows us, step by step, the downward course of Emma Bovary; but—"facilis descensus averno"—that is easy. It is far, far more difficult to render credible the rehabilitation of a weak character, the regeneration of a sordid soul, as Mrs. Wharton has done. With admirable artistic sense, however, she has not metamorphosed her heroine into a moral prodigy, as the bad boy in the Sunday school book experiences a change of heart when he sees the squire's barn burned to the ground, and straightway pursues the shining path of rectitude which makes him a respected merchant in the end. No; Lily's regeneration is passive; it is a clinging to ideals that had been covered up, and not yet lost; a holding on firmly to the last shreds of self-respect that had not been bartered. Your moralizing novelist who has his eye on the elusive dollar would have converted Lily into a glorified Gerty Farish; would have discovered a flaw in her aunt's will which gave her the fortune; would have let Selden find out about the packet of letters which she might have used to get back into the "gilded cage," and lay his heart at her feet in voluble magnanimity; or would at least have had her take a fever after getting back from Nettie Struthers' home, working out during convalescence some consummation deveutly to be wished. But Mrs. Wharton is too much of an artist to turn a lily into a cauliflower, or to rescue her heroine from the brink of the precipice as Mrs. Thurston does Clodagh.

Only in two instances has Mrs. Wharton's sense of artistic fitness stumbled. The slang in Mrs. Peniston's inquiries about the Gryce-Van Osburgh wedding is as incredible as the precocity of Nettie Struthers' four-months-old baby, which sat upright in its crib, "with incipient anxiety struggling for expression on a countenance still placid with sleep." It is the only baby in the book; it is a property baby, and is out of its milieu. Mrs. Wharton is out of her milieu, too, in the warm kitchen, preparing "infantile food." The inmates of the "gilded cage" she can portray with far more fidelity. How like a modern Juvenal, toned down in deference to latter-day decency, reads the description of the table at Bellomont:

From Gus Trenor, with his heavy carnivorous head sunk between his shoulders, as he preyed on a jellied plover, to his wife, at the opposite end of a bank of orchids, suggestive, with her glaring good looks, of a jeweler's window lit by electricity. And between the two, what a long stretch of vacuity! How dreary and trivial these people were! Lily reviewed them with a scornful impatience. Carry Fisher, with her shoulders, her eyes, her divorces, her general air of embodying a "spicy paragraph;" young Silverton, who had meant to live on proofreading and write an epic, and who now lived on his friends and had become critical of truffles; Alice Wetherall, an animated visiting list, whose most fervid convictions turned on the wording of invitations and the engraving of dinner cards; Wetherall, with his perpetual nervous nod of acquiescence, his air of agreeing with people before he knew what they were saying; Jack Stepney, with his confident smile and anxious eyes, half-way between the sheriff and an heiress; Gwen Van Osburgh, with all the guileless confidence of a young girl who has always been told that there is no one richer than her father.

Quite different from Juvenal's sting or Martial's bitterness, however, is Mrs. Wharton's attitude toward this society and its individual monads. This is what lifts her book even above Judge Grant's "Unleavened Bread" and the many cheaper replicas of the social satirist. There is neither the maudlin sympathy of Dickens nor the maudlin censoriousness of Thackeray, but a perfect artistic poise, through which pity and derogation filter impersonally like divine mercy and justice. The book is a masterpiece—in its unfolding of character, in its use of the subtlest tints and values, in its dramatic crescendo to a grand climax, in its consummate style that unveils the finest nuances without girlish rhetoric, and not least in its lessons. The first is that of the republic of the spirit, which means "freedom from everything, from money, from poverty, from ease and anxiety;" the second is that of the real alchemy, which "consists in being able to turn gold back into something else."

A RED SAUNDERS ROMANCE.

Plain Mary Smith. By Henry Wallace Phillips. New York: The Century Company. 318 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

We all remember Red Saunders, big and burly, chivalrous and ungrammatical, the regenerate essence of the unregenerate West, brusque and picturesque in manner, a Solon with a sombrero. In many short stories we have followed his varying fortunes, even to the land of Mary Wilkins, and everywhere found him a heartily entertaining fellow. So it is without misgivings that we follow him upon his first extended excursion in a full length romance. He justifies our confidence at the outset by smashing a trainshed with a locomotive and a little later by going away to sea. He was a boy, not any worse than Huck Finn or Tom Sawyer or the rest of boyhood, but saddled with a rigorous parent who believed in sin, original and plagiarized. So Red went off to sea. How he met Mary Smith on the boat, bound for Panama to teach school; how he became her cavalier and worshiper; how his sentiments were put to test in Panama by a real revolution, which he finally quelled with cans of tomatoes for ammunition—all this makes an exceedingly interesting tale. But the predominant quality of the book is its humor. There is the rich story, for instance, of Red's misbehaviors in church:

The sermon was about Mrs. Jael. She took in one of the enemy, fed him fine, and while he was asleep, grabbed a hammer and a railroad spike and nailed him to the floor by his head. Whilst I was revolving in my mind how, and on what person, I could best apply these teachings, another thought occurred to me.

"Mother," I whispers, pulling her sleeve.

"S-s-s-h!" says she; "what is it, Will?"

"You never could have done that," I says.

She squeezed my hand and whispered back:

"You're right, Will," with an approving smile.

"No," says I, still full of my discovery, "you'd have pounded your thumb."

The vein of whimsical extravagance is the main ingredient of this humor. "I've heard about these wonderful destroyers," says Sandy—"cannon a quarter of a mile long that shoot bullets the size of hogsheads with force enough to knock a grasshopper off a spear of wheat at twenty-three and one-third miles; and while I'm somewhat impressed, I can't but feel there's nothing like the old-fashioned, reliable, unloaded gun." Sometimes there is a substratum of true wisdom under this humor, as when Red observes that "you can't get a crowd of fools to hold together unless there's a rascal to lead them." It is for these things that the story must be read, and not for the story, though it's not a bad story either. But Red Saunders would be good company in any surroundings.

HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS,
Author of "Plain Mary Smith."

HUGUENOT AND SPANIARD.

The Spanish Settlements Within the Present Limits of the United States—Florida, 1562-1574. By Woodbury Lowery. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 500 pages, with maps. Price, $2.50.

Mr. Lowery is one of those faithful students who explore the by-ways of the past with a zeal which is never appreciated save by the popular historian whose path it renders smooth, and never rewarded save like virtue. In a former volume he told the story of the Spanish settlements from 1513 to 1561; now he traces the early history of Florida from the French settlement under Ribaut and Laudonniere, to the massacre of the Huguenot colony by the terrible Menendez and the vengeance of the French. Mr. Lowery has labored indefatigably and shed much light upon the men and events of that troublous period. His work is essential to a thorough comprehension of early American history.

PLAYERS AT THEIR FIRESIDES.

Famous Actors and Actresses in Their Homes. By Gustav Kobbe. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. Two volumes, 222 and 243 pages, illustrated. Price, $3.00.

The home life of prominent players is protrayed in these two richly illustrated gift volumes. In one we are introduced to John Drew, William Gillette, Richard Mansfield, E. H. Sothern and his wife, Virginia Harned, Francis Wilson and the two theatrical clubs, "The Lambs" and "The Players." In the second volume separate chapters are devoted to Maude Adams, Ethel Barrymore, Julia Marlowe, Annie Russell and Mrs. Fiske, while others are introduced into such groups as "The Actress's Christmas" and "Some Actresses in Summer." The illustrations are many and well printed. These papers originally appeared in the Ladies' Home Journal.

SANE SOCIOLOGY.

Fate of the Middle Classes. By Walter G. Cooper. New York: Consolidated Retail Booksellers. Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co.

That "the consumer is between the upper and the nether millstone" is the text of Mr. Cooper's work. It is a sober and thoughtful study of the economic blunders that render possible a state of affairs when "bread and coal are drugs on the market while people go hungry and cold." He does not denounce the trusts, but recognizes their function in industrial evolution. To him "the stumbling-blocks of the present are the stepping-stones of the future," and he foresees a time when production will be so regulated that a surplus or a famine will be alike impossible. The book is a pleasing contrast to the average run of socialistic platitude and fallacy.

A DRUMMER'S ADVENTURES.

Representing John Marshall & Co. By Earl Underwood. New York: G. W. Dillingham & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 171 pages. Price, $1.

The "Confessions of Edward R. Ward, Drummer," are slangy, but genuinely funny. The letters he gets from his firm and from a dissatisfied customer at once reveal that a new humorist has arisen, and the succeeding chapters confirm it. The drummer's adventures in a sleeping car, his political address, his evening at the opera, and his experiences in hotels are very laughable and seldom transgress good taste. The book will be enjoyed by all who know the genus "drummer," and especially by all who have ever been on the road.

PLEASANT IMPERIAL FOLKS.

The International Spy. By Allen Upward. New York: G. W. Dillingham Co. 310 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

The species of fiction invented by the late Gregor Samarow, the author of "European Mines and Countermines," is Allen Upward's chosen field. One might call his new book a diplomatic detective story; he calls it a "secret history of the Russo-Japanese war." The hero generally has a quiet chat with some emperor or empress before luncheon, and spends off on all sorts of secret missions one after another. Kaiser Wilhelm is good enough to show him the "planetary crown" he has himself designed for the head of the Hohenzollerns who will rule the coming world-empire. The czar shows him a moneybox on the mantelshelf and tells him that a fine of one ruble is imposed every time the word "majesty" is used—"so be careful, M. V." There are other absurd things in the book, and on the whole Allen Upward's imagination is more daring than ingenious.

A PHYSICIAN'S VIEWS.

Vital Questions. By Henry D. Chapin. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell & Co. 189 pages. Price, $1.00.

Mr. Chapin is a physician. He is also a thinker. His professional and mental habits combine to give peculiar weight to what he says about the ills of society. Thus, in commenting upon our multiplicity of charities it does not escape his view that "a collateral danger is in keeping alive sickly and defective classes, who are often as prolific as they are inefficient." The same observation has been made by Haeckel and others as to the survival of the unfit under modern methods of sentimental beneficence. Dr. Chapin is not a sentimentalist, nor is he a brutalitarian like Nietzsche. Chapters like that on "Poverty," it were well for both poor and rich to read and heed; those on "Health," "The Child," "Religion" and "Death" are full of wholesome stimulus to higher ideals.

ROD-AND-GUN ADVENTURES.

Sporting Sketches. By Edwyn Sandys. New York: The Macmillan Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 389 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.75.

Hunting and fishing adventures, tingling with excitement and bringing the reader into intimate communion with the spirit of the wild, are recorded with brisk and graphic pen by Mr. Sandys. Whereas his other books, "Trapper Jim" and "Sportsman Joe," were written primarily for boys, this is a book for every sportsman and for the naturalist as well. Perhaps its most distinctive feature is its robustness, which sets it apart from such old-world sporting books as "Christopher in His Sporting Jacket" or the meditative serenity of the "Compleat Angler." Perhaps the overworked word "strenuous" best describes the book; but it is almost brutal at times. "A Skirmish with Squirrels" and "Robert White, Jr.," are among the most sympathetic chapters.

THE ADOLESCENT FEMININE.

The Household of Peter. By Rosa Nouchette Carey. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company. 458 pages. Price, $1.50.

In adolescent feminine literature Miss Carey is past mistress. Her latest tale is about a doctor with a houseful of sisters, and of course the problem is to marry off Peter and as many of his sisters as possible. The plot is rambling and leisurely; there are tea-parties and fancy work, exciting books like "John Halifax, Gentleman," furnish the literary pabulum; and several cases of severe illness and convalescence add to the genial atmosphere. A lofty moral tone pervades the book, in proof whereof it may be adduced that Miss Carey prefers automobile accidents to divorce as a mode of terminating ill-assorted marriages. The book is distinguished from most of Miss Carey's other works by not having any ivy-clad cottage in it, nor any unworldly clergyman.

RILEY AND TWAIN COMPOUND

Back Home. By Eugene Wood. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 286 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

Healthy humor and genuine pathos mark the sketches of Eugene Wood. They remind one of nothing so much as of Riley's "Back to Old Aunt Mary's" mixed up well with some chapters from "Huckleberry Finn" and seasoned with a little up-to-date slang. "Circus Day" is a vision of by-gone glory; "The Sabbath School" a masterpiece of sly humor. "The Old Red Schoolhouse" and "Christmas Back Home" make the reader feel young again. There are many exquisite touches in this book.

MRS. WARD TEN YEARS AGO.

Sir George Tressady. By Mrs. Humphry Ward. New York: The Macmillan Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 659 pages.

Ten years ago, when "Sir George Tressady" first appeared, Mrs. Ward was still known as the author of "Robert Elsmere." Since then she has acquired the facility of routine in her novels, and is generally known as the author of the latest to appear. "Sir George Tressady," like "Marcella" and "David Grieve," is more vital and original than any thing she has done lately, for while her art has ripened her inspiration has decayed. So a new edition of this novel, in one volume, is to be hailed as a good thing and ought to be passed on.

WAGNER IN BLANK VERSE.

Lohengrin. By Oliver Huckel. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell & Co. 77 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Here is Wagner's music drama retold in English verse by Oliver Huckel, who has already translated "Parsifal." He has done much better with "Lohengrin" than with his first adventure. At any rate, he has kept clear of banalities and bathos, though his blank verse is generally monotonous and uninspired.

IN DARKY DIALECT.

Banjo Talks. By Anne Virginia Culbertson. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Company. 171 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.

Miss Culbertson's darky dialect verse is as good as the stories she told in "At the Big House." Paul Laurence Dunbar hasn't written anything better than these songs, though he commands a note of pathos which Miss Culbertson lacks. But for the ebullient jollity and racial humor, and also for the mystic and melodious sides of his nature, the old-fashioned darky could find no happier interpreter. The volume is illustrated from photographs by Mary Morgan Kelpp and Houstis Pratt Cook.

CONCORD PHILOSOPHY.

An Emerson Calendar. Edited by Huntington Smith. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 118 pages. Price, 50 cents.

No author lends himself more readily to the uses of the anthologist than Emerson; he built his lectures up by bricks of thought, and they are easily taken out and set separately. In this dainty little volume some searching thought in prose or poetry is set down for each day in the year, making a delightful commentary on men and things as Emerson saw them, and a daily treasury of noble sentiment. The book will commend itself as an appropriate gift.

VICTORY OF THE FALLEN.

The Success of Defeat. By Maltbie D. Babcock. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 80 pages. Price, 50 cents.

One of the few addresses of Dr. Babcock that were preserved in full, this is also one of his best. It was delivered in Baltimore in 1896, and is an oratorical echo of William Wetmore Story's "Hymn of the Conquered." High hope and courage radiate from every line. Those who are facing life on seven cents a day, those who know the "bludgeonings of Fate," will here win fresh inspiration and faith. It is one of the noblest utterances of the lamented preacher.

GEN. GORDON'S MEMOIRS.

Reminiscences of the Civil War. By General John B. Gordon. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. 474 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

A new and cheaper edition of General Gordon's reminiscences, published two years ago, will be welcomed by all who are interested in the leaders and events of the Civil War. The man who led the famous attack on Fort Steadman was in the thick of the conflict from the first rebel yell to the surrender at Appomattox. It is a stirring book, presenting the Confederate view, and should be widely read.

NEW EDUCATIONAL WORKS.

A number of new school publications have just come from the press of the American Book Company. Perhaps the most important is a Thucydides for colleges, edited by W. A. Lamberton of the University of Pennsylvania. The introduction and notes to this particularly difficult author are excellent. Books II and III are selected from the eight books of the "Peloponnesian War" for the purpose of this text-book ($1.75).

"Selections from Livy," edited by Harry E. Burton of Dartmouth college, attempts to include the best passages from all the 35 books of Livy. The introduction contains a discussion of Roman historical writing and Livy's life and work. The notes—historical, linguistic and grammatical—would be useful for younger students. There are six maps. ($1.50).

"Episodes from the Gallic and Civil Wars," edited by Maurice M. Mather of Harvard, is another Caesar for schools. The sections on the Gallic war are equivalent in amount to the first four books. From the "Civil War" about two-thirds as much is taken, including Curio's African campaign and the struggle between Caesar and Pompey. The book is abundantly supplied with illustrations, maps and plans. ($1.25.)

"La Fille de Thuiskon," edited by Kate Thecla Conley, is a curious volume. It is made up of German poems translated into French prose by Labrunie, Goethe, Schiller, Buerger, Koerner, and other bards from over the Rhine are translated faithfully, and the book might not be out of place in the schools of France. In English-speaking classes it is a queer mongrel. One who knows German poetry, however, can derive much enjoyment from finding passages like this from Goethe's "Erl-King":

Er hat den Knaben wohl in dem Arm,
Er fasst ihn sicher, er hasit ihn warm—

translated as follows: "Petit enfant qu'il serre dans ses bras pour le garantir de l'humidite et le tenir bien chaudement." (65 cents.)

"Elementary Physical Science," by John F. Woodhull of Columbia, is intended for grammar schools. It makes many common facts, relating to mechanics, fluids and heat, clear to the pupil. He learns why earthenware, in order to hold water must be glazed; why the brownstone fronts of buildings disintegrate; why edged tools must be tempered, etc. (40 cents.)

"An Advanced Arithmetic," by Elmer A. Lyman of the Michigan State Normal college, is intended to meet the requirements of secondary and normal schools. Such methods as are used in the best commercial practice are emphasized, and obsolete methods and problems excluded. The chapters on banking and stocks and bonds give information of a practical character which is rarely found in text-books. (75 cents.)

Frank Carpenter's Geographical Reader on "Africa" is a personally conducted tour in which the children travel through Africa studying the geographical, commercial and industrial features of the continent as they go. They explore the great mountains, ride in caravans across the Sahara, and see for themselves the wonders of the Nile, the Niger, the Kongo, and the Zambesi. (60 cents.)

STRIKE ENDS AT ST. PETERSBURG

Press Censorship Also Abolished Throughout the Russian Empire.

WITTE'S ENEMIES AT WORK

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—The National holiday today in celebration of the anniversary of the emperor's accession to the throne was marked by the formal raising of the general strike in St. Petersburg. While the railroad strike has not yet been declared off, many of the railroad men are returning to work and trains are being gotten through.

The spasm of lawlessness and revolutionary manifestations which everywhere signalized the promulgation of the "constitution" played into the hands of Count Witte's enemies at court, who momentarily overthrown, are again beginning to talk of the necessity for the sternest measures of repression to prevent the whole country from being drawn into the vortex of a revolution. There is no truth in the rumor circulated in certain quarters that the empress has fled abroad. According to reports the reactionaries have a powerful ally in the empress, who desires the autocratic power of the Romanoffs to be handed down unimpaired to her son.

The St. Petersburg municipality has sent the following to the emperor: "The city council greets with delight the welcome freedom granted to the nation and firmly believes in a great and bright future for our beloved country. Long live the emperor of the free Russian nation."

Press Censorship Raised.

The censorship throughout Russia was abolished today, not only over the newspapers but also in the case of private telegrams. The minister of the interior has notified the editors that the regulations for the control of the press are no longer in force.

Count Witte is having trouble in forming a cabinet on acount of the lack of Liberal support. Senator Koni has refused the portfolio of justice and Eugene Troubetskoy, brother of the late rector of the Moscow university, is said to have not even replied to the tender of the ministry of education.

Judging from the frantic appeals which are reaching the embassies here the greatest alarm prevails among the foreign residents in South Russia for the safety of themselves and their property. The German, Austro-Hungarian and British embassies are making energetic representations to the authorities to furnish ample protection. Baron von Achrenthal, the ambassador of Austria-Hungary, visited Gen. Trepoff today and called special attention to the situation at Odessa, and Kieff and today C. A. Spring-Rice, the British charge d'affaires, demanded protection for the persons and property of British subjects at Odessa, Kieff, Rostoff-On-Don and Grodny. The general promised to afford military protection, saying that the garrisons were being reinforced and that energetic measures were being taken to restore order.

May Have Japanese Embassy.

The appointment of M. Bakhmetieff as minister to Japan has been suspended, pending a final decision as to whether the mission at Tokyo will be raised to an embassy. After M. Bakhmetieff's appointment had been decided upon the Japanese government notified the Russian government that it contemplated raising the diplomatic missions to the great powers, including Russia, to the dignity of embassies. Among diplomats it is considered probable that Count Witte may prove a thorn in the side of British and Russian statesmen who are laboring to secure an Anglo-Russian entente. He is likely at least to oppose the scheme which is aimed primarily at the isolation of Germany.

The Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, brother-in-law of Emperor Nicholas, has been relieved of the post of the head of the department of mercantile marine. The department is to be merged with the new ministry of commerce, which probably accounts for the grand duke being relieved of his duties as head of that department. He is the last of the influential quintet of grand dukes who have been the advisers of the emperor.

WORKING ON NEW LINE.

Engineering Party Starts Survey for New Outlet to the Sea Coast.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Thirteen engineers arrived here last night from the Western Maryland railroad and left this morning for Uniontown, Pa. The engineers admitted they are going to lay out a new road, but refused to say where.

It is rumored they are to run a line from Uniontown to connect with the Georges Creek & Cumberland railroad, which it is stated the Western Maryland railroad is about to acquire. It is also stated the line is to connect with the West Virginia Central & Pittsburgh.

STROUP IS UNDER ARREST.

Brother of Prize Fighter Is Charged With Passing Counterfiet Money.

Bernard Stroup, a brother of Solly Stroup the pugilist, was arrested yesterday at Coalport, Clearfield county, by Secret Service Operator J. S. Washer and committed to jail in default of $1,000 bail on two charges of passing counterfeit money. He is charged with passing a silver counterfeit dollar on P. W. Rick, at Altoona, on October 18, also passing two counterfeit silver dollars on D. W. Griffen, at the same place on October 23. Stroup made a desperate effort to evade arrest, drawing a 41-caliber revolver on Operator Washer, who threw him on the floor and took the weapon from him. Stroup recently was liberated from the Western penitentiary, where he served 18 months for burglary.

CLAIM BOTTLE SCALE WAS NOT EVEN CONSIDERED

A conference was held at the Seventh Avenue hotel yesterday between the general executive committees of the Green Glass Bottle Blowers' association. It was rumored that a scale had been arranged on the same basis as last year's, but this was absolutely denied, and it was said that the subject was not even considered. Only some small matters of no interest to the public were brought up, it was stated. The factories are operating without a scale on a basis arranged with the blowers.

VICE PRESIDENT CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Vice President Fairbanks today paid his respects to President Roosevelt, calling at the White House before the cabinet session began. He said he would remain in Washington for a day or two, and then go to the laying of the corner stone of the McKinley memorial at Canton, O., November 16.

Fairman Talks to Veterans.

The War Veterans' association of Allegheny met in the association rooms, North Diamond street, Allegheny, last evening and a large amount of routine business was transacted. The meeting was addressed by John A. Fairman, Republican candidate for county recorder. Mr. Fairman's address was very well received. Arrangements were made to attend the meeting in Carnegie hall tonight in a body.

Former Forestry Agent Indicted.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—Everett B. Thomas, formerly supervisor of the government forest reserves in Southern California, was indicted today by a federal grand jury, charged with having presented false and fictitious claims for expenses to the secretary of the interior during his incumbency.

New Commissioner for Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Announcement was made at the White House today of the appointment of Lawrence H. Graham of New York City, to be commissioner of the interior for Porto Rico, vice John S. Elliott, resigned.

The Death Roll

JACOB KAUFMANN'S BODY IS CONSIGNED TO GRAVE

Rabbi Levy Conducts Services at Home and Interment Is Made at West View Cemetery.

Funeral services over the remains of Jacob Kaufmann, who died in Philadelphia Wednesday, were held at his late home, Beacon and Wightman streets, Squirrel Hill, yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. They were in charge of Rabbi J. Leonard Levy, pastor of Reformed Congregation Rodeph Shalom, of which the deceased was a member. Following the services at the house the remains were interred in the family plot in West View cemetery, Allegheny. During all of the morning there had been many callers at the Kaufmann home to view the body of the dead merchant. The casket was surrounded by floral tributes. The employes of the firm of which he was the founder passed resolutions on his death, and buyers and heads of departments in the store constituted the active pallbearers.

The remarks of the Rev. Dr. Levy were of peculiar appropriateness. In part he said:

Death means peace, rest and beatitude for the dead, but intense grief for the survivors. They die who so much long to live, the healthy and the hopeful. They die who are so much needed here, the protector and the provider. They die that form the charm of life, our friendships and our faith. No heat ever parched more thoroughly, no plough ever furrowed more completely than does death sear and pierce the heart of the bereaved. In the day of desolation, in the hour when around us lie the broken fragments of our hopes and joys, in the day when we speak to the unresponsive clay and weep over the motionless form, none but the abiding God can help, nothing but the hope of immortality can assuage the bitterness of our grief. And when the first intensity of pain is over and time has accustomed us to our loss, nothing will prove of greater consolation than the precious memory of the beloved, whose days were rich in blessing. The radiant picture of the sainted dead will dwell in the memory of their survivors, and though dead, they will speak, though departed they will influence succeeding generations for God and good, for righteousness and truth. Death has all seasons for his own. It will strike the aged oak and blast the mossy bud. With sweet lullaby it will sing to sleep the babe in its innocence; with outstretched wing it will carry away the broken form of the aged. It will bear from the valley of earth to bloom in the land of evergreens the bride robed in her joy; it will take from the vale of tears to the gate of hope the widow clad in mourning. It respects not the spring or the autumn, the summer or the winter of existence.

In his eulogy over the dead Rabbi Levy said:

It was in the bosom of his household that the virtues of this man were most eminently displayed. In an age when home ties are loosening, in these latter days in which domestic bonds are all too lightly esteemed, in an era marked unfortunately by great disregard of the elementary domestic virtues, our departed brother was a splendid example of conjugal fidelity, parental devotion and fraternal affection. If, in the larger affairs of life, his commercial ventures brought him a great measure of success, it will be admitted by all who knew him or knew of him, that in the private affairs of his household his life was far more successful; for as husband, father and brother he was an example to those near to him and an inspiration to those who knew of him. For this we tearfully lay upon his grave a wreath of remembrance, assured that in the keeping of the All Father his soul is safe, and that in the circle of his family and friends his memory will ever remain green.

The choir rendered one of the deceased's favorite hymns and Dr. Levy concluded the services with prayer. There was a short commitment service at the grave and, following a Jewish custom, services for the mourners were held at the home last night and will also be held tonight and on Monday evening.

The honorary pallbearers were Moses Oppenheimer, Moses Bonn, David Hollander, L. W. Frank, Dudwig Kaufmann, Judge Josiah Cohen and B. Trauerman of Pittsburgh, and Samuel Goldsmith of New York and Samuel Hamberger of Baltimore, Md. The active pallbearers were: Charles M. Igel, John L. Geraghty, Isidor Rothstein, Benjamin Kline, Charles Klein, Martin Dunn, Charles Burkholder, Richard Walker, William H. Postner, Joseph Kerling, A. T. Walta and T. Edward Jones.

Among the floral tributes was a broken pillar sent by Kaufmann Brothers' Beneficial association. The dead man's children contributed a pillow of flowers, upon which were the words "Our Father." Mr. Kaufmann's brothers contributed a beautiful floral design. Upon the door was fastened a wreath of autumn leaves, interminglied with which were purple orchids.

Harry C. Robison.

Harry C. Robison, aged 38, formerly a well-known resident and politician of Allegheny, died suddenly yesterday morning at the family residence, Rodgers and Bayne avenues, Bellevue. Mr. Robison was a son of the late S. B. Robison. He was born in Isabella street, Allegheny, and lived there until seven years ago, when the family removed to Bellevue. Mr. Robison was employed by the H. C. Frick Coke Company, and was a member of the Homestead riots and was in the office at the time Mr. Frick's attempted assassination took place. He served two terms as common councilman from the Fourth ward, Allegheny. He was later a clerk at the clerk of courts office. When he removed to Bellevue he was elected justice of the peace of that borough, and was re-elected. He resigned and retired from active political life several months ago. Mr. Robison attended the Bellevue Presbyterian church, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Robison, and the following brothers and sisters: S. D. of Sewickley, Robert H. of Bellevue, B. F. of Bellevue, W. C. of Norwood, Pa., C. W. of Washington, Pa., Mrs. Zant McD. Miller of this city, Mrs. Harry Wirsing of New Castle, and Mrs. George E. Chester of Bellevue.

Mrs. Charlotte M. Mason.

The funeral of Mrs. Charlotte M. Mason, who died on Thursday, will be held from her late residence, 113 Arch street, Allegheny, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The interment will be in Uniondale cemetery. Mrs. Mason was the daughter of Samuel and Mary Myers, and was born in Deanville, Armstrong county, 48 years ago. At the age of 16 she was married to W. F. George. They moved to Pittsburgh 14 years ago and soon after reaching here Mr. George died. Three years ago she was married to S. E. Mason. Mrs. Mason leaves four children by her first husband, Harry, Arling and Susie of this city, and Mrs. Mary Hooper of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Mason was well known in Allegheny and was a regular attendant of the Trinity Lutheran church.

Louis Buchholz.

Louis Buchholz, aged 65, a retired clothing merchant of Sharon, died last night. He was born in Prussia and immigrated to Warren, O., in 1856. Three years later he went into business at Ravenna. In 1863 he went to Sharon and engaged in the clothing business, which he followed until he retired a few years ago. His first wife, who was Lizzie MacGilvary, died in 1871. Three sons were born: William of Leechburg, Joseph, burgess of Sharon, and Edward A., of Sharon. Mr. Buchholz married Mary Clark in 1884, and she also survives.

Miss Maria Williams.

Miss Maria Williams, aged 88, died yesterday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Frederick Boyles, Centennial avenue, Sewickley. She was born in Lebanon, O., and most of her life was spent there and in Muncie, Ind. She had lived in Sewickley a year. She was a member of the Presbyterian church. One brother, Silas Williams of Atlanta, Ga., and a sister, Mrs. Lydia Touse of Muncie, survive her. The body will be taken to Muncie for interment.

William Dell.

William Dell, aged 41, of Twenty-first and Main streets, Sharpsburg, died yesterday morning at the St. Francis hospital of heart disease. Mr. Dell was a member of the Glassblowers' union and the Sharpsburg C. M. B. A. He is survived by a widow, one son and two brothers, Nicholas and Peter Dell. He was a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church of Sharpsburg and had been a resident of the borough for more than 20 years.

Robert Plender.

Robert Plender, one of the oldest residents of this city, died Thursday morning at his home, 4014 Liberty avenue. Mr. Plender's life was lived very quietly, and he was noted for his fondness for children. His late home lies opposite the Woolslair schools, and since his death many children have visited the house for a last look at their friend. Mr. Plender was born near New Castle, England, April 6, 1818, and came to this country in 1845, settling in Philadelphia. There he was engaged as a florist, making many trips through the south collecting seeds and plants. In 1861 he came to Pittsburgh, where he continued in the florist business for several years, when he engaged in manufacturing. For a number of years he was foreman at the National Pipe works, retiring about 20 years ago. Mr. Plender was a member of the Fourth Presbyterian church since its organization, and previous to his moving to his late residence had lived in the Twelfth ward, where he is was well known to the older residents. He was married in Scotland to Miss Janet Gray, who died nine years ago. He is survived by the following children: John Plender of Pitcairn, one of the oldest engineers of the Pennsylvania railroad; Mrs. James Whiteford of this city; W. G. Plender, passenger conductor on the Pennsylvania railroad; Misses Janet and Mattie Plender, at home, and R. A. Plender, ticket examiner at the Union station. Funeral services will be held from his late residence tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Dr. William P. Shrom, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church.

winter overcoats

Have only now finished opening the Men's new heavy Overcoats, but recently arrived.

They are ready for you—medium to finest—finer than usually sold in stores, $10.00 to $65.00.

Would like the men who pay $50.00 to $125.00 for an Overcoat, to come and see what we have in store for them at so much less money.

With Overcoats like these we won't take a back seat for any concern of any kind in America.

Practically made them ourselves in collaboration with such thorough tailors as Brokaw Bros., Stein-Bloch, Hackett, Carhart and others of their class, not so well known.

We've strayed far from the beaten path—have Overcoats to show you that are extra fine and exclusive—distinctly different from regular ready-made garments.

Dressy three-quarter length Melton, Kersey, Vicuna, Cheviotte and Doeskin — domestic and imported fabrics, $10.00 to $60.00.

Newmarkets, Paddocks, Paletots and Surtout styles.

Oxford Grey and Black Fancy Mixes, $20.00 to $65.00.

Tourist and Belt Overcoats, 52 inches long—Plain Black and Oxford Grey and Fancy Mixes—plaids, stripes, herringbones, single and double-breasted, $15.00 to $35.00.

Men's fashionable new Sack Suits, $15.00 to $35.00.

See our nobby Sack Suits, with coat cut 32 to 33 inches long, $20.00 to $30.00.

Men's Raincoats, $10.00 to $30.00.

A very nice one for $20.00.

charming neckwear

Women who fail to see the fine showing now will miss an unusual view of stylish Neckwear.

Many delightful new styles came this week.

stunning coats, $20.00

Women will be well pleased with the new 50-inch Black Napped Cheviot tight fitting Coats at $20.00.

They certainly have the appearance, and the merit besides.

Rich, splendid material, cut and tailored beautifully—lap seams, buttoned through, satin lined waist and sleeves.

Similar model of Black Broadcloth, lined throughout, $20.00.

Finer Cheviots, single and double-breasted, satin lined throughout, $28.50.

Other long Black Coats, $15.00 to $40.00.

Shorter ones, $5.00 to $40.00.

Raincoats, $10.00 to $40.00.

These are fashionable Raincoats—utility and taste combined.

Styles at $16.50 and $25.00 with appearance of elegance you'd hardly expect to get in garments intended primarily for keeping off the rain.

plaid waists

The large demand for Plaid Silks for Waists at the Silk Department finds a hearty indorsement at the Shirt Waist Department.

A great and growing demand from those who closely follow the tortuous paths of Fashion.

Just received several charming new styles to sell at $4.50 and $5.00.

Considering the rare taste and skill shown in the making of these and the prices, we predict great enthusiasm from every woman who reads this public notice.

PILES

"I have suffered with piles for thirty-six years. One year ago last April I began taking Cascarets for constipation. In the course of a week I noticed the piles began to disappear and at the end of six weeks they did not trouble me at all. Cascarets have done wonders for me. I am entirely cured and feel like a new man." George Kryder, Napoleon, O.

SENATOR P. C. KNOX ADVOCATES TRIBUNAL TO FIX THE RAILROAD RATES

struck up "Old Black Joe" and his excellency, Sir Chentung Liang-Cheng, joined in the singing with as much spirit as any modern minstrel. Then the tune shifted. The musicians played "Everybody Works But Father." The minister did not sing the words, but he hummed the tune in perfect time and in proper chord. No wonder he got an ovation when he stood up in his long, blue silk robe and carefully smoothed out his long, black queue.

American Tardiness Rebuked.

Sir Chentung lost no time in reaching his subject. He had risen respectfully when the orchestra played "The Star-Spangled Banner," and by this act showed his good-will toward America and Americans, but in his speech there was a mild rebuke for American tardiness in appreciating the wealth of oriental commerce. His speech contained the hint that the Chinese exclusion bill is harsh, and it was refreshing to hear him quote President Roosevelt's promise of "a square deal" to all Chinamen.

Sir Chentung recounted the story of Pittsburgh's strides to industrial supremacy in the new world, and reminded his hearers that in the hills and mountains of China is mineral undeveloped that in time will cause the rise of other "Pittsburghs" along the banks of the rivers which are now used for rice fields, and which for countless centuries have been devastated by appalling floods.

Applause for Sir Chentung.

At every period Sir Chentung was interrupted by applause. He speaks excellent English and has a pleasing delivery. His speech was short, and when he resumed his seat the applause was deafening. He rose and bowed, but the handclapping continued. He had won every heart when he sang "Old Black Joe" with the rest of the guests, but his speech had fairly won their souls. He rose again and stated that he would recite in his native tongue some words of the poet of the Tang dynasty which flourished 850 years ago. When he closed this recital the applause was more enthusiastic than before.

Mr. Stone spoke of "The High Court of Public Opinion." He told of newspapers and their influence and of the importance of bodies like the chamber of commerce for the discussion of important questions.

Senator Knox was the next speaker. He closely followed his manuscript and spoke with an earnestness of conviction that was most effective.

Burke Closed the Program.

Congressman Burke's speech closed the program. He was in splendid voice and his words naturally and appropriately bound together the symposium which his predecessors on the program constituted—a symposium that at once was decidedly complimentary to Pittsburgh.

The appointments of the banquet scarcely could have been improved upon. The guests were early in arriving, and at 7:30 o'clock the line was formed to marching into the dining hall. The service was prompt and efficient and the menu card was a magnificent specimen of the printer's art. Below a photogravure of the honor guest the national banners of China and the United States were entwined, and in the corner, embossed in gold, was a facsimile of the seal of Pittsburgh.

Sir Chentung Liang Cheng arrived from Washington yesterday morning and, with Gen. Greely and Mr. Stone, was treated to a 52-mile ride through Pittsburgh's industrial district in the private car of E. B. Taylor of the Pennsylvania lines. During the afternoon he was the guest at a large luncheon given at the Pittsburgh Country club by Col. Samuel Harden Church. In the evening he rode to the Schenley in an automobile through Schenley park with Congressman H. K. Porter.

Enthusiastic Praise for Pittsburgh.

The minister was enthusiastic in praise of the strange sights he had seen on his trip and of the hospitality of Pittsburgh.

"You have a good club in Pittsburgh," he said to a reporter for The Gazette.

"We have several large clubs here," replied the reporter. "I presume your excellency refers to the Country club?"

"No, no," replied the distinguished chinaman. "I mean your baseball club. They said I was a good pitcher when I played with the college team at Amherst. I think much of baseball as a sport."

It had been planned to have the minister receive the local Chinese merchants at the Schenley yesterday afternoon, but through a misunderstanding of the arrangements the reception was abandoned. Sir Chentung will return to Washington this morning, but promises to come back again next month. He was undoubtedly the most popular man in Pittsburgh yesterday, and when he left the banquet hall last night he was obliged to write his autograph on scores of the souvenir menu cards.

Captor and Captured.

Mr. Arthur Derr, who succeeded in capturing our "Elusive Mr. Loose," is a young business man of Pittsburgh. He is successfully managing the Imperial Law and Commercial Company, handling Law and Mercantile Collections, with offices in the Empire Building, and we understand has obtained some remarkable results. Mr. Derr attributes his success in running down the Elusive Mr. Loose to his experience in the collection business, where a man becomes a good judge of human nature, acquires a keen perception, and the ability to "size up individuals," both in detection and purpose.

I left my office about 9:45, going directly to the store. At that time there were many persons in the store and some women stopped me with the quotation: "Are you the Elusive Mr. Loose of The Leader Department Store, the largest co-operative store in America?"

I finally reached the Gents' furnishing department, purchased several neckties and started to wend my way out. I had forgotten to get some handkerchiefs and went back for that purpose. It was when I came out the second time that I caught the Elusive Mr. Loose. He was coming in at a lively pace and passed those in the doorway very easily.

It was up to me to scrutinize quickly and thoroughly and this I did as modestly as possible, to avoid any possibilities of his thinking that I was watching him. As he started to brush by me I could see the general contour of his face and in my judgment it corresponded to the impression made upon me by the photograph, although he was attired in a gray tweed overcoat, sweater and glasses and wore a slouch hat well pulled down over his eyes. Like everyone, at first I felt some hesitancy, but overcame this in short order, and grabbed him by the arm, not giving him a chance to retreat a single inch. He started to get away, but I held on to him and looking him square in the face, I put the question: "Are you the Elusive Mr. Loose of the Leader Department store, the largest co-operative store in America?" He replied, "Yes, I am," and handed me the envelope calling for the reward.

TELLS OF WORK DONE BY THE AMERICAN ARMY

Gen. A. W. Greely Explains the Civil as Well as Military Achievements of Our Soldiers.

Gen. A. W. Greely, who responded to the toast, "The Army of the United States—the Civil as Well as the Military Factor in the Country's Development," paid a high tribute to Uncle Sam's soldiers. He informed his hearers that he was not ignorant of the fact that there had been incompetent men and even thieves in the army, but he cited the fact of quick and speedy justice as in the case of Captain Carter, and pointed to the fact that the civilians associated with him were only now being brought to trial.

He then gave an interesting account of the growth of the army and referred to its work in making habitable and sanitary stricken districts and countries, citing Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines. He told of the successful establishment of civil government in the Philippines by the military authorities and the noble work of the medical department of the army. He then said:

> This army of the United States, this body of men that is going to destroy the liberty of the American people, as we are told from time to time; these men who are so dissipated and so disreputable and who do all sorts of outrageous things, they were put in command of this great empire and what did they do? The first thing they did was to try to get themselves out of a job. They commenced to organize civil government. They issued a proclamation down in Negros one day. When it came out everybody thought it was the most farcical thing ever published. The commanding general said: "We propose to establish a civil government in Negros. We propose to give you such civil liberty as is compatible with your condition." They not only said it, but they did it, and that was done by the officers of the army, not by the citizens who came later.
> They introduced the writ of habeas corpus; they introduced the right of free speech, and the great educational system was started by an army chaplain. The hospitals have been organized and started by the American women, the wives of the officers who have gone over there, and altogether they have conducted themselves in a manner there so as to have laid the basis for a Filipino government whenever the time may come. They have laid these proper bases upon their dealing of honest treatment and of considerate treatment, so that I feel that in the Philippine islands the American officer has done his part to bring about the proper disposition of affairs.

CHINESE MINISTER ASKS FOR ONLY A SQUARE DEAL

Sir Chentung Liang Cheng Speaks Plainly on the Exclusion Law of This Country.

Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, minister to the United States from China, spoke on "The Commercial Relations Between the United States and China." He said:

> I can think of nothing better to talk about than the commercial relations between China and the United States. This is a subject of widespread interest at the present time, and it may not be unbecoming in me to call attention to certain phases of it that have come under my observation.
> The relations between China and the United States have been mainly commercial in the past, and will doubtless remain so for some time to come. The interests of the two countries, thus placed on a mutually advantageous basis, are not apt to clash. The result is that "there have always been peace and friendship between the United States of America and the Ta Tsing empire and between their people respectively," to quote the very words used in the first treaty concluded between China and the United States. Indeed, from a commercial point of view, the two countries seem to be so situated that each is required for the full expansion of the other. The only thing needed is a fair field and no favor.

Praise for American Statesmen.

> This desired consummation has been brought about for the United States through the wisdom and foresight of that distinguished and lamented statesman who conducted the foreign affairs of this country with extraordinary ability and success, first under President McKinley and afterwards under President Roosevelt—John Hay. He demanded and secured from all the foreign powers having interests in China the recognition of the principle of equal opportunities for all, commonly known as the "open-door" policy. But this may mean much or little to Americans. All depends upon the Americans themselves. The opportunities offered to all may be equal, but it is only those who improve them that will derive any benefit from them. I can hardly say that the American people have made the most of their opportunities in China.
> There was a time when the United States occupied a much prouder position in the China trade than it does now. Ships flying the American flag used to be seen at every treaty port. First went the American flag; then gradually followed one after another the old mercantile establishments that had for years upheld the American name in the far east. The great house of Russell & Co. was the last to go. The failure of that house was such a heavy blow to the commercial prestige of the United States that the effect of it is still felt to the present day. No serious effort has been since made to recover the ground this lost.
> There is a good reason for this seeming indifference on the part of the Americans to their great opportunities in the orient. They have been so occupied at home that they have had no time for things abroad. The domestic market has been large enough to engross all their energy and attention. But the industrial expansion of the country seems to have now reached the limit of home consumption. There can be no restriction of production, which would only mean industrial stagnation and retrogression. A foreign market must be found for American goods.

Great Market for American Goods.

> There is no doubt that China is just the market required. The American government, at least, has spared no diplomatic effort to secure the establishment of the "open-door" policy in China. The recognition of this policy by all nations concerned is a triumph of American diplomacy. It may now be regarded as an established principle of international law applicable to far eastern questions as the Monroe Doctrine is to purely American questions. But it must be remembered that the "open door" means open competition, and leaves the law of the survival of the fittest in full operation. There are active competitors already in the field, and Americans have to take their chances with the rest. In this competition, the people of Europe have resorted to all available methods to advance their interests. They welcome all Chinese students who come to enter their schools and universities; they encourage Chinese merchants to visit their countries; they treat Chinese travelers with friendly consideration. But it has seemed good to the United States to adopt a different policy, with the result that all Chinese of the desirable class have for years past endeavored to avoid the American shores as much as possible. The consequence is that every Chinese who has been to Europe becomes on his return to China an ardent admirer of European methods and European institutions, while every Chinese who has been to the United States has only a sorrowful tale to tell on his return of American inhospitality. I mention this merely as a matter of fact, not in criticism of the governmental policy of the United States, but just to show how Europe wins an advance agent where America turns away a possible customer.

Asks for a Square Deal.

> I am pleased to note the announcement by President Roosevelt of a change of policy in this regard with the view of giving the Chinese what he so expressively calls "a square deal." You may be assured that China is ready to meet any friendly advances on the part of the United States more than half way, and I hope that the only cause of difference which has so long disturbed the good understanding between the two countries will soon be amicably adjusted.
> There is no doubt that China is beginning to wake up to the importance of commerce. The recent establishment of the ministry of commerce at Pekin shows conclusively that the imperial government is alive to the exigency of the situation. Hitherto only a narrow strip of the coastal region of the empire has been affected by foreign commerce. On account of local exactions and the heavy cost of transportation, the vast interior has remained practically a sealed book. But a new era is dawning for the commercial growth of China. All the commercial treaties recently concluded between China and the foreign powers provide for the abolition of the likin tax. This is a tax imposed by provincial authorities upon the passage of goods from the treaty ports on the cost to the interior, and is a kind of consumption tax. With the abolition of this tax, one of the greatest obstacles to the growth of the foreign commerce of China will be removed.
> But of far greater interest to Americans is the great undertaking which the Chinese government has only fairly begun of gridironing the empire with railroads. China, put together with Manchuria is of about the size of the United States. You have about 250,000 miles of railroads in the country, and are constantly adding to this immense mileage. With five times the population of the United States and about the same extent of territory, the 18 provinces of China and the three provinces of Manchuria have only 1,500 miles of railroads. Railroad-building has a great future in China.

No More Concessions to Give.

> During the last years of the nineteenth century the Chinese government gave out many concessions for the construction of railroads in the country. Such a concession was given to the Russians in Manchuria, to the Germans in Shantung, to the French in Kwangsi and to the Belgians was granted the valuable concession of building a trunk line from Pekin to Hankow, and to the Americans was granted a similar concession to build a line from Canton to Hankow. But the days of concession-giving, I believe, are now gone by. Henceforth the people of the different provinces will build all the railroads they need themselves. There has arisen in the past year, crystallized a strong public sentiment throughout the length and breadth of the land that China should control her own railroads. It was in deference to this public sentiment that the Chinese government bought back only last month from the Americans the Canton-Hankow railway concession. The national control of railroads is a problem which the government of China as well as that of the United States has to solve.
> Hand in hand with the building of railroads will be the development of the natural resources of the empire. It is well known that China is a country especially rich in coal. It has been found that iron is everywhere associated with coal. You can fully appreciate the important part which iron and coal play in the industrial life and activity of your city. Upon the same products of nature, China may be expected to build the foundation of her future prosperity and greatness. Perhaps some of us here will live to see a great many Pittsburghs rise from the banks of those streams whose waters swell the flood of the majestic Yangtze or the destructive Hwang-Ho.

KNOX SAYS GOVERNMENT SHOULD SUPERVISE RATES

Would Provide Remedy for Mischief Rather That Make New Penalties for Wrong.

It was known that Senator P. C. Knox was to speak upon the subject of government control of railroad rates, and when the distinguished Pittsburgher was called upon by the toastmaster and had been welcomed, there was close attention to every word he spoke in his address. He said:

> The president believes that the power to pass upon the reasonableness of a challenged railroad rate or practice should be lodged in some tribunal upon which can be also constitutionally cast the power to fix a reasonable rate or practice in lieu of a rate found by it to be unreasonable, and that the rate so fixed should become as nearly immediately operative as possible.
> The proposition that the national government should exercise supervisory control over the rate upon transportation became almost self-evident from the time that the railroads began, through various devices, to concentrate this taxing power in the hands of a few men.
> The government's efforts to check this concentration of power under the provisions of existing laws should be supplemented by legislation which will prevent the abuse of the power of taxing the transportation of persons and property under any form of concentration or under any circumstances whatever.
> It commends itself to be wiser statesmanship to provide a remedy for a mischief in whatever form it appears rather than to waste time in matching the ingenuity of the lawmakers in devising laws to impose a penalty for a wrong, as it may appear, specific devices against the ingenuity of the lawbreaker in trying to avoid its provisions by creating new ones. In other words, it would seem to be wiser to cure the disease than treat the symptoms.
> The Wall Street Journal said in 1902, in relation to the issues involved in the government's attitude toward the Northern Securities Company: "The railroads at this moment stand in serried ranks, facing the law, and the settlement of the present dispute involves a settlement on first principles. Abuse of the railroad interests on the one hand, and of the interstate railroad commission on the other, at this time, is puerile. The former may have been guilty of imprudent action and the latter of dereliction of duty, but these are small matters when questions of first principle have to be settled, as they have at present."
> This is measurably true today.

Railroads Becoming Fairer.

> The proposition is that congress can and should at once enact a law covering the main features of the public demand for a prompt and efficient remedy against unjust railroad practices, and leave to the future the solution of the question of the wisdom and necessity of legislating in respect to collateral and related matters.
> It is the duty of congress to regulate commerce as to prevent injustice and imposition by the carriers.
> The proposition to correct unreasonable railroad rates and practices goes no further than this. It is tantamount to the proposition to correct injustice and imposition.
> If you provide the remedy, the evil will largely disappear. The tendency for some time has been toward fairer dealing by the railroads with the public.
> The enlarged and more effective provisions against rebates and unjust discriminations contained in the legislation of the fifty-seventh congress affected fewer railroads and met with less formidable opposition than it would have met 10 years earlier, as many of the managers of the best roads had endeavored to abolish such practices before the law went into effect. One makes a mistake who assumes that the best railroad conscience of the country approves the extravagant propaganda now being carried on to convince the public that any regulative legislation would be unjust to the railroads.
> There is no railroad in the United States that can be in the slightest degree affected by legislation giving relief from rates and practices unless it is guilty of unreasonable and unjust practices. There is no practice of any railroad that it adopts or sanctions that can be declared to be unreasonable or unjust until it is challenged in a quasi judicial proceeding, and proved to be unjust and unreasonable after the fullest hearing and argument. There is no order that can be made by any commission or board now existing, or which it is proposed to create, that can change a rate or practice that is unreasonable or unjust without its order being subject to review in a judicial proceeding in the United States circuit court upon the ground of the unreasonableness of the order of the commission, and there is no law that does, and probably no law could be enacted that could, prevent the court if satisfied that injustice had been done the railroads, from staying the operation of the order upon terms, until the court had passed the merits of the controversy.

Railroads Have Remedy.

> In other words, the railroads enjoy a complete remedy against injustice which it is not proposed to take away while the public has no effective remedy against injustice. More than such a remedy the public does not ask. Less than such a remedy it never should have been without.
> Exactly such a remedy congress supposed it gave under the original act to regulate commerce, and it was applied in a number of cases before the decision of the supreme court that it was not given by the act.
> The administrative features of the power inhering in congress to fix reasonable rates for transportation may be lawfully vested in the interstate commerce commission.
> This includes the power to vest in the commission authority to substitute a reasonable rate for one found by it to be unreasonable.
> It has frequently been declared to be the law that congress cannot vest the power to fix tolls in any constitutional court, because the fixing of a toll is a legislative and not a judicial act, and congress cannot impose the performance of non-judicial duties upon the courts, which exercises the judicial power of the United States.
> It is equally clear that congress cannot give an appeal from a non-judicial or administrative body to a judicial body for the purpose of reviewing administrative acts by correcting them by decreeing a new act, as in a judicial appeal; and this disposes of what I understand to be the main contention between the advocates of the proposition that a rate fixed by the commission should go into effect at once, and the advocates of the proposition that it should not go into effect until approved by a court upon appeal. It is perfectly evident that if the court in the first instance could not perform the legislative act of fixing a reasonable future rate it could not perform the same act upon appeal.
> No device can cure the objection to suspending the operation of the commission's finding until passed upon by the court. Of course I do not mean that in an independent proceeding begun in the court that the court could not, in the exercise of its discretionary powers, when satisfied that the rate fixed by the commission was unlawful, enjoin its operation until a final hearing. That is a power that rests in the court that need not be conferred by statute and probably cannot be taken away by a statute.

Explains Legality of Plan.

> The competency of the commission to pass upon the reasonableness of a challenged rate is denied because of the technical character of the work; because familiarity with its requirements can only come through long training and experience. This argument might be potent if it were proposed to give the commission the power to initiate rates and practices. This, however, is not the proposition.
> It is not proposed to confer upon the commission any greater or different power than courts of equity possess under a well-known branch of equity jurisprudence.
> The commission sits in the first instance to determine the reasonableness of the challenged rate or practice, and in so doing perform an ordinary judicial function. There is no act or transaction, however technical, complex or important, whose legality may not be called in question in a court. Courts listen to the evidence of experts in mechanics, medicine, art, theology and finance, hear the elucidations of advocates on either side, and, without previous special training, in the particular subject involved, determine the rights of the parties to the issue.
> Without such power in an independent tribunal there could be no such thing as a right without a method of determining its existence.
> So, in respect of a railroad rate or practice alleged to be unreasonable and therefore unlawful, whether it presents the simplest or the most involved question, the able experts, who it is claimed are alone competent to comprehend and deal with these questions, may enlighten the commission, and if the complaining shipper and it follows of course if the weight of reason is with the railroad, the complaint will be dismissed. To conjecture otherwise would be to assume that the commission could not understand, or would not heed, a sound defense.
> Upon the other hand, if the complainant makes good his charge of unreasonableness in rate or practice, the commission, exercising the delegated non-judicial power of congress, decides what would be reasonable under the evidence.
> The different views brought forward relative to the creation of new courts or the appointment of additional judges have much that may be said in their favor and against them, respectively.
> Whether the existing circuit courts of the United States would be able to handle the increased business that the passage of the law proposed might impose upon them is a mere matter of conjecture. As between the suggestions of a permanent court of commerce in Washington, composed of judges who perform no other duty; a court of commerce in each circuit, and the suggestion of the creation of nine new circuit judges and a court of commerce, the personnel of which is to be determined by the chief justice of the United States, one may find himself at a loss to determine which, if any, is a wise plan.
> In my judgment, I think that matter can be left to be determined in the future. Congress can well afford to abide the result of experience in these matters.
> A very short and simple law would reach the root of the trouble. It should provide that the tolls collected by common carriers and the practices pursued by them should be just, fair and reasonable. The power to determine these tolls and practices should rest with the railroads and not be interfered with except upon complaint and after full hearing before the interstate commerce commission.
> The commission would have the power, if it finds the complaint well-founded, to declare what shall be a just, fairly remunerative, and reasonable rate of practice to be charged or followed in place of the one declared to be unreasonable.
> This order of the commission should take effect within a reasonable time, as shall be prescribed by the commission in the order, and would be final, subject only to attack for unlawfulness in the federal courts, where it would have to stand or fall upon its merits.
> Such an act, with suitable provision for the regulation of joint rates and rates upon traffic of international carriers, would go to the full extent and no further than the recommendations made by the President in his last annual message.
> I am sincerely convinced that the time has come when congress must, in justice to the public, exercise more fully its power in respect to railroad rates and regulation, and I believe that, in view of the misunderstanding and differences of opinion relative to comparatively unimportant features of the problem, that no relief is likely to be given in the immediate future unless some such comparatively simple measure is adopted.

EVERY NATION LOOKING TOWARD THIS COUNTRY

Melville E. Stone Speaks of the Example the United States Must Set for the World.

Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, spoke on "The High Court of Public Opinion." After paying a warm tribute to the Chinese minister and his predecessor, Sir Wu Ting Fang, he made a vigorous defense of the Chinese people, in which he asserted the Boxer rebellion was primarily instigated by high-minded patriots, who feared the partition of their country by European nations. After referring to the intense interest now taken by all Europeans in the affairs of this country, and the fact that within two years all the European news agencies have opened offices in the United States, the speaker concluded:

> Today from end to end of this earth every nation is looking to the United States not alone as an asylum for the oppressed, but as a guiding star in the business of government. My friends, we are a city set on a hill. The world is looking to us. Our conduct is being watched everywhere. We are on trial. We are very sure that this republic will endure for the benefit of mankind through all time. It behooves us to guard our government carefully, that the example we present to the world will be of benefit to humanity everywhere, and that, at the same time, is the very highest mission of the American people.

BURKE MAKES A PLEA FOR HIGHER CIVIC STANDARDS

Pittsburgh Congressman Says Penitentiary as Well as Purgatory Should Get Rascals.

The Hon. James Francis Burke, congressman from the 31st district, spoke on "The Chamber of Commerce," and in his address made an urgent plea for greater honesty in political and corporate practices. He said in part:

> As the first duty of legislative bodies is to reflect in their official acts the verdict of the high court of public opinion, it is the duty of the chamber of commerce to see that that opinion is molded in accordance with the conservative and intelligent thought of the community at large. If these business bodies are to continue to speak for the community and our legislative bodies are to continue to make its laws, both should be composed of men of the very highest standard of integrity, who will impress upon every rascal in the business and political world the fact that while the violation of the decalogue may only mean purgatory in the next world, the violation of our statutes may mean the penitentiary in this.
> The American people tonight is witnessing the greatest moral housecleaning in its history. While it was begun by one upon whose simple method and righteous purpose the whole has gazed with gratifying glance, all right-thinking Americans are beginning to participate in the crusade. But such efforts and examples will avail nothing if the lessons taught do not result in modifying the conduct of public officials and modifying many of the methods of conducting those great commercial enterprises over which the government threatens to exercise more exacting supervision.
> How far the government shall go is a question which public necessity and not the wrong-doers must decide. While we should mention no evil practice by our silence or inactivity, we must jealously guard against all those greater evils that savor of government ownership which experience has proven inimical to the interests and in conflict with the functions of a well-ordered republic.
> Let us reform business methods through penal statutes and prosecutions if necessary, but more important than reformation by, without through imprisonment, action and fear of punishment, is reformation from within through the vigorous assertion of the individual rights of all persons owning stock in or transacting business with or through the great corporate enterprises of the country. Do this and no chastisement will be needed from government officials.
> With the exposure of every evil comes a cry for more laws. As a matter of fact, one of the curses of our country is the multiplicity of so-called statute laws. If our laws were fewer in number and more perfect in provision criminals would profit less and honest men would fare better.
> Let our purpose be pure and our language plain. Let every honest political organization banish from its counsels the individual who dons the party uniform to pilfer the public purse, and every commercial body in the land put the ban upon him who dons the garb of a business man to cheat his competitor by conspiring with confederates, or to rob widows and orphans of their rights by betraying the trust imposed in him by those who have gone to the grave.
> Dishonesty has no legitimate place in the business or political life of this country.

Holds Hotel Guests for Court.

John Meehan and H. S. McCord, guests of the "Home, Sweet Home" hotel at Third avenue and Grant street, were held for court yesterday by Magistrate Kirby on charges of being implicated with Maurice Morgan in robbing E. W. Forney of Newcomerstown, O., at the hotel last Tuesday. Forney alleged the three men went to his room and at the muzzle of a revolver took $8 and two watches from him.

Amateur Theatricals at Braddock.

The Carnegie Dramatic club, Braddock, of which Harry J. Bird is the organizer and head, will present "The Paper Chase" at Carnegie hall next Thursday evening. CROUPLENE

The physicians and druggists marvel when told of the curative properties of N. C. Croupleneā€”certainly it is the 20th century wonder.

Let us illustrate: Child awakens with a severe attack of croup. A dose of N. C. Croupleneā is given, and the little one is immediately relieved, quicker than it takes to write it. Then it is so harmless. A pure vegetable compound, not only cures and prevents croup, but strengthens and imparts good health to your children.

There are no healthier children on earth than those who take Croupleneā.

Mothers, try one small bottle. Every mother who has given us a testimonial always says, "We would not be one night without it."

Thousands of bottles sold. We have never heard of its having once failed.

Croup is a dangerous disease. If not quickly attended to, leads to serious results.

Don't put it off—get it now. You want it handy when you need it.

N. C. Crouplene is prepared by Registered Pharmacists, who, after a thorough examination by the State Pharmaceutical Examining Board, were granted a certificate giving them the right to practice their profession.

Their ability should give you confidence in this preparation.

See that our firm name appears on every package as the manufacturers. It means you are getting the best there is.

If your druggist doesn't have it, send direct to us for it, but always first

CLOTHING THAT LOOKS "SWELL" THAT LOOKS WELL IN MOTION

A PULL here, a pat there, and a little puffing out somewhere else will make almost any sort of a suit look well on a dummy. The Men's garments we sell do better than this. They're cut and made form-fitting, know their place and keep it. Look swell on the ice, trim on the street, shapely on horseback and correct in an auto. You could even wrestle in them, and a slight shake wou d cause coat, vest and trousers to assume graceful fashion-plate lines.

$10 SUITS FROM "THE BIG STORE" SHOW THESE GOOD POINTS:

- Woolens of real solid worth.
- Tailored—not ironed into the fashionable shapes.
- Expert finishing touches on shoulders, lapels and collars.
- Perfection of finish that says "high grade."
- Greens, grays and other good shades.
- Plenty of dark colors.
- A variety of the best weaves and effects.
- The $12.50 quality linked with a $10 price-mark.

OVERCOATS Genteel-looking Topcoats in olive, tan and black coverts, handsomely made and richly lined. Correct length. Only $10.

Also good "Cravenetted" Raincoats, long and swagger, that are $12.50 all over town. TEN DOLLARS HERE.

$15 SUITS FROM "THE BIG STORE" SHOW THESE GOOD POINTS:

- Fine American woolens that duplicate the imported novelties.
- Hand-tailored fronts, collars, lapels and shoulders.
- Haircloth, canvas and other unseen features. All honest values.
- Made under careful inspection.
- Colors and effects that are highest in Fashion's favor.
- A variety of the styles approved by the best dressers.
- The $20 grade—with a $5 rebate to the buyer.
- The kinds that are good for two seasons' service.

OVERCOATS The sort that a man can wear anywhere, hang up on some hospitable hall rack alongside other swell garments or carry inside out over his arm and feel safe from any disparaging remarks from those whose clothes are custom-made.

TROUSERS

You'll never see better Men's Pants at $1.98 or finer Trousers at $3 than the two lines at these prices at "The Big Store." Others up to $10.

ALLEGHENY H. S. BEATS THE PREPS

Merrett's Pupils Are Beaten on Muddy Field by Score of 11 to 0—Wup Plays Today

BETHANY IS ITS OPPONENT

The Allegheny High school defeated the Allegheny Preps by a score of 11-0, at Exposition park yesterday afternoon. The field was very muddy, and many fumbles were made in consequence.

High school kicked off to the Preps. Sm. Murphy got the ball and ran back 30 yards. The Preps could not gain, so kicked. High school advanced the ball up the field rapidly. Boyd soon put it over the line and kicked goal. The rest of the first half was a series of fumbles and short gains by the bucks for both sides.

In the second half Preps kicked to High school. They lost the ball on downs, and Tustin made a run of 20 yards. The Preps lost it on down and High school advanced slowly up the field. Herd making a touchdown. Boyd failed to kick goal. Buka, Herd and Boyd played good ball for High school, while the stars of the Prep team were Tustin and Applegate. The line-up:

A. P. S.—0.		A. H. S.—11.
Humphreys	R.E.	Herd
Schmidt	R.T.	Campbell
Minkle	R.G.	Harter
Hendrice	C.	Young
Cellars	L.G.	Augenbaugh
Ed. Murphy	L.T.	Moore
Gilg	L.E.	Shmucker
Applegate	Q.B.	Rosenburg
Hagan	R.H.	Buka
Em. Murphy	L.H.	Boyd
Tustin	F.B.	McDonald

Touchdowns—Boyd, Herd. Goals—Boyd. Referee—Rice. Umpire—Wing. Time—25-minute halves.

W. U. P. vs. Bethany.

The local football event of importance this afternoon will be the W. U. P.-Bethany contest at Exposition park. The W. U. P. coach is taking no chances on the outcome, but will use a strong combination. Capt. Thompson will witness the W. and J.-O. M. U. game at Washington today and Art Griggs will take his place at left half. Ferry, who had his leg badly bruised in Thursday's practice, will rest today. Quincy Banbury, the little Kansan, who will be played at left end, is a very steady player and is especially effective on offensive work. McKeon and Frank Griggs will work together at center and quarter respectively. Griggs has shown vast improvement in the past week and the varsity is working well under his generalship. Marshall and Edgar, the big linemen, are both seriously under the weather at present and will not be seen on the field today. Edgar is confined to his room with an attack of malaria. The Bethany team is also just recovering from the inroads of a large invalid list. The line-up is:

W. U. P.		Bethany.
C. Banbury, Perry	L.E.	Parker
Miller	L.T.	Morrow
Turner, Zieg	L.G.	Chapman
McKeon	C.	Schaffer
Yielding	R.G.	Chapman
Waddill	R.T.	Stauffer
Imat	R.E.	Gordon
F. Griggs	Q.B.	Smith
A. Griggs, Springer	L.H.	Warren
Schmidt, Klawuhn	R.H.	Kincaid
W. Banbury, Mehl	F.B.	Filson, Miller

Shadyside academy has no game today, but the afternoon will be devoted to practice in preparation for the championship game with Kiski next Tuesday. Kiski, too, has today off and will practice. Despite the rain yesterday the Shadyside coaches drove the teams up and down the field through the mud. The Shadyside team is a good "mudder" and would like to see a muddy field Tuesday at Friendship park. The coaches yesterday paid particular attention to the defense. The offense has been good and the defense is now strong enough to withstand the Kiski attack Tuesday, the coaches believe.

Lyceum will meet Steubenville on the college grounds this afternoon. This makes the fourth encounter between these two teams; the first resulted in a victory for Steubenville in their city, the second played also in Steubenville, was a tie the third on the college grounds was won by the Lyceum, so that today's game is looked forward to with much interest. The teams will line up as follows:

Lyceum.		Steubenville.
Campbell	L.E.	Nalen
Edwards or Seaman	L.T.	Bowers
Smith	L.G.	Blirn
Rogers or Eakins	C.	Finnerty
Noonan	R.G.	Hoon
Dillon	R.T.	Andregg
Toomey	Q.B.	Toohey
McInerney	L.H.	Benboro or Coleman
Quinlan	R.H.	Parks or Russell
Swissher or Brassel	F.B.	Hesae

The Pittsburgh High school will play at Johnstown today with the High school eleven of that place. Greer Orr, the full back, is ill and will not play today. The lineup for Pittsburgh will be: Left end, Clark; left tackle, Beaston and Dunn; left guard, Hazlett and Crawford; center, Patterson and Kohen; right guard, Chalendor and Schmidt; right tackle, Williams; right end, Woodside; quarter back, Watterson and Haggerty; left half, Page; right half, Worrell; full back, McAllister and Dornberger.

Bellevue Y. M. C. A. will play the Beaver College Prep team this afternoon at Bellevue.

The East End Lyceum plays the fast Y. M. C. A. at Sewickley today.

Is Up to Arbitration.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—(Special.)—It was learned at the University of Pennsylvania tonight that the statement of Prof. White of Harvard, that the difference between Pennsylvania and Harvard would be arbitrated is most unlikely. In his statement of the case Dr. White said that Penn and Harvard had an agreement whereby such cases were to be left to an arbitration committee of one graduate of each university and an important umpire, if the two could not agree. That was the agreement between Penn and Harvard prior to 1901, but the agreement was never renewed by Penn and is not considered binding now. Penn will insist on her right to use Lamson to the end.

No "Double Crossing" This Manager.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The Kentucky university football team was here today on its way to Morgantown to play the West Virginia university team tomorrow under compulsion. The date was scheduled some time ago, but Kentucky decided to cancel the date and play the Marshall college team of Huntington. Manager Pritchard of the West Virginia university team hurried to Huntington, attached all the property of the Kentuckians, including their gate receipts and clothes, and agreed to withdraw his suit only on condition that they should live up to their contract.

Princeton Favors Socker Ball.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 3.—The agitation in favor of association football has reached Princeton university and all those interested in forming a team met last night and decided to organize such a team immediately. J. B. Fine, athletic adviser, is in favor of the undertaking, and it is believed that it will be supported by the students.

HARVARD MAY PROTEST LEVINE, SUB FULLBACK

Crimson Thinking of Preferring Charges of Professionalism Against Yale Man.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 3.—Yale's football coaches were surprised by the statement that Harvard has it under consideration to lodge a protest against Levine, sub-fullback. The coaches say that the most vigorous examination can result only in establishing Levine's eligibility and in giving a clean amateur standing. Levine may play tomorrow for Yale against Columbia in the second half.

The day's work on Yale field was very light for the varsity team, no lineup being held. The team was drilled in running back with the ball on the kickoff. Jones' injured leg has so far recovered strength that he will play tomorrow. The team left for New York tonight.

Levine prepared for Yale at Andover, where he was prominently identified with the football team and made a reputation as an all round star. After leaving Andover he attempted to matriculate at Yale but, failing in his effort, he took a course at Colby college, in Maine, and last fall returned to New Haven. Harvard, it is said, has been investigating the case for some time, and it is asserted that the Crimson leaders are ready to produce evidence which may bar Levine from further competition in athletics against Harvard.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The Tigers' practice this afternoon in preparation for the Dartmouth game tomorrow was much lighter than usual. The signal drill, which was very fast and snappy, showed that the men are regaining their speed and ginger and are recovering from their recent slump. Eddie Dillon resumed his place at quarterback and drove the team at a furious pace. Daub, Bard and McCormick were back in their accustomed positions. Capt. Cooney is still suffering from an injury received in the Columbia game and will probably not appear in tomorrow's lineup. His place will be taken by Phillips. H. Dillon, the veteran guard, was out on the field in togs, but it is not likely that he will play tomorrow.

Lehigh.

BETHLEHEM, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Lehigh's football game tomorrow will be with Gallaudet college. The practice this afternoon was light signal work. In the brief lineup the varsity scored once and they were put on the defensive. So well did the line hold that notwithstanding an unlimited number of downs, the scrubs were unable to gain at all. Tomorrow's contest is regarded as hardly likely to furnish Lehigh with good practice. Every available man on the squad will be given a trial. It was announced today that a game had been arranged with Ursinus to take the place of the Villa Nova game on November 18.

Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The size and sturdiness of the Swarthmore men who arrived in the city tonight added to the fear of the Cornell student body that its team will have hard work defeating the Quakers tomorrow. In advance of the team several rooters came with money, which they offered at 5 to 1 that Swarthmore will score. They were banking on their confidence that Crowell will kick a field goal, if his associates are able to get the ball within 45 yards of the posts. They had few takers. The Cornell varsity indulged only in snappy signal practice this afternoon, but the work continued for more than an hour.

DEAL FOR THE BOSTON NATIONAL CLUB IS OFF

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 3.—The deal for the Boston National league club was called off today by Frank V. Dunn on the ground that the Boston club could not turn over the real estate end of the transaction with a clear title. After Mr. Dunn's declaration Attorney Joslin, counsel for Soden and Conant, asked if he intended to bring suit to recover the $5,000 forfeit money put up last April. Mr. Dunn's answer was: "I shall claim $50,000, as I have wasted the whole season with the idea that the Boston club would be ready to carry out its part of the contract."

Dunn said he had the signed contracts of a number of the Boston players in his safe, and would hold the men to them, as the contracts were drawn up by Dunn's attorney, and are personal ones, with no reservation clauses. "If the deal falls through," said Dunn, "I shall make good use of the contract I have with young Cy Young, as I can place him to good advantage in the outlaw league."

Dunn stated that the Boston club had acted as if it preferred to sell the club to other parties.

DAN PATCH EQUALS THE WORLD'S PACING RECORD

MEMPHIS, Nov. 3.—Dan Patch equalled the world's pacing record this afternoon, going the mile in 1:59½, equalling Star Pointer's time. The mile was made with a runner at his side. No regular meeting is being held here, and it is thought the record will not stand.

Mason Posts a Cool $100.

Jimmy Mason, manager of Young Ziringer, the 105-pounder, Joe Alton, the 122-pounder, and Paul Moore, the 133-pound local boxer, posted a forfeit of $100 at this office last night to back any one of the above fighters against any one of their weight in this city or vicinity. His boys are all of this city and they have never lost a contest. Ziringer has been about the only local fighter who has kept up his fighting during the summer, and scored knockouts in every contest in which he has taken part.

Association Football Games Today.

The schedule of the Association Football league for games today is: Braddock at East Liverpool, Morgan at Monongahela, Jeannette at Roscoe, Madison at Curry, Ambridge at McDonald. The Jeannette team will give the Roscoe champions a hard tussle. The line-up will be: Goal, Ray Hallan; fullbacks, Milligan and Dussmuir; halfbacks, M. McPhail, Blythway and Bryile; forwards, Davis, Fairfield, Jenkins, Baillingtyne and McPhail.

Boxing Match for New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Billy Walzer and Jack Young of this city are matched to meet in an eight-round fight at Heckert's gymnasium here Tuesday evening, November 14.

CLEAN SWEEPS ARE THE RULE

Ungers and Troy Hills Defeat the Bloomfields and the Sharpsburgs on the Alleys.

LATEST FROM HIGH ROLLERS

The Ungers of the Pittsburgh section of the County league had rather an easy time last night on the Friendship alleys, taking all the games from the Bloomfields. They rolled up 905 in the first game and never went below 809 in the other two. The Ungers all did well, but the star bowler was G. Gaus, who made high score of 214 and best average of 198. Dienstbier was close at the heels of Gaus, getting an average of 197 2-3. It was a picnic for the Ungers, who are confident of leading the race in the Pittsburgh section. The Bloomfield boys were extremely erratic. From the scores it would seem that they were a rattled bunch. Not a member bowled consistently. One made 173 in one game, and in the very next made 115. Another made 166 and then 116 and so on. However, not a man went below 150. Berringer was the best bowler for the losers, getting high score of 176 and best average of 169. H. Gaus, in spite of his little 115, finished with an average of 154 2-3. Scores:

On the Troy Hill alleys last night the Troy Hill team took all three games from the Sharpsburg boys, and had little trouble in doing it, winning each game with pins to spare. Bertram was the best bowler. He made high score of 180 and best average of 173 2-3. Old Man Gebhardt helped to roll up the highest team score of the match by rolling 180 in the first game. Gilby was the Sharpsburg star. He averaged 155 1-3 and hung up high score of 181. Blouse also did well, getting an average of 151 2-3. Scores:

In the Mercantile league, on the Club alleys last night, eight of the 12 teams participated in their postponed games from Tuesday night. The Pickering and Arbuthnot-Stephenson Company teams played the previous night. McCreery's did the best bowling, making a clean sweep of all three games. High score went to Pineau, 209, and best average to Call of the same team. The games and scores were as follows:

M'LEOD DEFEATS WAY BY 2 UP 4 TO PLAY

Cleveland Man Is Beaten in the Finals for Western Professional Golf Championship.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Fred McLeod of Rockford, Ill., today defeated Herbert Way of the Euclid club, Cleveland, in the finals for the championship of the Western Professional Golfers association at the Chicago Golf club, 4 up and 2 to play. A stiff wind was blowing across the course, and several times both players got into bad places, but in each instance they managed to get out of trouble in good shape. In the morning round they were even for the first 18 holes. In the afternoon McLeod won the first two holes and the following nine were halved. Way won the twelfth hole, but McLeod took the thirteenth, third and fourth. The fourteenth was halved, while the next two holes went to McLeod, giving him the match by 4 up and 2 to play.

Oakmont Country club will have quite a day today on the links. The mixed foursomes postponed from yesterday, the women's competition for a cup offered by Mrs. Louis Brown and a contest for points on the Durbin Horne cup are scheduled.

Members of the Pittsburgh Golf club play the first round, 18 holes of medal play under handicaps in the eleventh competition for the John Z. Soeer trophy.

Foursomes are in progress at the Pittsburgh Field club for a cup offered by George Macpherson and conclude today.

HUNT CROWDS TOO LARGE.

The Many Visitors Caused Change in Day's Program at Zoar.

ZOAR, O., Nov. 3.—The large crowd of visitors and threatening weather caused a change in the programy of the tri-state fox hunt. The three captured foxes were not liberated and instead a regular chase was held. Next year the meet will probably be a private affair so that a big crowd will not gather and damage property.

George Walters, aged 80, of Mineral City, and John Ginther, aged 70, of Canal Dover, were interested spectators. Cy Young, the ball player, was quite taken with the sport.

FOLK SPEAKS ON MORAL AWAKENING OF NATION

Says Grafters Are Being Taught That Grafting Is Poor Politics, to Health of the Country.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 3.—Gov. Joseph W. Folk of Missouri spoke here tonight in support of the state Democratic ticket. He was introduced by Mayor Johnson, and spoke in part as follows:

A political revival is going on all over the land against grafting. A wonderful revolution has been wrought in the conscience of mankind in the last four years. The moral awakening that is now sweeping the country is simply a determination to stamp out the things of dishonor in public life and the things that oppress in private life. A new standard has been established; new yet old; just honesty, that is all. The remedy for corruption has been found in the hearts of the people.

There is nothing a corrupt man fears more than an aroused public conscience. The prisons may be filled with grafters, yet if the people were indifferent, grafting would go on just the same. The grafter as a rule does not know good from bad; all he knows is politics. But he knows good politics from bad politics. They are being taught that grafting is bad politics, and when this lesson shall have been learned thoroughly the revolution will be victorious and good government will be enthroned.

WHY HE FAVORS MARTIN.

Senator Samuel P. White Makes a Statement About the Beaver Political Situation.

NEW BRIGHTON, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Senator Samuel P. White today in discussing the political situation in Beaver county said:

"My reason for stating that I think J. Rankin Martin will and should be elected are as follows: The primary campaign last spring was conducted under the new rules of the Republican party in force for the first time. These rules were adopted at a meeting of the county committee at which R. H. Holt and Mr. Martin were present and took active part in the deliberations. Martin and Holt made the pledge required to abide by the result and entered the contest under these rules. Holt was defeated by about 1,000 majority and instead of accepting the verdict of the people and abiding by his pledge, went out of the convention and with some of his active supporters organized a bolt against the ticket. They gave as their reason that fraud had been committed at the primaries. Holt failed to make any contest before the county committee as the rules provided and further failed to make a contest in the courts. Martin's course throughout the primaries and campaign has been clean, conservative and dignified, convincing the people that he has the ability and temperament to make a fair, honest and upright judge."

TRINITY HALL IS OUTWEIGHED

W. & J. Academy Team Shoves Cadets Through Mud and Wins Contest by 11 to 0.

LOSERS PLAY STRONG GAME

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 3.—In one of the best games witnessed on the local gridiron this season, the W. & J. academy defeated the Trinity Hall Military school today, 11 to 0. Both teams fought gamely, but the soldiers were outweighed and were pushed through the mud for small but consistent gains. The field was a sea of mud, and after the first few scrimmages the players could not be recognized for mud. The losers put up a great defense and were brilliant in their offense. The lineup:

About 300 guests are expected at the banquet. The arrangements for the function were made last night at a special meeting of the board. The speeches will all relate to educational matters, particularly those pertinent to the technical school.

The toastmaster will be Dr. W. J. Holland and the speakers will be Director Arthur Hamerschlag, Prof. Alexander Wurz, Prof. Samuel Smith Keller, Chancellor Samuel B. McCormick of Western university; Nathan C. Schaeffer, state superintendent of schools; William McConway, chairman of the technical schools committee; D. L. Gillespie, president of the central board of education, and James W. Wardrop, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers association.

"THEN COMES RED-HOT DEVOTIONAL SERVICE"

North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church Issues Attractive Calls for Rally Entitled "Clanging Bells."

"Clanging Bells" is the title of a call for a general rally in the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, to be held all day tomorrow, which is issued by representatives of "the board," the "Sunday school," and "the league" on behalf of the new pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Blodgett, late of Cincinnati.

"Clanging Bells" says that the first service will be at 9:30 in the morning; the second at 10:30 o'clock, then offers the invitation: "Bring your lunches and remain for Sunday school at 2 o'clock," and makes the interesting announcement: "Then comes the red-hot devotional service of the league at 6:30 o'clock." It concludes by calling attention to the 7:45 o'clock service.

JUSTICE HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

Beaver County Judicial Campaign Results in Serious Charges.

FUSIONISTS DISCONCERTED

ROCHESTER, PA., Nov. 3.—The latest sensation of the campaign was the arrest here this afternoon of Justice of the Peace Frederick J. Stevens of Moon township on the charge of forgery. His arrest created much excitement in the Fusion party supporting Richard S. Holt for Judge against J. Rankin Martin, the Republican candidate. The information was made by Carl Kroen of Moon township.

Richard S. Holt, the Democratic-Prohibition-Citizens candidate for judge of Beaver county, who was defeated for the nomination at the primaries held May 13 on the Republican ticket by J. Rankin Martin, has claimed the primaries were conducted fraudulently and referred in particular to Colonia, Moon township, where he claims 78 votes were cast for him and only 38 were counted.

Ever since the primaries some of the county papers have been printing a copy of an affidavit alleging that certain voters in Colonia had voted for Holt at the Republican primaries and this affidavit bore the postscript that 78 men have been sworn to it. No names were affixed and the Republicans have been demanding the names.

Only a few days ago, nearly six months after the primaries, the Fusion organization distributed literature giving a list for the first time of the alleged 78 signers. This affidavit bore the name of Carl Kroen.

At the Republican mass meeting held in the opera house here last Wednesday evening the affidavits were presented. It was claimed then that 17 reported signers of the affidavit presented by Holt did not sign the document and that their signatures were forgeries.

The affidavit as presented by the Holt fusion ticket was drawn and sworn to before Justice Stevens while one of the affidavits presented at the meeting Wednesday night was signed by Carl Kroen and Sidney Huffmyer and sworn before N. Wurzel, Jr., notary public at Monaca, November 1, in which both Kroen and Huffmyer swore that the paper offered by Justice Stevens had never been signed by them or had they ever been sworn to it.

The reading of this affidavit warranted an investigation which was immediately begun by the Republicans and resulted in the arrest today of Justice Stevens, who still maintains that Kroen did sign the affidavit containing the names of 78 men.

GALLANT SIR KNIGHTS GATHER IN BEAVER FALLS

Beaver Valley Commandery of Men of the Temple Organized With Great Pomp.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Nov. 3.—Following a parade of the principal streets by the visiting Knights Templar from Pittsburgh, Allegheny and New Castle, Beaver valley commandery, Knights Templar, No. 84, was instituted today at noon with 112 members. The officers installed were: Eminent commander, F. L. Wisener of Beaver Falls; generalissimo, I. Sharp Wilson of Beaver; captain-general, James W. Doncaster of Rochester; treasurer, William Sloan of Beaver Falls; past commander, George B. Johnston; trustees, James M. May, Beaver Falls, Edward Kaye and Edward Calhoun of New Brighton.

The installation was conducted by grand officers from Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Harrisburg. The town was gaily decorated in honor of the visiting knights, and the parade was enlivened with brass bands from Rochester and New Castle.

The ladies of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopal and Methodist Protestant churches served dinner in their respective churches to the visitors, which included Pittsburgh No. 1 and Aspelon commanderies of Pittsburgh, Tancred of Allegheny and Reliance of New Castle.

Ashtabula Has Bad Blaze.

ASHTABULA, O., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—A fire that started from a stove in the American house on the dock, near the swing bridge, destroyed the following buildings tonight: American house, $2,000; F. Sheldon, junk dealer, $500; J. H. Liebman, $2,000; Ford & Starkweather, $3,500; Frank Mackey, saloon, $1,500; Albert Strauss, $1,500; Empire theater, damaged, $200.

Caught in Elevator Cage.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Clarence, the 12-year-old son of Robert Payne, was caught in the elevator at the Hileman department store this afternoon, fracturing his nose, knocking out several teeth, crushing his lips and tearing the flesh from his face. It is also feared his skull has been fractured.

CONTRACTOR IS PAID FOR AN UNFINISHED BUILDING

City Architect Powell Reports to Mayor Weaver on His Investigation of Hospital Power House.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Continuing his investigation of the construction of certain municipal buildings, W. Bleddyn Powell, city architect, made another report to Mayor Weaver today, the building under scrutiny this time being the power house on the grounds of the new municipal hospital.

Mr. Powell informs the mayor the power house is in an unfinished condition and that Henderson & Co., the contractors, have received the full contract price for erecting the building, $117,700. The architect states the power house was not built according to the original plans and there are numerous and substantial omissions in the structure which greatly favored the contractor.

He also points out that although the building is in an incomplete state, the former city architect, Philip H. Johnson, reported the power house was complete and that the contractor was entitled to the final installment of the contract price.

DENIES HIS IDENTITY.

Accused of Murder, Holley Refuses to Recognize Friends—Is Wanted for Bigamy in Kentucky.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Clifford Holley, charged with the murder of Simeon Donohue at Masontown on October 29, 1904, was brought back from Kentucky by County Detective Alex McBeth today. Holley has maintained a strong denial of his identity and says his name is Charles Robinson. He weakened for the first time after arriving here, when he said he would like to see his brother George. Five minutes afterwards he refused to recognize Policeman Rufus Jackson of Masontown.

The Carroll county (Kentucky) authorities wanted to bring charges of bigamy against Holley. About two months ago he married Nora Mattox there.

LAYING BIG WATER MAIN.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company Putting Down Big Line from Indian Creek.

IRWIN, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is extending its big water line from Indian creek, near Connellsville, through this territory with Pitcairn as its present objective point. The company has much of the work done on the eastern end and a big force of men is putting down the pipe from Youngwood to Grapeville.

The main line is of 24-inch pipe, Youngwood being the first station. From this point a line runs to Derry and continues on to Grapeville, just east of Jeannette. From the latter place the line will run parallel with the road to Pitcairn. On this line 24-inch pipe will be used.

Mauch Chunk Hotel Burns.

MAUCH CHUNK, PA., Nov. 3.—Fire, which broke out in the American house today, partly destroyed that structure. Guests were compelled to flee in their night clothing. The loss is $45,000.

RESIGNS RATHER THAN BE POLITICAL TOOL

Quaker City Policeman Reveals Plot of City Party to Run Things at Polls.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—In confirmation of the claim of Republican leaders that Mayor Weaver is using the police in politics, as they were never used before, the following statement of Lieut. Alexander M. Richards of the Ninth district, who resigned today, is of interest. Mr. Richards said in part:

"After 20 years of service on the police force of Philadelphia, I resigned today because I have been instructed to use my official position as lieutenant of police to drive the patrolmen of my district into the polling houses on election day to interfere with the holding of an honest election and to intimidate and browbeat, with all the force of policemen's clubs, certain citizens who are active in the interests of the Republican party.

"The assistant director of public safety, Thomas W. South, advised me to take my political instructions from Councilman Crow, and said if I would go along with Mr. Crow politically I would be taken care of.

"My instructions were that I would be expected on election day to direct the patrolmen in my district to go inside of the polling places and take charge of them, and that fights would be started by supporters of the so-called reform party with Republican watchers. The patrolmen were to be instructed to jump into the fights, to use their clubs freely and to arrest the Republican watchers, so they would be done away with for the rest of election day."

BARBER TELLS GRIM STORY.

Students at Kenyon Tie Him to Rails Just Before Pierson Was Killed.

MOUNT VERNON, O., Nov. 3.—Today's testimony in the Pierson inquest developed the fact that the boy was lying prostrate on the track when the engine struck him, also that he may have been tied to the track by another initiating party, which was out and had bound their victim to the rails.

Paul Barber, a Zeta Alpha freshman has given the most important testimony so far secured in the inquest. Barber, it is said, testified that he lay bound and blindfolded upon the track not 200 yards from the spot where Pierson was mangled to death, waiting for his two initiators, who, he says, were Jacob Ewalt and J. B. Park. This, Barber declared, occurred about an hour before Pierson's life was crushed out.

AGED VICTIM IS DYING.

Octogenarian Peace Maker Assaulted by Almshouse Inmates and Cannot Live.

FAIRMONT, W. VA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Asbury Snider, aged 84, was set upon and murderously assaulted by Thomas Brown and Cyrus Henderson in the Marion county almshouse today. Snider is dying in a hospital and his assailants are in jail.

They were inmates of the almshouse and Brown and Henderson quarreled over some trivial matter. When the old man tried to act as peacemaker he was beaten with a heavy cane by Brown, while Henderson stood by and urged Brown on. A few minutes later the keeper of the house arrived and found Snider in a dying condition.

BABY STARTS SUSPICION.

Father of Woman Burned to Death in Baltimore Sends Officer to Investigate.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Constable James Verner left today for Baltimore to further investigate the death of Mrs. Robert Hammil, who died at Baltimore under circumstances that have not been explained to the full satisfaction of the dead woman's father, John Phillips of this city. He says remarks uttered by the dead woman's 3-year-old son have strengthened his suspicions.

The reports indicate that Mrs. Hammil was burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove, and that her husband was painfully burned trying to rescue her.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM BUTLER.

Republicans Confident of Carrying County and Democrats Say Berry is a Winner.

BUTLER, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Republican leaders this evening claim the ticket, state and county, will have from 1,800 to 2,000 majority in Butler county.

On the Democratic side County Chairman Edward McShacn states he is confident at least two Democratic candidates are going to overcome the 1,500 Republican majority and come out winners in Butler county. They are Berry for state treasurer and William A. Lowry for prothonotary.

Officers on Inspection Tour.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—President A. C. Dinkey of the Carnegie Steel Company; President W. P. Palmer of the American Steel and Wire Company; W. B. Dickson, second vice president of the United States Steel Corporation, and John Reis, assistant to President W. E. Corey, with secretaries and clerks, were here today inspecting the local Carnegie properties.

Sebring Gets a Steel Plant.

SALEM, O., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Sebring, it is now assured, is to have a steel plant. The Sebring brothers some time ago donated a site as a bonus to the Keystone Steel Company, which, with a capital of $200,000, will locate at the new pottery town. The company will manufacture forged tools, using a process invented by Richard Jones of Pittsburgh.

Blames It on Her Husband.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Mrs. Jean Wilson is dying at the Continental hotel here, the result of taking strychnine with suicidal intent. A note was left saying that her husband going in bad company was her excuse for the deed.

GRIFFITH ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLING $10,000

Charged With Keeping Money Loaned to a Sharpsburg Concern—Held for Court.

On a charge of embezzling $10,000, C. J. Griffith was held for court yesterday by Alderman McMasters in the sum of $5,000 bail. The information against Griffith was made by G. M. Hughes, a director of the Sharpsburg Sand company. Hughes alleging that the $10,000 belonged to the company.

According to Hughes this money was received in a deal of the company with Robert Jenkins, Jr., whereby the company bought the towboat T. J. Garlick and 25 flats at the Glassport landing, Mr. Jenkins receiving 300 shares, each valued at $100, of the stock of the sand company. Mr. Jenkins said he also agreed to loan the sand company $10,000 for which he was given a note. He said the money was made out in two checks, one of $5,500 and the other for $5,500, in favor of Charles Keplar, his secretary, and Keplar paid to Griffith.

John Marron, attorney for Griffith, intimated that several railroad sidings figured in the deal and that Griffith might have received the $10,000 in connection with the deal for the railroad sidings. Other witnesses testified as to the payment of the money to Griffith.

In the matter of clothing it would be well for all of us if we paid as much attention to the choosing of our underwear as we do to outer wear. Indeed, of the two, the underwear has much the more vital bearing on the body's general health and comfort. The importance of this fact is fully appreciated by the wearers of Jaeger woolens. This underwear excels in its adaptation to the breathing and excreting functions of the skin, and affords the best all-around protection against the changes and severities of our climate.

NEGRESS IS CHARGED WITH BRUTAL CRIME

Is Said to Have Choked and Beaten to Death an Old Man for Whom She Worked.

Harry Fisher, aged 85, died at the home of his son, at 1604 Center avenue, yesterday morning, from injuries said to have been inflicted on him last Sunday morning by Hattie McIntyre, a negress, who is alleged to have choked and beaten him in his room in Clark street. The woman was arrested by Special Officers Levy and Morgan, and was committed to jail by Coroner Armstrong on a charge of murder.

The McIntyre woman was employed to clean up Fisher's rooms. Fisher, in his dying statement, said she came to his rooms and demanded money. He refused and she grabbed him by the throat and choked him until the blood gushed from his mouth. She is also alleged to have kicked him in the sides and abdomen. The aged man was removed to the home of his son, where he died. The negress is 25 years old, and has been arrested before for holding up and robbing drunken men. She was arrested at 1238 Clark street.

The coroner's jury yesterday held Andrew Jackson, a negro, to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of murdering Gertrude Nicholas on October 24, at Jacks Run. Jackson found the girl talking to another man and became jealous. Placing a revolver against her breast he sent a bullet through her heart. He was arrested by County Detectives Armstrong and O'Brien.

Jacob Bailey, hostler at the White House hotel, Perrysville avenue, was found dead early yesterday morning in front of the hotel. Death was caused by heart disease. He was 60 years old.

The body of a female infant was found in the rear of 136 Forty-fourth street yesterday by John Fowler of 320 Forty-fifth street, and removed to the morgue. Detectives Demmel and Morgan are trying to locate the parents. The child was but a few days old.

EMORY CHURCH TO CHANGE SITES

Deal Is Pending for Sale of the Present Property in East End for $180,000.

NEW SITE AT RIPPEY STREET

A deal is well advanced which will result, if closed, in the sale of two very valuable properties in North Highland avenue, and the erection of a new church for the Emory Methodist Episcopal congregation. All the terms of the deal have been agreed to and the preliminary papers signed, it is said, but the transaction is being guarded very carefully until the final details in the deal are adjusted. This, it is said, will be done in a few days, when the full plans of the congregation are expected to be made public.

As reported on very good authority, the deal involves the sale of the Emory church property at the southeast corner of North Highland avenue and Broad street, and the purchase by the congregation of the property of Dr. J. B. Fulton at the southwest corner of North Highland avenue and Rippey street, three squares farther up. Oswald Werner is mentioned as the buyer of the church property and the price is said to be $180,000. The property is one of the largest in that neighborhood, having a frontage of 140 feet in Highland avenue, 120 feet in Broad street and 116 feet in Kirkwood street. The rambling frame church building covers nearly the entire lot. This property was secured by the Emory congregation some eight years ago, the lot and building costing about $80,000, so that the present deal nets them a splendid profit. The property being only one square from Penn avenue, is an exceptionally valuable plot and the building could be adapted to many uses with comparatively little expense, although it is more likely that a modern business block will be erected.

Dr. Fulton's property, which the church authorities are about to secure, has a frontage of 111 feet in North Highland avenue and 172 feet in Rippey street. A large center-hall brick house stands well back on the lot, and there is a stable in the rear. The site would be amply large enough for the erection of a modern church, and it is reported that the stone church proposed for the lot will cost not less than $150,000. The congregation is a very wealthy one and the church has a membership of 1,000 and a Sunday school of about 1,200. The Rev. Dr. W. R. Weddespoon was recently called to the pastorate from New York, to succeed the Rev. Dr. Arthur D. Mink.

The erection of such a church as proposed by the Emory congregation will make five costly church buildings in North Highland avenue, within a radius of three squares. The Bethany Evangelical Lutheran church is at the corner of Kirkwood street. The East End Reformed Presbyterian and the St. Mark's Reformed church are in the west side of the avenue, on opposite corners of Harvard street. The entire square on the east side of the avenue between Harvard and Station street is occupied by the big stone church of the Sixth United Presbyterian congregation, one of the finest church edifices in the city.

WALLACE TALKS OF CANAL.

Former Chief Engineer of the Isthmian Waterway Gives Board His Experience.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—John F. Wallace, former chief engineer of the Panama canal, was before the board of consulting engineers today to give the result of his experience while he was in charge of canal operations. Mr. Wallace strongly favors a sea level canal and has gone on record to that effect. Today the questions of the board were directed toward obtaining his views as to the cost of construction of the canal, and the time it would take to complete the work.

Mr. Wallace did not make any formal statement, but had notes to which he referred in answering questions or in giving his views. The meeting of the board, as all other sessions have been was secret.

Informal Tea on the North Side.

From 4 until 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mrs. E. Bosworth McCready of Palo Alto street, Allegheny, was at home informally to her friends to introduce Miss Grace Hellwell of Foxburg. Miss Hellwell, whose engagement to Dr. Dudley A. Munson of Wilmington has recently been announced, is at present Mrs. McCready's house guest, and together with Mrs. Robert J. McCready, received with the hostess yesterday. They were assisted by Mrs. David O. Holbrook, Mrs. Russell H. Boggs and Mrs. M. H. Morton, who poured tea. Roses and yellow chrysanthemums filled a basket which occupied the center of the tea table, while in the drawingroom were the same flowers, carrying out a color scheme of red.

New Fever Cases Are Reported.

Eight new cases of typhoid fever, one of diphtheria and one of scarlet fever were reported yesterday by the bureau of health.

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 5.7 feet and the river was rising.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 3.—River 13.2 feet and falling. Departures were: Greenland, Pomeroy. The fall in the river is rather sharp, but rivermen believe and hope that it will not be sufficient to interfere with present plans of navigation. All of the local coal harbors are crowded with coal. The usual Thanksgiving rises are due shortly and the harbors will have more traffic than they can handle at present. Clear, windy and cooler.

LOUISVILLE—River falling; in canal, 5.7; on falls, 3.5; below locks, 11.8. Clear and pleasant.

MORGANTOWN—River 9 feet 10 inches and falling. Weather cloudy.

GREENSBORO—River 7 feet 5 inches and stationary. Showery and cool. Columbia down Saturday; Woodward up.

STEUBENVILLE—River 6 feet and falling. Clear and cool. Up, Virginia, Helen White.

MARIETTA—River 5 feet 4 inches and falling. Light rains. Bedford up at 6 a. m. Ben Hur down at 4 p. m.

POINT PLEASANT—River 5 feet 6 inches and falling. Cloudy. Up, Douglass Hall, Tacoma, Kanawha.

OIL CITY—River 1 foot 8 inches and rising. Cloudy and cool.

WARREN—River 1 foot and rain and cool.

GALLIPOLIS—River 7 feet and falling.

WHEELING—River 6 feet 6 inches and rising. Cloudy, cool with rain. Departed: Ben Hur, Parkersburg, 6 a. m.; Virginia, Pittsburgh, 8 a. m.; Bessie Smith, Parkersburg, 11 a. m. Up with empties, Helen White and Iron Age, 10 a. m.

PARKERSBURG—River 7.3 feet and falling. Weather warm with showers. The Bedford left for Wheeling, the French for Creston and the Valley Belle for Middleport.

TO TRY NEW APPLIANCE.

Demonstration on the River This Afternoon of Automatic Boat Davit.

There will be a demonstration of a lifeboat by an automatic safety lifeboat handler from the deck of the Virginia this afternoon about 4 o'clock. The inventor of the new appliance is Capt. Irvine, formerly of the Ward line of New York.

Harbor 25 of the National Pilots' association is arranging for a reception for Capt. J. C. Pilver of New York, president, and Capt. B. F. Perkins of New York, secretary of the grand lodge. The exact time of the arrival of these officers is not yet known, but they will be here sometime during the coming week. In case of a rise in the river the grand officers are to be notified and the visit postponed. The regular meeting of Harbor 25 will be held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Hank Waler, mate of the Iron Age, died in the Marine hospital at Gallipolis, O., on Thursday night after a short illness. He lived at 229 Virginia avenue, Mt. Washington. The body will be brought here this evening.

The Josh Cook, Tom Rees, Ed Roberts, Valiant and Iron Sides, which have been tied up at Sewickley, were brought into the harbor yesterday.

The Greenland, Mrs. Capt. Greene, arrived last night from Charlestown with a heavy cargo of potatoes.

The Lorena, Capt. Wallace, arrived from Zanesville and will leave this afternoon.

The Virginia from Cincinnati arrived early this morning.

The Columbia arrived from Morgantown about four hours late yesterday.

The Queen City will leave the ways at Cincinnati today.

Successful Loan Exhibition.

The music hall of the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music, Dithridge street, was transformed yesterday into a drawing room filled with rare and beautiful things. It was the occasion of the loan exhibition given for the benefit of the public wash house and baths of Pittsburgh located at Butler and Thirty-fifth streets, Lawrenceville. The exhibition was conducted during the afternoon and evening. Rich oriental rugs covered the floor and hung from the balcony, while on tables and in cabinets was one of the choicest collections of miniatures in America, the property of D. C. Clapp. The rugs, which are the property of Mrs. D. C. Clapp, form a collection of exceptional beauty and interest aside from their great value. Some of them are the result of years of constant labor, the developing of the artistic ideas of the worker. In order that the visitors might have opportunity to realize the beauty of these products of oriental countries lectures were offered at intervals explaining their value and place in art. Miss Sophie Keenan and Mrs. Alfred Pettit were in charge of the collection of miniatures. Japanese curios brought from the far east and India, historic relics of Europe and America, incidents of the civil war and historical crises in the United States, completed the attractions of the loan exhibition which was attended by many people during the afternoon and evening.

Tea was served in the gallery, the tea table being presided over by Mrs. Theodore Tonnelle, Mrs. Reese Lindsay, Miss Kate Smith and others. During the evening a musical program was presented by Miss Myrtle McAteer, Ora Bohannan, Miss Martha Groff and Miss Grace Summers. Mrs. D. C. Clapp, president of the board of managers of the public wash house and baths, received, assisted by other members of the board, including Mrs. John Brown Heron, Miss Rose Edsall and Mrs. W. L. Fiches, the chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Winter Multiplies Cases of Distress.

Miss Cline, the district nurse employed by the Fruit and Flower mission, gave an interesting report of her work at the regular monthly meeting of the mission yesterday. At present the nurse has 25 families under her personal care, and during the past month has sent six individual cases to the hospitals. The approach of winter has greatly increased her work. There is an urgent demand for clothing, partly worn overcoats and woolen underwear. She also asked for coal tickets which will be distributed to worthy families. The Fruit and Flower mission, ever since its organization, has distributed both fruit and flowers to the patents in the hospitals and among the sick poor, Tuesdays and Fridays being the day when the members of the mission visit the hospitals. During the last few months, however, more attention has been paid to carrying on the work of the visiting nurse through whom the more needy and deserving cases can be reached. It is for the support of her work that the benefit whist will be given next Monday afternoon in the club room of the Bellefield dwellings under the auspices of the Fruit and Flower mission. There has been a cordial response to the committee of arrangements, and over 200 women will be in attendance. The guests will be permitted to choose between pivot bridge and domino whist and there is a great demand for the former. Ten prizes will be awarded.

Reminiscences of Southern Women.

The Woman's Southern society yesterday recalled the stories of famous southern women at the regular meeting held in the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music. The program was conducted under the direction of Mrs. Burcham Harding, who gave many reminiscences of the women she has known in the south. Mrs. William L. Kester spoke of Martha Washington, the wife of the first president; Mrs. George H. McFarland related anecdotes of Dolly Madison, the heroine of the war of 1812; Mrs. M. P. Whitings talked of Elizabeth Patterson, who married Jerome Bonaparte, the king of Westphalia and was the grandmother of Charles H. Bonaparte, the secretary of the navy; while reminiscences of Jessie Benton Fremont, the wife of James Fremont, called the Pathfinder, were told by Mrs. Elizabeth L. Hall. Several songs were sung by Miss Weir. The society discussed plans for social meetings during the winter.

Will Give Monthly Plays.

The Omega Psi society of the Thurston preparatory school yesterday gave a couple of plays in the new kindergarten room for the benefit of the scholarship fund. A little club was recently organized among the girls, called the Trage-Comedy club, which will give a play each month during the school year. Yesterday afternoon the little curtain-raiser, "Bridge," written by Miss Elizabeth Eaton, was presented by a trio of girls, Miss May French, Miss Edith Johnston and Miss Elizabeth Eaton. It was followed by "The Purple Parasol," dramatized by Miss May Elizabeth French from the story by George Barr McCutcheon. The cast representing this clever little play was composed of Miss Margaret Aiken, Miss Eleanor Davis, Miss Carrie Himmelrick, Miss Marion Aiken and Miss Ada Jiles. The Omega Psi society is already planning for another entertainment to be given December 4 when "The Sunbonnet" will be presented.

Tea for Club Members Only.

At the regular meeting of the Epoch club yesterday morning arrangements were made for a tea which will be given on Friday afternoon, December 1, for the members only, in the home of Mrs. Frank T. Hogg in South Dallade avenue. Mrs. Francis D. Glover gave a bright and interesting report of the meeting of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women in Cambridge Springs, to which she was a delegate. The meeting was conducted in the home of Mrs. P. M. Lincoln in Thomas boulevard, and the program included papers on "Grecian history from the early times to the Roman conquest," by Mrs. J. B. Dunn, and on "Grecian Architecture" by Mrs. Charles S. Eaton. Mrs. Lincoln gave a reading descriptive of the Parthenon.

Adopted the By-Laws.

The Pittsburgh colony of New England yesterday afternoon adopted by-laws. The colony held its first meeting this fall in the Hotel Schenley, the president, Mrs. David Kirk, presiding. It was a business meeting, followed by a short informal tea. The secretary, Mrs. George Page Wrench, resigned her office because of her removal from the city, and Mrs. D. W. Kuhn was elected to fill the vacancy. Twenty women were in attendance. At the next meeting, which will be held on Tuesday afternoon, December 12, in the home of Mrs. William McConway in Lexington avenue, East End, plans of work for the winter will be formulated. The colony is not a purely social organization, but will take up literary and philanthropic work.

Tourists Will Talk of Russia.

Miss Alfred E. Clark and Mrs. Henry J. Bailey have been invited to speak before the Tourist club next Monday afternoon in the Business Women's club, Arch street, Allegheny. The program arranged for the afternoon will be shortened to permit of them speaking at 2:30 o'clock. Both have traveled extensively in Russia, Mrs. Pailey will describe the social life of the Russians, while Mrs. Clark will speak particularly of St. Petersburg, its historic buildings, its art treasurers and the court life there. Later Russian tea will be served and by a special arrangement a Russian recipe will be used in baking the little cakes which will be served with the tea. A few guests outside the membership of the club have been invited to attend the meeting.

Presents Encouraging Reports.

An encouraging report was presented at the meeting of the board of managers of the Soho public baths yesterday afternoon by the benefit committee, of which Mrs. George B. Motheral was chairman. Although not quite all the returns are in the committee reported that $5,000 will be the net receipts from the matinee which Robert Edeson and his company gave recently, presenting their play, "Strongheart," in the Nixon theater. The board authorized some improvements made in the Soho Settlement house, Fifth avenue.

Invitations Received Here.

Invitations have been received in Pittsburgh for the marriage of Miss Charlotte, sister of James Woodward Clarke of Indiana, Pa., to Walter Adams of Decatur, Ill., to take place on Wednesday, November 15. The bride-elect is a sister of Mrs. Jacob Jay Miller of Wallingford street, Shadyside, and is a daughter of Judge Silas M. Clark of the supreme court.

No Secrets To Hide

We have nothing to conceal; no secrets to hide! We publish the formulas of all our medicines. You will find these in Ayer's Almanac for 1906; or write us and we will send them to you. Then show the formulas to your doctor, and ask him what he thinks of them. If he says they are good medicines, then use them. If he has anything better, then use his. Get well as soon as you can, that's the point!

SOCIETY

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

A GROUP of distinguished guests shared honors yesterday at the luncheon given by Colonel and Mrs. Samuel Harden Church at the Country club. The luncheon was an elaborate affair, planned to meet Gen. and Mrs. A. W. Greely, Mr. and Mrs. Melville E. Stone, and Sir Chentung Liang-Cheng, the Chinese minister. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock with an informal reception preceding. Mrs. Church stood first in the receiving line, then came Gen. Greely, Miss Hegeman, Mrs. Greely, Mrs. Arthur Hamerschlag, Mrs. William J. Holland, Col. Church and the Chinese minister, Mrs. Stone being absent on account of illness. Mrs. Church was gowned in pale blue eolienne with a plume-trimmed picture hat matching in color. Miss Hegeman wore pale blue broadcloth with a hat of Alice blue messaline silk, trimmed in pink roses; Mrs. Greely appeared in black, with a gold cloth yoke covered with black lace. She carried her handsome Russian sables and her hat was of a smart gold and black affair. Mrs. Hamerschlag was in gray silk with a black hat, while a gown of gray with a white hat was worn by Mrs. Holland. Those in the receiving party led the way from the living room to the dining room, where covers were laid for them, and for Mr. and Mrs. William Nimick Frew, Henry Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Barr, Andrew W. Mellon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kirk Porter, Miss Hegeman, Col. W. G. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Willis F. McCook, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Turner, Emil Paur, Mr. and Mrs. John Dalzell, Mr. and Mrs. James Francis Burke, Albert C. Reinhart, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mellor, Mr. and Mrs. John Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Potter, W. H. Keech, Mrs. William Thaw, Dr. and Mrs. John A. Brashear, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. James I. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Jenkinson, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Hamerschlag, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. William McConway and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander Rook. The guests were seated at one large table arranged in the shape of a dumb-bell. In the center of either round end was a low mound of large yellow chrysanthemums, which were connected by alternate smaller mounds of the same yellow blooms and ropes of asparagus fern to the tall flower-filled vase which stood in the center high above the heads of the guests. The silver candelabra were shaded in yellow, and as a pretty tribute to Sir Liang-Cheng, the ices were moulded into delicious mandarins, each carrying the favors, tiny Chinese parasols. The visitor from China appeared in his native costume of black, blue and gold. Extemporaneous speeches by Mr. Stone, Gen. Greely, Mr. Dalzell and Sir Liang-Cheng, with Colonel Church as toastmaster, were features of the afternoon.

Reception for Pastor and Bride.

A handsome chest of silver, numerous pieces of beautiful table linen, a china dinner service and a check for $1,000 were presented to the Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan and his bride last evening. The women of Dr. McEwan's church, the Third Presbyterian, gave a delightfully informal reception for their pastor and his wife, who have just returned from their wedding trip. They received together, the guests including, in addition to the members of the congregation, the neighboring Presbyterian ministers and their wives and several members of the faculty of the Western Theological seminary. The rooms of the chapel where the reception was conducted were prettily decorated, palms and potted plants being used in the reception rooms while large chrysanthemums adorned the supper tables. At intervals during the evening organ numbers were given, which added to the enjoyment of the affair. Among the women actively interested in the reception were Mrs. William Thaw, Mrs. G. A. Samuels, Mrs. J. B. Hench and Miss Elizabeth Dickey.

Miss Davis Is Introduced.

Mrs. Charles J. Holdship of Glen Osborne gave a large and handsome reception at her home yesterday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock to introduce her sister, Miss Helen Willard Davis. Mrs. Holdship received in a gown of white lace over white silk, and Miss Davis was attractive in white chiffon. The following assisted in receiving: Mrs. Louis Willard, Mrs. Cyrus B. King, Mrs. Louis Irwin, Mrs. G. I. Holdship, Mrs. T. Halsey Williams, Mrs. William Walker, Mrs. D. N. Rankin, Mrs. John Walker, Mrs. Henry Irwin, Jr., Mrs. Charles McKnight, Miss Hannah Irwin, Miss Ruth Walker, Miss Jean Oliver, Miss Evelyn Black, Miss Elizabeth Irwin, Miss Euphemia Bakewell, Miss Helen Davis, Miss Jean Slack, Miss Agate Brown, Miss Hester Singer, Miss Elizabeth Hamilton and Miss Helen Witherow.

Euchre for Butler Guest.

Mrs. W. J. McMarlin's euchre yesterday afternoon was in honor of Mrs. Howard Sneman of Butler, who is visiting Mrs. Charles Meyers of Fairmount avenue. It was only a telephone affair of six tables, but was thoroughly enjoyable, the guests being entertained at Mrs. McMarlin's home in North Euclid avenue. Four-hand euchre was the game played, and prizes were won by Mrs. Charles Meyers, Mrs. Clarence M. Green and Mrs. Robert Rowland.

Rehearsal Follows Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Brown of Sewickley gave a handsome dinner at the Allegheny Country club last evening in honor of Miss Martha E. Neale and Frederick H. Thatcher of New York, whose wedding will be solemnized in St. Stephen's Episcopal church, Sewickley, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The guests included the bridal party, which consists of Mrs. Phillip S. Morrell, matron of honor; Miss Adele Gilpin, maid of honor; Miss Mabel Thatcher, Miss Elsie Stanton, Miss Georgie Neale Heaven and Miss Rebeckah Jennings, bridesmaids; Joseph R. Swan, best man; James H. Neale, John W. Dye, Dr. Walter Scaife, Frederick B. McBrier and Harry A. Boyd, ushers. After dinner a rehearsal of the wedding was held in the church. The Rev. Robert A. Banton, rector of St. Stephen's, will officiate at the wedding.

Coming Home from Europe.

A party of Pittsburghers who have been abroad for the past three months expects to land in New York aboard the Von Moltke next Tuesday. In the party are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Coffin, Miss Mary Oliver Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Righter, Joseph Righter and Miss Harrington of Minneapolis. Since leaving America the travelers have visited England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and Austria.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn Celebrate.

Mr. and Mrs. James Speer Kuhn of Forbes street were pleasantly surprised last evening by 50 employes of Mr. Kuhn, many of whom had been with him for over 20 years. The affair was in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of the host and hostess, who were presented with a magnificent silver loving cup by their guests. A number of other gifts, including flowers and cut glass, were received during the day.

Leberman-Stoecki.

Miss Olivia Leberman, daughter of the Rev. John J. Leberman, D. D., pastor of St. Luke's Reformed church, Braddock, and Thomas A. Stoecki, of Buffalo, N. Y., were quietly married last evening at the home of the bride's father in Braddock. Dr. Leberman performed the ceremony in the presence of only a few guests. There were no attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Stoecki will go to housekeeping at once in Braddock. Dr. Leberman and his daughter moved to Braddock from Lancaster, O., six months ago, when he accepted a call from St. Luke's church.

Mrs. Melhuish Is Hostess.

Mrs. William F. Melhuish entertained with an informal card party at her home in Beach avenue, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon. There was no special guest of honor and enough guests were present to require the use of six tables, at which bridge was the game played. The prizes went to Mrs. Edward Thompson, Miss Margery Adams and Miss Eva Stoner. In addition to whom the guests included Mrs. William Clyde Wiggins, Mrs. Albert A. Horne, Mrs. Howard Logan, Miss May McCoy, Mrs. William McCullough, Miss Sarah Morris, Miss Niel Stewart, Miss Margaret Stewart, Miss Jeannette Murray and Mrs. Edwin Peterson.

Mrs. McKean's Assistants.

Mrs. Robert J. McKean of South Negley avenue has chosen her aids for the housewarming reception which she will give on Monday afternoon, November 13. They are Mrs. H. B. Shidle, Mrs. Joseph Jones, Mrs. Harry W. Giethler, Mrs. Edward Ensor Baker, Mrs. H. S. Stewart, Miss Katherine Cox and Mrs. William C. Coffin. Both Mr. and Mrs. McKean expect to go east on Monday evening of next week to meet some friends returning from abroad. Mrs. Jones, one of the aids, accompanied by her husband, will leave for the east tomorrow night.

Miss Vilsack's Guest List.

Miss Katherine Vilsack, who is to be maid of honor at the coming wedding of Miss Mary Pauline Donnelly and John Joseph Ornston, will give a theater party at the Belasco this evening with a supper at the Duquesne club after the play. Her guests will be the bridal couple and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Head of Latrobe; Miss Agnes Kerwin of Chicago, William Judge, John Harvey, Miss Estelle Ornston and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graham of Oil City; Miss Elizabeth Malady, Percy Gilbert, Albert Loeffler and Miss Augusta Abel.

Notes and Personals.

Mrs. John E. Day of Wheeling, W. Va., is visiting her husband, who is engaged in newspaper work in this city.

Mrs. Frank Stonecipher of Hay street has cards out for a tea next Friday afternoon to meet Miss Sanson of Indiana.

Mrs. Morrison, wife of an ex-governor of Idaho, is visiting her son, W. C. Morrison of the faculty of Shadyside academy.

Miss Grace Rumnette of Atlantic avenue gave a dinner last evening in hono.r of Miss Susan Vallance Tiers and her fiancee, Dr. William Herron Cameron.

Miss Mamie K. Anderson and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Anderson, entertained at their home in Sewickley with a pretty luncheon yesterday afternoon. Covers were laid for 10, and the afternoon was spent at bridge.

(No. 139.)

AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the O'Hara Street Railway Company, the municipal consent to construct and operate its line of street railway along and over the Pittsburgh and Freeport road in the township of O'Hara, Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, along and in front of the Allegheny City Poor farm.

Whereas, The O'Hara Street Railway Company is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for the construction and operation of a line of street railway upon certain streets and highways in said commonwealth; and

Whereas, The city of Allegheny is the owner of a certain property abutting on the said Pittsburgh and Freeport road, situate in the township of O'Hara, Allegheny county, commonly known as the Allegheny City Poor farm; and

Whereas, The said O'Hara Street Railway Company desires to procure the consent from the said city of Allegheny, for the construction and operation of its line along and over the said Pittsburgh and Freeport road along and in front of the said Allegheny City Poor farm; now therefore

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the said city of Allegheny in select and common council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same, That the O'Hara Street Railway Company is hereby granted the consent of the said city of Allegheny to construct and operate its line of street railway over the said Pittsburgh and Freeport road along and in front of the said Allegheny City Poor farm property, as situate in the township of O'Hara, county of Allegheny, and state of Pennsylvania, together with the necessary turnouts, switches and the usual poles, wires, rail connections and other things necessary and required to operate said street railway.

Sec. 2. The said street railway company in the construction of its line of street railway along and in front of the said Allegheny City Poor farm property, shall use rails weighing not less than seventy-three pounds to the yard, the said rails to be girder rails of the Johnston pattern, permitting the use of the same by ordinary vehicles, and shall pave said roadway between the tracks and one foot on each side thereof, with a vitrified paving brick, and macadamize the balance of the said road to the extent occupied by it for eight feet on each side of the paved portion of said roadway, and thereafter maintain and keep in good order and repair, its said track or tracks and the brick paving to the extent of one foot on the outside of the outside rails, so long as it uses and occupies the said portion of such highway.

Sec. 3. The said street railway company shall remove all snow and other debris from the portion of said road occupied by it, at its own cost and expense, and place no snow or other debris outside of the tracks of the said company, on a portion of said roadway.

Sec. 4. The O'Hara Street Railway Company shall commence work on its said road within one year and complete the same within two years from the date of this ordinance.

Ordained and enacted into a law in councils this the 26th day of October, A. D. 1906.

WATSON APPEARS FOR MISS M'LEAN

Legal Battle Is On in the Second Appeal in the Estate of the Late J. O. Brown.

DUQUESNE HOTEL CASE UP

The supreme court was enabled to finish all the cases on its list by sitting an hour and a half longer than usual yesterday afternoon. It will hold a brief session at noon today to hand down a number of decisions. This is the shortest term the supreme court has held in the Western district for many years, and is the first time in 17 years that Chief Justice Mitchell has been able to go home to vote at the November election.

The most interesting argument was made in the appeal of Nattie W. McLean in the estate of J. O. Brown. This is the fight over 88 shares of Colonial stock, one-half of which is claimed by Miss McLean. She lost in the lower court, reversed it in the supreme court and again lost in the lower court; taking her second appeal. D. T. Watson made the argument for Miss McLean, and this attracted many lawyers to the court room. He said that the case had been sent back to the lower court for one reason, to take evidence to show that the checks marked "Colonial" were used for some other purpose than to pay for Miss McLean's share of the investment in the Colonial stock. He was surprised to find that the other side was still insisting that the burden of proof was on her. It was the same case that had been before the supreme court and nothing new had been adduced.

His argument was confined to the construction he placed on the former action of the supreme court. At one point he declared that the other side was endeavoring to get the supreme court "to guess against the sworn testimony of two witnesses that this woman committed forgery, when she wrote 'Colonial' on the checks."

W. B. Rodgers, who appeared for the executrix of the Brown estate, said he believed when the court made the last order that it intended to do justice, and did not intend that he should be bound down on an iron bed and allowed to do but one thing. He thought he was allowed to do anything that would lead to justice. That was his view and that was the view Judge Hawkins of the orphans court had taken.

The case of Robert G. Mattern, delinquent tax collector of Allegheny county, appellant, vs. Bishop Canevin, a trustee for the St. Paul's congregation, concerns the tax levied on the mortgage given when the old cathedral property was sold. The appellant claims that the only question at issue is whether a mortgage held by a church or religious association is subject to the state tax of four mills. The other side admits that this is the question. The lower court decided for the church.

The site of the Nixon theater is concerned in the case of David P. Black vs. Harry H. Woods and others, the appeals being taken by Harry H. and George A. Woods. The issue is in the manner of the division of the money paid for the portion of the site once owned by William Woods, who died in 1838, and turns on the construction to be placed on his will.

The fight over the sale of the Duquesne hotel property, in which D. F. Henry and wife are the appellants, and Sarah L. Black and others, the appellees, was up once more. It has been tried before the lower court and once before the supreme court. The suit involves the statute of frauds. Other cases argued were: William S. McDowell, trustee in bankruptcy, vs. Homer J. Lindsay, an action involving the liability of a stockholder for additional assessments, when he has bought stock below par, but at a price above its then market value; George F. Steck, appellant, vs. city of Altoona, an action for damages for injuries received by falling on a street; Samuel T. Owens, appellant, vs. William Goldie, an action over the sale of a patent; Charles Vowinkel, trustee in bankruptcy, appellant, vs. Fritz Moser and others, an action over a leasehold; J. C. Reilly and others, appellants, vs. Crown Petroleum Company, an action over the sale of oil estate of John Hershey, petition of Elizabeth Hershey for the specific performance of a contract with the New York & Cleveland Gas Coal Company to try certain ground.

An appeal was entered by Charles A. Warmcastle in his suit against Elizabeth H. Castner. In the superior court an appeal has been taken by the defendant in the suit of Nathan Hottner vs. the Aachen & Munich Fire Insurance Company of Aix-La-Chapelle, Germany.

THREE BUILDINGS TO HOUSE REVIVALISTS

Preparations Made for Evangelistic Services—Other Religious Events.

The second Sunday service to be conducted during the present revival in which the Christian churches of Western Pennsylvania are participating will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Nixon theater, old Third Presbyterian church, and German Evangelical Protestant church, Smithfield street and Sixth avenue. The latter church was secured because of the two overflow meetings held last Sunday.

A special invitation has been extended the students in this vicinity to attend these Sunday meetings. In the theater the principal speaker will be the Rev. H. L. Willett of Chicago, while Mrs. Princess Long, of Paris, Ky., soprano soloist, will assist the Netz sisters' quartet in the singing. In the Third Presbyterian church the speaker will be the Rev. W. T. Brooks of Indiana, while several evangelists will speak in the German church.

The new Calvary Presbyterian church of Wilkinsburg will be dedicated tomorrow with special services morning, afternoon and evening. In the morning the dedicatory sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. David R. Breed. In the afternoon a union meeting will be held when neighboring ministers will speak, while in the evening Dr. Breed will again deliver the sermon. The pastor is the Rev. F. Dean Miller.

The Mt. Washington Methodist Episcopal church, which has been burned twice in two years, will be reopened tomorrow morning and the third pipe organ which Andrew Carnegie has assisted in building in the four years, will be dedicated. The first church was burned to the ground in March, 1903, and a new church was dedicated in September of the following year. Last January the church was partially destroyed by fire, and the second organ, which was the partial gift of Mr. Carnegie, was destroyed. The building has been rebuilt and a new organ installed and the property is now valued at $62,000. The principal sermon will be delivered tomorrow morning by the Rev. Dr. C. W. Smith. In the afternoon a platform meeting will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. L. S. Wilkinson. In the evening, the Rev. Dr. James Mechem, presiding elder of the Pittsburgh district, will deliver the sermon.

The fifth season of Sunday lectures conducted by the Reform Congregation Rodeph Shalom will begin tomorrow morning in Carnegie Music hall, Allegheny, when the rabbi, the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, will deliver an opening address entitled "Forward," to be followed next week by a lecture entitled "What Japan Can Teach Us." Arrangements have been made to deliver these lectures in printed form, free of charge, to residents of Allegheny county who apply for them to the publisher, room 619 Bijou building.

Two new pastors will occupy local pulpits for the first time tomorrow. The Rev. Dr. Samuel Callen, late of Waterloo, Ia., will assume the pulpit of the Fourth Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Dr. Samuel Boston, who comes here from Steubenville, will take charge of the Park Avenue Presbyterian congregation. The new Methodist Episcopal church at Brackenridge will be dedicated tomorrow morning by the Rt. Rev. Bishop W. F. Mallalieu, D. D. In the afternoon the pastor, the Rev. Ralph Bell, will conduct a fraternal meeting, while the Rev. Dr. T. N. Boyle will preside in the evening. The new church seats 600 persons.

BERT BAUGHMAN GETS HEAVY FINE

Must Pay $500 and Costs to the County for Conducting Gambling Resort in the East End.

IN THE OIL BUSINESS NOW

Bert Baughman, who pleaded guilty to conducting a gambling house in Station street, East End, and was accused of being protected by a well-known county official, whose name has frequently been mentioned as having an interest in the place, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 by Judge Brown yesterday. Baughman's place was raided by County Detective R. G. Robinson and a number of county detectives, on complaint of a number of East End people, who said they could get no satisfaction from the police.

When Baughman was brought before Judge Brown for sentence, he was represented by Attorneys John C. Haymaker and John Marron. Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb, Jr., appeared for the commonwealth. County Detective Robinson testified to the raid by his officers and enumerated the various gambling devices found in the place. No other witnesses were called by the commonwealth, owing to the fact that Baughman had entered a plea of guilty.

Attorney Haymaker made a plea for Baughman, stating Baughman had retired from the gambling business forever, and was now in the oil business in the Beaver county fields.

Mr. Haymaker told the court that Baughman owned, with another man, a controlling interest in an oil company and had many wells and leases. After a number of witnesses had corroborated this, Attorney Haymaker asked for a suspension of sentence. He told the court that in the present case, if a severe sentence was imposed, it would be inflicting greater punishment on a near relative of the defendant who has been prostrated since he was arrested.

Judge Brown said he was aware of that phase of the case, but that the law had to be complied with. He said that for this offense a maximum sentence of $1,000 fine and six years' imprisonment in the penitentiary could be imposed. Under existing circumstances he said he thought the law would be satisfied if Baughman paid a good round sum of money into the county treasury.

Detective Robinson testified that the gambling house had not been open since the raid, and then Mr. Marron joined in the plea for suspension of Baughman, saying that even if a short prison term was imposed the stigma would stick to him all through after life.

"No matter if he did plead guilty," said Mr. Marron, "he did so to keep another man's name from being mentioned in connection with the case. I will not mention that man's name."

Judge Brown then sentenced Baughman to pay $500 and costs, at the same time stipulating that the fine be paid this morning, or Baughman would be called back and be sentenced. Attorneys Haymaker and Marron assured the court that the fine would be paid.

Judge Brown stated that when he made out his record in the case his reasons for the sentence in Baughman's case would be written as part of the record.

WOULD OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF THE BIRTH OF GARRISON

The clergymen of Pittsburgh and elsewhere in the country have recieved letters from the Boston Suffrage league requesting them to fittingly observe, in their church services on Sunday, December 10, the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Lloyd Garrison, the great anti-slavery agitator. The letter makes an appeal to arouse the people to the "present evil of negro-American serfdom through the nullification of those amendments to the constitution which are the dearly-bought fruits of the war for freedom."

John Marron Delivers Address.

Attorney John Marron delivered an address on "The Young Man," during an entertainment given by the Catholic Lyceum last night to members of that organization. Aside from the address an interesting program of music and song was rendered.

ARRESTS CHILDS AS A WITNESS

Secretary of Insurance Companies Compelled to Testify Against Marshall.

TEACHES LESSON IN HUMANITY

A. C. Childs, secretary and bookkeeper of the Duquesne Mutual, North American and Lafayette fire insurance companies, was brought into court on an attachment yesterday to testify in the trial of A. G. Marshall, the alleged insurance swindler. Lindsay Rockwell told of how Marshall was connected with the companies and Childs identified books and papers of the company. Many assets of the Duquesne Mutual, he said, were stocks of several other companies Marshall was identified with.

Childs also told of the formation of the Pennsylvania Underwriters' association, which was a consolidation of the three companies, each of which, however, was enabled to write its own policy. He said Marshall had charge of the stocks and bond department of the North American and Lafayette companies. Attorney Kahle showed the jury that A. G. Marshall & Co. was appointed general agent of the company with a commission of 40 per cent and 10 per cent for renewals. Attorney Blakely objected to the offering of reports to the state department of insurance as evidence.

Attorney Grimes said the reports were offered as showing that Marshall, as officer of these companies, rendered them knowing them to be false and fraudulent, and for the purpose of defrauding the people.

Judge Macfarlane said he did not believe an indictment for false pretense would stand for publishing false reports. The court reserved its decision until Monday.

Choked Master to Save Horse.

A lesson in humanity was taught in criminal court yesterday. Andrew Nesz was acquitted of assault and battery for interfering with Gottileb Mayer, whom he said was abusing his horse with a club. Mayer said Nesz had choked him in his stable without cause, but the defendant said he did it to save the horse and the court agreed with him. The jury placed the costs on Mayer.

Other cases were: Thomas Brodnex, larceny, six months to the workhouse; W. C. Porter, larceny by bailee, convicted.

J. H. Harrison secured an attachment against the Second Cumberland Presbyterian church and summoned George W. Berlin and Dr. F. G. High as garnishees. Harrison avers there is $69 38 due him from the trustees for legal services.

Leonard Riehl filed an answer to the bill in equity of George Fischer, son and executor of John Fischer, an action for an accounting. The defendant says he acted merely as a friend to the father of the plaintiff, reporting on investments at Fischer's request, and that Fischer made the investments himself.

A preliminary injunction was granted Dr. H. M. Mackenzie restraining the Allegheny County Light Company from shutting off his supply of electric light. The company was ordered to restore its connections.

An issue was awarded by orphans court to determine whether Sarah E. Killen was of sound mind when she made her will.

An attachment in assumpsis was issued by the Lawrence Gas Fixture Manufacturing Company against Thompson & Co. for $4,659, the plaintiff alleging the defendant assigned property to defraud its creditors.

Libels in divorce were: Carrie I. Byers vs. Victor B. Byers, indignities; Catherine Heck vs. Charles Heck, indignities; Robert S. Watson vs. Susannah M. Watson, desertion. The commissioners filed the testimony in the cases of Caroline A. Henselman against William Henselman, and Irene Shry against A. J. Shry. Cruelty is alleged by Mrs. Henselman and desertion is charged by Mrs. Shry. A physician testified Shry went to Mexico for his health, claiming to be suffering from tuberculosis, but the witness could not say he had that disease.

Wants $5,000 Damages.

Margaret J. Sproul sued Robert Sproul and William H. Cunningham, demanding $5,000 damages. She says they conspired to have her property sold on a judgment note which, she avers, was fraudulently obtained. Sproul, she charges, bought in the property.

Answers were filed by Samuel H. Grubbs and Thomas Leggate to the petition of Bertha Roessig for the opening of a judgment of $500 held against her by Grubbs. It is denied that the judgment was not lawfully obtained.

Arguments were heard by Judge Joseph Buffington in the motion of the General Electric Company for a preliminary injunction against the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Company to prevent the use of a patent alleged to cover certain trolley wheel devices on the mine locomotives of the defendants.

Executions issued: Farmers Deposit National bank vs. Western Pennsylvania Fuel Company, $454; same vs. same, $753; W. F. Frederick vs. Charles F. Goldstrohn, $173.

TAXES INCREASE REVENUES.

Larkin's Figures Show Taxpayers Contribute Nearly $500,000 More This Year Than Last.

Controller Larkin yesterday issued another batch of figures containing a comparison of the revenues of the city for the first eight months of the present fiscal year, beginning the first of February and ending September 30. The comparison is made with the same period of last year and shows an increase of $499,716 30.

The total revenues collected for the eight months of last year, so the controller states, was $7,107,101 62, and this year for the first eight months there was collected the sum of $7,606,817 92. The bulk of the increase is from the increase in property and water taxation, which amounts to $354,496. There is an increase of $18,673 from liquor licenses and $4,842 50 from vehicle licenses, the balance of the increase coming from miscellaneous sources.

Wilson Courts Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture, has suggested to the President that the Keep committee on department methods give special consideration to the method of issuing the crop reports from his department. Secretary Wilson's suggestion has been sent by the President to Chairman Keep.

"From all this disheartening and intolerable situation, wrought in a free country, by money-madness and organized greed—what shall come?

This is one short paragraph from Charles Edward Russell's superb Foreword to his series on Man's Struggle for Equality in Everybody's Magazine for November.

For many a day the world has not seen such absorbing writing as this.

When Russell gets down into a subject, he becomes terrible in his dramatic portrayal of the conditions of the poor and how they cannot stand it any longer and what they did and the result—to you—some day.

Everybody is Reading It.

If re-orders from booksellers all over the country, from San Francisco to Boston, are any proof, "My Friend the Chauffeur," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, has made a hit. People must be reading it everywhere. At any rate, they are buying it, and we are convinced that every copy read by any man or woman who appreciates a good story, means the sale of copies to just as many of that person's friends as he sees within the next few days after he reads it. Why? If you want to know why, get it and read it yourself.

READING THE LEADER IN AN ACTIVE MARKET

The Stock Again Makes a New High Record and Dominates the Trading—Call Loans Higher. Another Jump in Philadelphia Co.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

Reading common again dominated the New York stock market yesterday. The dealings were on an enormous scale, and during the early part of the day reflected much uneasiness. Fluctuations of a point or more within a few moments were of frequent occurrence. The pool in the stock sought to convey the impression that there was no "corner" and that none was contemplated. Nevertheless, when the price made its bound to 139½, the highest ever quoted, and a rise of nearly 7 per cent within two hours, the rest of the market became very irregular. The thing which restored a tone of partial confidence to the general list was the heavy buying of Erie and U. S. Steel common. These are looked upon as "Morgan stocks," and it was argued that if anything so disturbing as a "corner" in Reading was contemplated, the Morgan stocks would not come into prominence in a rising market.

As the day wore along and the activity in Reading was sustained, the street was not so confident that the movement was based solely upon covering of shorts. Many stories were current to give a plausible explanation for a 4 per cent railroad common stock selling within 2½ per cent of a stock like Pennsylvania, for instance. One of these stories was that an increase of dividend to a 6 per cent basis would soon follow the retirement of Reading second preferred. There was a revival of an old rumor that Mr. Hearst, the socialistic candidate for the New York mayoralty, was covering a line of 25,000 shares short Reading. It was also reported that a prominent speculator had covered a large line of shorts at a loss estimated at between $600,000 and $1,000,000. Nothing absolutely reliable developed during the day, however, and the stock closed at a net gain of 5⅞ per cent.

In the industrial list Railway Steel Springs common was the active feature, and was relatively as strong as Reading. It opened at 50¾, receded to 50 and then advanced to 55⅝, the highest ever quoted, closing with a net advance of 5½ per cent. There is only $13,500,000 of this stock, and a pool would have less difficulty in manipulating it than would be the case with a stock like United States Steel common, for instance, with more than $500,000,000 outstanding. The only "argument" on Railway Springs was that it was a 4 per cent stock and was quoted some 20 points below Locomotive, which paid no dividend. The United States Steel stocks were rather heavy and closed at a net loss of ½ per cent. Tennessee Coal and Iron, after opening at 98¾, broke to 92 and closed at 92¾. The other iron and steel stocks were inactive and only fractionally changed. Smelting was strong and advanced to 142⅞, closing 1⅞ higher than on Thursday. Amalgamated Copper closed ¼ lower.

Among the high-priced railroad stocks Canadian Pacific was the strongest, advancing to 174¾, and closing with a net gain of 1 per cent. Pennsylvania, which was quoted ex-dividend of 3 per cent, declined from 143⅜ to 142½ and closed at 142¾. Union Pacific just about held its own. Southern Pacific closed ¼ lower and St. Paul ½ higher.

The foreign market for American securities averaged slightly higher and London was reported a buyer of Erie on the advance, but otherwise took very little part in the dealings. There was also a subsidence of activity in the Missouri, Kansas & Texas issues.

The reactionary tendency of the market in the final dealings was induced by the firmness of call money. The rate advanced to 6½ per cent, and one large banking house is said to have called in about $5,000,000. Because of the firmness displayed by the money market the street was inclined to look for a poor bank statement today. It was estimated that the banks have lost between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 through sub-treasury operations and direct shipments of currency, and it is also probable that the loan item will show an increase, in which event a decrease in the surplus reserve seems very probable.

In the local stock market Philadelphia company continued to be the feature. On transactions of nearly 1,500 shares the stock advanced to and closed at 53⅜, the highest on the present capitalization. Local traders are apparently no better informed as to the cause of the movement than they were when the stock was stagnant below par, and advices from the east throw no light upon it. The natural gas stocks were dull and barely steady. Liquidation continued in Lustre Mining and the stock sold down to 31 on sales of less than 500 shares. There were no transactions in Crucible Steel common, but 500 shares of the preferred changed hands at 65¼ to 67, closing at the latter price. Westinghouse Electric rallied to and closed at 86¾ and Air Brake sold unchanged at 150. The remainder of the list was without feature.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH	IN WALL STREET
Philadelphia Company stock still led the local market.	Reading made a new record and dominated the whole market.
The common advanced to and closed at 53⅜, highest on this capital.	The stock advanced to within 2½ points of Pennsylvania.
The preferred advanced to par for the first time this year.	Railway Steel Springs common jumped 5½ points to a new high price.
Lustre Mining declined to 31 on sales of less than 500 shares.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The revival of activity in Philadelphia Company stock is relieving the local market from stagnation. Dealings in the stock in the Philadelphia market, however, are much more active than in Pittsburgh, which lends color to the theory expressed by a local broker that the public is just waking up to the merits of the stocks, and that this newly revived appreciation is responsible for the movement of the past few days, which has carried the price to the highest level on the present capitalization. "I don't take much stock in the stories of a new deal for changing control of the property," remarked the broker who has always been more or less prominent in any activity in the stock for years. "I think this is a case where the eastern bankers interested in the stock, where the control is held, found conditions favorable to make an active rising market. On almost every former occasion when the stock has reached par, the east has been swamped with offerings from Pittsburgh. This was the case a few years ago when an attempt was made to stimulate active dealings in New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The pool got tired paying commissions for the manipulation, because the public here instead of buying, seized the opportunity to unload. Pittsburgh is a comparatively small holder of the stock at this time, and if there is a movement afoot to broaden the market, it will not be obstructed by liquidation here."

Some disappointment is expressed over the apathy prevailing in natural gas stocks. This is the season when earnings begin to improve, and for the next six months they will be very heavy. Still there is no sign of a movement to discount the improvement.

There were no transactions in Crucible Steel common yesterday, and the price remained steady at 13⅝@13¾. The preferred stock was fairly active at 66¾ to 67. Brokers contend that Crucible is in a much better financial and trade position than some of the industrials which have been leading the advance in the eastern market, but despite the fact that Crucible is one of the New York stock exchange, there have been no transactions in it in that market for months.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass sold unchanged at 119. Comment is made upon the fact that the stock is only a point above the low price of the year, and that it is 11 points below the high price of the year quoted last in March. Considering that all the ports of the glass trade have been favorable for months past, it is a little remarkable that the stock has remained so quiet.

The head of one of the large Wall street commission houses sent out a note of warning yesterday afternoon, to the effect that Hearst's prospects for winning the New York mayoralty fight were growing brighter every hour, and that should he be elected it would have a bad effect upon the market. Traders were cautioned to go slow until after Wednesday, when election doubts would be removed as a factor.

The net earnings of Louisville & Nashville for September decreased 5.76 per cent and for three months ending September it was 7.53 per cent. In the same period the gross earnings increased 6.17 per cent for September and 8.42 per cent for the three months ending September. The operating expenses increased 13.02 per cent in September and 16.13 per cent for the three months ending with September. The mileage under operation was 4,161 miles against 3,897 miles in the corresponding quarter in 1904. The cost of operating rose increased somewhat during the quarter because of the quarantine regulations.

While the terms of the proposed new stock issue of $11,674,500 by the General Electric Company have not been arranged, the impression seems to prevail that the securities will be offered to stockholders at par. Last year $4,377,800 of the stock was sold for cash at par, the quotation of the stock at that time being below 160. At present the stock is selling slightly below 190. In view of this difference it would appear that the company would be warranted in asking a higher price for its stock than last year.

At the opening of the market Content was a heavy seller of United States common, his sales during the first two hours being estimated at 25,000 shares.

The Wall Street Journal says: "An interest of the Pittsburgh Coal Company says no dividends on the preferred stock can be expected for two years at least. It will be the object of the company to accumulate a substantial working capital from earnings before the question of resuming dividends is taken up for consideration. There is an improvement in the bituminous coal situation in Pennsylvania, but the process of strengthening the financial status of the Pittsburgh Coal Company will be slow."

More than one-fifth of the total sales of stocks in New York yesterday consisted of Reading. The managers of the pool in the stock vehemently denied that there was any danger of a corner, but they persisted in predictions of constantly higher prices for the stock. As they were apparently able to enforce their predictions there was not much comfort for the shorts in assurances against a corner.

The speculative dread of a corner in Reading lies not only in the losses involved to the shorts, but in the difficulty of completing the operations owing to the restive left in the hands of the conductors of the corner after a settlement with the shorts has been enforced. This residue in the slang of the market is known as the "corpse" and offers peculiar embarrassments in its disposition. The shadow of a threatened corner in the market may sufficiently explain therefore the growing hesitation of the speculative tone.

Japanese bond issues were unusually active in the New York market yesterday, sales footing up $1,370,000, or fully a third of the total day's business. The first series 4s closed ¼ lower, and the other issues ¼ higher. Erie convertible 4s were the most active of the railroad issues, sales footing up $432,000, at prices ranging from 108¾ to 109½.

The preliminary estimates of the movement of currency for the week was an unsettling influence, owing to the indications of the poor bank statement today. A heavy resumption of the movement of cash to the interior is indicated. Of the loss by the banks of $3,712,000 to the sub-treasury, $2,350,000 is accounted for by the deposits at that institution by the banks for telegraphic transfer to interior points. Statements by the banks themselves indicate that rather more than this has gone to the interior on the direct movement. This would involve a cash loss of upwards of $6,000,000. The revived activity in the speculation seems to promise a considerable loan expansion which would aggravate the encroachment on the surplus reserves.

Sterling exchange was firm at a further slight advance and discussion continued of the likelihood of an export movement of gold. Berlin discounts rose sharply also and sterling exchange there was lower. Wheat exports for the week, including flour, rose to 6,283,399 bushels, compared with 4,267,169 bushels last week and 2,831,482 bushels the week before. The effect of the Russian disturbances on the foreign supply of wheat and the resulting demand for export from here is thus seen to be notable, but the resulting supply of exchange is affected by the sales of securities for foreign account in the New York market which have gone on simultaneously. Exports of corn also expanded to over a million bushels for the week.

MARKET VERY ACTIVE, BUT STOCKS IRREGULAR

Wild Movements Are Made in a Few Special Issues Like Reading and Erie.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Herald this (Saturday) morning says:

Stocks were irregular yesterday, with some wild movements in a few special issues like Reading, Erie and Railway Steel Springs, which were a strong reminder of the crazy days of 1901, just before the memorable collapse. The movement differed from that, however, in that the public played no important part in yesterday's proceedings. It was very largely a professional affair, and was highly disliked by the conservative element, as was shown by the irregularity and late heaviness of the general list at the close.

The market was very active, but with business poorly distributed and confined to a rather limited group of issues, upon which pool and clique interests centered. Some warnings were again displayed, chiefly in an advance in call money, which touched 6½ per cent, and in a hardening of time rates. There was a sharp advance in Berlin discounts, of which more is likely to be heard.

It would be idle to seek for an explanation of yesterday's stock market movements in any of the news developments of the day. News there was, some good and some otherwise, but neither the good nor the bad was forceful enough to have much influence. While the late reaction was unquestionably attributed to the advance in call rates the tightening of time money and the outflow of cash reported by the banks during the week, there is fully as much, if not more, reason to believe that it was simply the natural reaction from the speculative excesses of the pools in Reading, Erie, Railway Steel Springs, and the like.

Russian advices were conflicting, but seemed somewhat better politically, but otherwise not sufficiently so to constitute a bull argument for the flotation of Russian loan bonds among investors or to greatly stimulate foreign markets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(

STRONG DEMAND FOR EGGS THAT ARE FRESH

Market Uncertain as to Prices. Lower Grades Rather Quiet. Good Prices on Apples.

There is a difference of opinion expressed as to the price of eggs on the local market. The quotation given here for selected eggs at 24 to 25 cents is maintained by a number of commission merchants, while others claim it is impossible for them to buy eggs at the prices quoted. The New York quotation for Pennsylvania extra firsts is 25 to 27c, while the selected white fancy are being quoted at 35c, but it is seldom that the New York market has much bearing on the local market, as strictly fresh eggs have been scarce there for some time and there has been a large sale of storage eggs, which are quoted here at 21 to 22 cents. A number of merchants have been able to buy eggs down the river at the prices quoted below, but others have not fared so well. As a number of sales were made at the price quoted yesterday it is likely this price will stand.

The prices of live poultry remain unchanged and there seems to be an over supply of fowls. The outlook in this market is uncertain.

The market for apples continues strong, with an active demand, the prices favoring the sellers. Western apples when fancy are commanding extremely good prices. Pears are in moderate supply and firm. Grapes are in liberal supply and cranberries are in active demand.

There has been no change in the flour market and it is remaining firm.

HAY AND GRAIN.

The market continues firm and active. Receipts are not any heavier than the demand, and while that condition exists the market will remain strong. Arrivals of straw are limited and the market is active in that line. Milled feeds remain steady. Corn is in good demand and the new yellow ear is being quoted.

The Wool Market.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow of the wool market:

The activity of last week seems to have been generally sustained, but some few dealers report a quieter trade. Worsted wools are in better demand, with especial strength in quarterbloods while clothing wools are weaker. Fleeces have moved quite freely on all grades since the readjustment of values. Ohio washed delaine is now worth 30½@37c as compared with 40@41c in August. The top figure on XX is 35c, 28c for three-eighths and 31c for quarters. All grades of territory staple are active and some lines of fine clothing have been transferred at 70@72c. Quite an amount of second wools have been sold to dress goods mills at 70c for strictly fine.

Contracting for the 1906 clip is only being done occasionally in small lots as a late report, however, from the sheep springs district in Idaho states that the mallad clip of 500,000 pounds has been contracted at 23@23½c by a Boston house.

The shipments of wool from Boston to date from December 29, 1904, according to the same authority are 205,633,949 pounds against 201,-164,109 pounds at the same time last year. The receipts to date are 204,023,477 pounds against 253,891,335 pounds for the same period last year.

WHEAT MARKET RESTS ON RUSSIAN ADVICES

Belief that Worst Is Over Stops Advance and Grain Prices Break a Little.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Apparent passing of the worst of the crisis in Russia left the wheat market here without any energetic support today. At the close wheat for May delivery was off 1¼@⅞c. Corn, oats and provisions are practically unchanged.

Sentiment in the wheat pit was bearish throughout the day. At the start the market was affected by the smallness of the response made by the wheat market at Liverpool to the advance here yesterday. The comparatively weak tone of the English market seemed to indicate more confidence in the final outcome of the situation in Russia. Improved weather in Argentina was also the cause of bearish feeling. The total volume of business was small, trading being listless the greater part of the day. Opening quotations on May were unchanged to ¼c lower, at 90¼c to 90⅜c. December was off a shade to ⅛c at 89⅛@89¼c, to 88¼c. During the first half of the session the market held fairly steady at a slight decline. Considerable weakness developed later, following a sharp decline at Minneapolis. On the break the price of the May option dropped to 88⅝@89¼c. December sold off to 88⅝@88¾c. However, a large portion of the loss was regained on covering by shorts. This demand was mainly attributable to the large exports of wheat and flour for the past week as shown by Bradstreet's report, the total movement being estimated at 6,283,000 bushels, compared with 4,482,000 bushels the corresponding week 1904. The market closed easy with May at 90@90⅛c.

December closed at 89@89¼c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 179,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,169,000 bushels, compared with 1,122,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 356 cars against 847 cars last week, and 956 cars a year ago.

The corn market was unsettled, but on the whole was relatively firm, owing to a scarcity of offerings. Numerous reports of poor returns from huskings were not without effect in stimulating demand. Clear weather had an opposite effect. The market closed firm with prices at about the highest point of the day. December opened a shade lower, at 45⅝c, sold between 45⅝@45¾c and 45¾c, and closed at 46c. May ranged between 46⅛@46¾c, and 46⅜c and closed at 46¾@46⅞c. Local receipts were 574 cars, with 17 of contract grade.

Oats were steady on a small volume of business. At the start, cash houses were sellers in a small way against increased offerings from the country. The cash situation was greatly improved, sample oats meeting with good inquiry at higher prices. December opened a shade lower at 30¼c, sold between 30c and 30¼c, and closed at 30¼@30⅜c. May ranged between 32¾@32½c, and 32½c, and closed at 32⅝c. Local receipts were 282 cars.

Provisions were steady. Trading was extremely quiet and mostly in small lots. The bulk of trading was in the May delivery. At the close May pork was off a shade at $12 67½. Lard was up a shade at $6 97½. Ribs were off a shade at $6 72½@6 75.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 169 cars; corn, 228 cars; oats, 379 cars; hogs 15,000 head.

The leading futures as reported by John D. Armstrong & Co., Farmers Bank building, Pittsburgh, members of the Chicago board of trade, ranged as follows:

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

The report of the Homestake Gold Mining Company of South Dakota for the last fiscal year ending June 1, 1905, shows that there were 1,388,100 tons of ore milled, which yielded $2,221,089, an average of $3 73 per ton. Adding $81,249 received from miscellaneous sources and $18,217 carried forward from the previous fiscal year makes $5,320,655 available for distribution. From this amount $819,000 has been paid in dividends to stockholders, being at the rate of nearly 3% per cent on the capitalization of $24,840,000. In the current fiscal year, however, the rate will be higher by reason of the payment of monthly dividends of 50 cents per share, which is equivalent to 6 per cent per annum on par, $100, and 7½ per cent on the latest market price.

The tonnage from the Cripple Creek mines for the month of October was the greatest in the history of the camp, reaching the enormous sum of 71,000 tons. The value was $1,956,787. The grade, of course, was lower on account of the immense amount of low grade ore treated by cyanide, but it goes to show that that process will ultimately recover untold millions in this district. The value of the October output exceeded the output of the previous month by $110,487, while the tonnage was 12,-760 tons greater.

The Fort Pitt company is still sinking on the Sunshine claim on Galena hill, and will probably attain a depth of about 700 feet before lateral work is pushed to exploit the rich ore body that was worked near the surface.

At a depth of about 400 feet from whence the present scheme of development in the Rico-Aspen group of mines, at Rico, has encountered a vein of ore which measures 10 to 12 feet in width. It is a vertical fissure vein, of the class peculiar to that district, and yields liberally in lead and zinc, the lead contents showing an average of 16 per cent, the zinc 30 to 40 per cent, and the iron from 15 to 20 per cent, making an easy concentration proposition. The presence of zinc, lead and iron at this comparatively shallow depth indicates an improvement in gold and silver values as depth is gained.

One of the largest and richest bodies of gold-bearing ore ever found in Arizona has been uncovered in the Union mine, Chapparel gulch, Yavapai county. The mine is the individual property of John E. Jones, who has been doing development work for some time. It is said by mining men and others that the ore now exposed in the new strike in the mine makes the property easily worth half a million dollars. The Little Jesse mill in the same district has made a run on the ore, and a bar of bullion was taken into Prescott a few days ago. The discovery was made in what is known as the Blair ledge, and the vein was encountered in a drift which was started from the main tunnel. This drift has been run through a body of ore for 100 feet which ranges from $20 to $40 gold per ton, and the work is still going forward in this ore body.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The London tin market was higher, with spot closing at £149 15s and futures at £149. Locally, the market was steady at $32 95@33 00. Copper also was higher abroad, closing at £71 12s for spot and £70 12s 6d for futures. The local market was unchanged, closing at $16 37½@16 75 for lake, $16 25@16 62½ for electrolytic and $16 00@16 37½ for casting. Lead was unchanged at £14 18s 9d in London. The local market continues firm, with quotations ranging from $5 15@5 30, the inside price being for 30-day shipment. Spelter was lower at £28 pounds 5s in London. The local market was quiet at $6 15@6 25. Iron was a shade lower at 48s for standard foundry, but unchanged at 52s 6d for Cleveland warrants in the English market. The local situation was unchanged. No. 1 foundry northern and southern are quoted at $18 25@18 50; No. 2 foundry northern and southern at $17 75@18 00.

Little New Work Is Starting and Pools in Prospect Not Promising

Development work in the lower southwest fields continues without any sensational features. There is a little new work starting in new localities and it is possible that some of it will result in the discovery of new producing territory. It is not at all likely that no more pools will be found, but they must necessarily be small for the reason that no large bodies of territory, inside of what is regarded as the producing area, remain untested. More attention is now given to putting the old wells in shape to make them produce a little more than searching for new locations. In the Smithfield district, Carnahan & Smith have drilled their test on the E. W. Price farm through the Gordon and found that formation barren. They are now drilling to the fifth sand. In the Big Flint district, Doddridge county, the South Penn Oil Company has completed and shot its No. 29 on the David Underwood farm and when cleaned out will have a light pumper.

In the Folsom district, Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 5 on the Patrick Ice farm to the top of the Gordon. No oil and only a light gas pressure was developed in the stray. In the Garner district, Marshall county, the South Penn Oil Company has given its No. 1, an old well, on the Gertrude Stein farm an 80-quart shot and the well responded with a nice flow. In the Wick district, on Sugar creek, Tyler county, the American Oil Development Company has now drilled its No. 10 on the John Bullman farm through the Big Injun and found that formation barren. The well, however, is not a total failure, as it will make a light pumper in the Maxon sand.

In the Mannington district, Marion county, th Metz Oil Company has put its test on the A. W. Varner farm to pumping from the Gordon and it is producing less than five barrels a day. On Lewellyn run, in the same district, the Burt Oil Company has started to drill at No. 4 on the Daniel Varner farm. On Downs run, Clay district, Wetzel county, the Carnegie Gas Company has made a location on the Leonard Garrison farm. On Dunkard creek, Battelle district, Monongalia county, the same company is starting a test on the Hagan Six farm. In Church, Clay and Center districts, Wetzel counties, the Hope, Ammega and Wheeling gas companies and the Philadelphia Company are very active in development work.

On the Ohio side, in the Marietta district, Washington county, Samuel Neill & Co. have completed No. 5 on the Charles R. Rowland heirs' farm and have a duster in the first Cow Run sand. In the Berea grit development, east of Woodsfield, Monroe county, development work is extending to the northwest. The late wells completed are not so large as those found in the older part of the pool, but are of sufficient size to encourage the starting of new work.

In the Burgettstown development, Washington, Pa., Kelly Bros. & Cooper have secured a good producer on the R. C. Vance farm. It is this company's No. 3 on that farm and is good for 40 or 50 barrels a day. In the Georgetown district, Beaver county, the Beaver Falls Light and Heat Company has completed a test on the William Graham farm and has a fair gasser in the Berea grit. At Clinton, Allegheny county, Logan & Co. have shot and cleaned out their test on the Fanny Porter farm. The well got its oil in the 100-foot and since tubed the well is reported to have averaged 20 barrels a day. The location of this test is southwest of the wells drilled on the McNeil farm and about two miles in advance of production. Leasing has been quite active in that locality since the Porter farm test came in and operators have thought well enough of the prospects to pay some bonus for leases. There will be some new work started in the near future.

CAR SHORTAGE DISTURBS THE LITTLE KANAWHA TO BE DEVELOPED

May Delay Local End Two Years. Schoonmaker, McCrea, Murray and Randolph in Deal.

P. R. R. HAULS 30,000 DAILY

The Little Kanawha properties are now in the name of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company, and becoming such the future of the "Little Giant" appears bright for a large extension into a valuable territory. The two Pittsburgh officers interested in the purchase of the properties from the syndicate headed by Joseph Ramsey, Jr., George J. Gould and others returned to Pittsburgh yesterday morning from New York, where the transfer was made to the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie company Wednesday morning, and where the further arrangement of the properties in a purchase of a half interest by the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio companies was made at a meeting Thursday. The two Pittsburghers directly concerned were Col. J. M. Schoonmaker vice president and general manager of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, and James McCrea, first vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west.

The Little Kanawha properties thus come directly into the hands of the three largest systems of Pittsburgh, the New York Central lines, the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio. Col. Schoonmaker represented the first-named system, Mr. McCrea the Pennsylvania and President Oliver H. Murray and First Vice President George F. Randolph the Baltimore & Ohio interest.

The transfer was made upon the payment of $2,000,000 to the syndicate, the remainder of the purchase price being secured by proper credentials. This action was taken on Wednesday morning by Col. Schoonmaker, Mr. Ramsey and the other syndicate holders. On Thursday a conference was held by Messrs. Schoonmaker, McCrea, Murray and Randolph, when the arrangement for the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio companies each taking a quarter interest was negotiated.

While the property and phases of its future were discussed, the subject was not gone into thoroughly enough to make public any plans. These will be worked out in time and will not only give new West Virginia coal fields an outlet to Pittsburgh and the northwest, but will also give Pittsburgh a much-needed direct connection with tidewater in Eastern Virginia. The property really becomes a community of interest holding, as the roads directly interested will be those named above and the Chesapeake & Ohio, which becomes interested through the Pennsylvania holding. One of the interested parties said yesterday that it will probably be a matter of two years before the work of construction will be taken up in an active manner for the Pittsburgh end of the line. It is probable that some of the projected lines in West Virginia will be built soon, while the 50-mile line of the Little Kanawha railroad now in operation from Parkersburg to Creston may be operated by the Baltimore & Ohio until the longer lines connecting with the big coal properties are developed. The future Little Kanawha is thus placed into something of the shape of the Monongahela railroad in the lower Connellsville coke region, which line is owned jointly by the Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie companies, although operated independently.

Handle 30,000 Persons a Day.

Announcement of the count of passengers made on the trains departing from and arriving at the Union station on Wednesday, October 25, was made from the office of General Agent H. A. Jaggard of the Pennsylvania yesterday. There were 29,207 persons hauled on that day, which is slightly below the general average, for the day was rainy and few out-of-town or suburban people were out shopping. The average daily number, it was stated, would be more nearly 32,000 or 38,000. The counts of the different divisions were not made public, for the reason that an impartial census could not be given for public consideration, owing to the fact that about 50 per cent of the Panhandle suburban business is handled from the Fourth avenue station and probably 75 per cent of the Ft. Wayne suburban business from the Allegheny station, while a great many people who use the trains stop at other stations within the city limits on the several divisions. If counted up entirely for all of the stations within the greater Pittsburgh limit, the number would easily reach 45,000, or probably 50,000, people daily.

The day showed something of interest in that more people departed from the city than arrived, the difference being 601 persons. There were 13,742 persons hauled into the city and 14,343 persons hauled out. There were 1,122 through passengers on the Pennsylvania trains that day. The Pennsylvania handles 364 through and local passenger trains now each week day into and out of the Union station and 189 trains on Sundays.

Tatnall and Speyer Look Around.

Henry Tatnall, fifth vice president of the Pennsylvania, and James Speyer and Charles Steele, prominent financial men of New York, who are directors of the Baltimore & Ohio and also interested financially in the Pennsylvania, made an inspection of the Pittsburgh terminals of the latter road yesterday. Messrs. Speyer, Steele and one or two other eastern men will leave for New York in a special train over the Baltimore & Ohio at 5 o'clock this morning. The train will be handled as the first section of No. 6, and the two directors will be given opportunity to view the property of which they are directors. It is probable that they will be accompanied as far as Cumberland by General Superintendent Robert Finney of the Pittsburgh system of the road. Mr. Tatnall went to Philadelphia last night. This was his first trip over the local terminal lines. He expressed himself as surprised at the enormous development made by the Pennsylvania in the past few years. General Agent Jaggard accompanied the party in the special train about the city.

Roads in Need of Men.

While this is the season of the year that men are usually dropped from the road forces, men are needed just now for service in various departments of the maintenance work on several of the local lines. The Panhandle is in need of carpenters for the road work out of Carnegie and also wants a force of men to attend the repairs of interlocking plants. The dismissals of men from the section forces will begin in a short time.

P. R. R. issues Excursion Book.

Those contemplating a winter excursion will do well to consult the winter excursion book that has just been issued by the Pennsylvania railroad. Col. Thomas E. Watt, passenger agent of the western district, has just received copies of the book at his office here, and has placed copies in the various local ticket offices. The excursion routes cover every point of interest in the south, southwest and the Pacific coast. An additional interest is given by handsome half-tone pictures of scenic features along the routes.

Missouri Pacific-San Pedro Route.

John R. James, central passenger agent of the western Gould lines, was in receipt of advices from the general passenger offices yesterday that the Missouri Pacific will begin the operation of a semi-weekly tourist car service between St. Louis and Los Angeles next Tuesday. The route will be by way of the new San Pedro line through Salt Lake City. The tourist cars will be handled on the best train of the Missouri Pacific system, No. 1, every Tuesday and Thursday, leaving St. Louis at 9 o'clock a. m.

Railroad Notes.

P. A. Marr, traveling passenger agent of the Illinois Central at Cincinnati, was in the city.

L. H. Turner, superintendent of motive power of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, has returned from the west, where he attended the funeral of a relative.

Samuel M. Rankin, chief clerk in the general passenger transportation office of the Pennsylvania lines west, is confined to his home in Avalon by tonsilitis.

R. C. Ramsdale, telegraph operator in the office of Station Master C. W. Walsh of the Lake Erie, has gone to his home in York state for a vacation of two weeks.

Thomas A. Holland has resigned his position in the office of Freight Agent Zeigler of the Pennsylvania, and will leave in a few days for California. He was formerly connected with the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie.

The National Tube Company officers will occupy the private Pullman car Rover today for a trip to the various mills of the company in the Monongahela valley. The party will travel in a special train over the Baltimore & Ohio.

Can you save $5 a week? That amount deposited each week in the Peoples Savings bank, Fourth avenue and Wood street, at 4 per cent compound interest, would amount in five years to $1,462; in 10 years to $2,252 and in 20 years to $8,070. Accounts may be started with any amount from $1 up.

ANOTHER DEAL IN WATER STREET

Painter Property at 227-229 Reported Sold Again for Price of $115,000.

COSTLY HOMES AT SHIELDS

The sale of the former Painter property at 227-229 Water street, was reported yesterday, the consideration named being $115,000. A few months ago the property was sold to Harry Sellers through the Aronson Realty Company for $105,000. The name of the present buyer is not made public. The lot measures 30x160 feet, extending through to First avenue, where it is known as Nos. 226-228. It is improved with the old three-story brick warehouse used for years by the Painters. The last deal figures at the rate of $3,833 a front foot for either frontage, or nearly $24 a square foot. Prices have been going up steadily in Water street for three months and property near by in Market and Wood streets has also made some notable advances, judged by the sales closed.

S. Rosenbloom, the wholesale liquor dealer, proves to have been the buyer of the John A. Staley property at 431 Liberty avenue, the sale of which for $110,000 was announced in The Gazette last week. Mr. Rosenbloom, who has a two years' lease on his present location at 29 Diamond square, takes the Liberty avenue property for an investment, but may eventually occupy it with his business, as the lease of the Cudahy Packing Company on the Staley building has only one more year to run. The lot is 23 feet 11 inches by 115 feet and is improved with a four-story brick building.

"Bonaveen" is Big Addition to Shields.

"Bonaveen place" is the title given to a neighborhood at Shields which bids fair to rival any of the exclusive districts of that section. A contract recently awarded by W. J. Tener, the real estate broker, for a $25,000 stone residence, makes the fourth costly home to be built in Bonaveen place within two years and it is possible that another similar residence may be erected soon. The development of the place is an interesting bit of real estate history. In 1897 George E. and W. J. Tener bought 87 acres of land at Shields from the estate of Elizabeth Shields. The property is just off the Beaver road and about 12 minutes' walk from Shields station, from which it is now reached by pavements and a macadamized road. There are macadamized roads on two other sides of the property which is heavily wooded with virgin forest trees and commands a magnificent view of the Ohio river valley. Mr. Pentefract built a $30,000 stone residence on his purchase. Later on William Walker bought 20 acres of the property and last on May he completed a $50,000 stone residence on the crest of the hill. He sold four acres of his land to Samuel Walker, who already owned a good sized plot adjoining. Samuel Walker has built a $35,000 house on his site in which there are 350 perches of stone. W. J. Tener's residence, for which the contract was recently awarded by Architects Rutan & Russell to Falck & Springer of Allegheny, will stand in the center of a three-acre plot which he reserved for his own use at the lower end of the property. His brother, George E. Tener, still has his six-acre site, but may improve it later. The group of four costly houses with the accompanying improvements, has transformed a remarkably pretty property into a charming home resort.

Some Good Residence Sales.

Through the office of S. H. Lloyd David Rosenthal, the Fifth avenue furniture dealer, has bought from S. H. Treat a fine residence at 302 Fairmont avenue, near Friendship avenue, for $17,000. The house is a modern center hall brick residence on 50x110 feet and will be occupied by the purchaser as a home.

S. Arnold & Co. have closed the sale of the property of Dr. Vaux and S. Arnold in Center avenue to Max Feinberg, who pays $17,000 for it. The site 80x76 feet, is now improved with three brick houses well rented. These are to be replaced in the spring, it is said, by a modern three-story brick store building.

Edwin Bevier has secured title from George A. Swetye to a three-story brick flat building on 30x117 feet in Maryland avenue, Twentieth ward. The consideration was $18,500.

William Hayes has sold a residence property 52x133 feet, in Susquehanna street, Thirty-seventh ward, for $14,000. The buyers are Elizabeth N. Moore, William S. and J. R. Moore.

Through the Home Trust Company Samuel D. Wilson has sold to Lillian J. Wade a residence property 50x140 feet on the south side of Daizell avenue, near Dallas avenue, Twenty-second ward, for $11,000.

Plans for Hotel Lincoln Addition.

Architect F. Ed. Cornelius has completed plans for the 12-story addition to the Hotel Lincoln, which A. L. Richmond, Jr., the owner of that hostelry, will erect shortly. The proposed building will be in every way a fitting companion of the old structure and will contain about 80 rooms. The Hotel Lincoln, which under its new management was renovated and refurnished, is overcrowded and no time will be lost after the contract is awarded in getting the addition finished.

Architect F. G. Scheibler, Jr., has completed plans for the Wilkins school house to be erected in Braddock avenue, Swissvale, at a cost of $50,000. The building will contain eight rooms and will be very similar in appearance to the Hawkins school house in Swissvale, which is now being erected from plans by the same architect. Bids on the Wilkins building will be taken as soon as the borough has arranged for the bond issue to pay for it.

The contract has been awarded by Architects Milligan & Miller for the four-story brick apartment house of Dr. E. P. Gray at the corner of Hay and Rebecca streets, Wilkinsburg. The building will cost about $40,000.

Architects A. Lindgren & Son have awarded the contract to Hutchinson & Adams for a three-story flat for Mrs. George Fernoff at 716 Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg, to cost $9,000.

Busy Times in Wilkinsburg.

A. D. Harrison of the Wilkinsburg Real Estate and Trust Company "got busy" in October and made nine sales during the month, totaling $33,500, all for Wilkinsburg property. The last three of these are announced below. For Richard W. Beatty he sold to Phoebe L. Herr 1208 Wood street, a 10-room brick house on 32x160 feet, for $8,750 for a home. For Shields & Mansfield he sold to William Schaefer 25x175 feet in Hay street, opposite Ross avenue, and extending back to the Pennsylvania railroad, for $6,000. A frame building occupied as a restaurant stands on the front and a brick automobile garage on the rear of the lot. The rental is $660 a year, which makes the property from an investment standpoint a rare bargain. He also sold for the Howe estate to Mrs. L. J. Fox 50x120 feet on the west side of Mifflin street, near Overton street, Third ward, for $3,250.

Wilkinsburg: The Wilkinsburg Trust Company sold for the Hampton Land Company to Edward Guthrie 76x190 feet on the west side of Todd street, Third ward, Wilkinsburg, for $3,500 as a site for two $6,000 brick houses.

Penn avenue: S. H. Lloyd sold for Miss Borrett to A. Stroyd 502 Penn avenue, a brick house on 25x110 feet. The same broker sold for Julius Fleischman to Miss Borrett a brick house on 25x70 feet in Rodman street, near North Highland avenue, Nineteenth ward.

City Sells Lots at Auction.

The city of Pittsburgh held an auction sale of real estate at the city hall yesterday morning which was largely attended. The properties disposed of were sold for back taxes, but the buyers get them free from all taxes and city liens, but subject to whatever mortgages might have been placed on them before the city got its hands on them. Such properties, of which there are several hundred to be sold, can be sold only on petition of some claimant or some one who desires to get a chance to buy them. Some of those secured yesterday were regarded as bargains and the future sales promise to be very interesting affairs. Following is a list of yesterday's deals:

To Timothy Griffin, lots Nos. 39, 40, 41 and 42 in the Berger plan in Chauncey street, Thirteenth ward, 100x70 feet, for $400; to a downtown real estate broker, lots Nos. 2 and 3 in the E. E. Jones plan in the Thirteenth ward, 101x100 feet, on the south side of Center avenue, near Reed street, for $1,800; to G. E. Whitworth, lots Nos. 102 and 103 in the Sawyer plan in the Eighteenth ward, 67.5x100 feet, in Butler street, for $500; to W. L. Unver, lots Nos. 125, 126 and 127 in the Samuel Garrison heirs' plan in the Eighteenth ward, for $1,200.

Beaver Falls: C. C. Hamilton sold for Ida Schaney to John Schubert a two-story brick store building on 43x145 feet in Seventh avenue, Beaver Falls, for $8,000. Mr. Schubert giving in part payment a frame house on 75x125 feet in Freeland street, Mt. Washington, valued at $5,000.

Davis street: The Aronson Realty Company sold to David Stein, 6 Davis street, Eleventh ward, a six-room house on 20x80 feet, for $4,000. The same company leased to McIntosh & Co. of Lancaster a warehouse downtown for $2,000 a year. The lessee is a well-known tobacco distributor.

House Sales in East End.

Carver street: Woods & Coleman sold for the Cosmopolitan Savings and Loan association to Giovanna De Paoli a frame house on 25x100 feet at 10 Carver street for $3,000; for Michael Hornett to Mrs. W. W. Ford, a frame house on 25x100 feet in McDonald street, for $2,200.

Winfield street: J. A. Young & Co. sold for John McAllister to J. M. Loose, 542 Winfield street, near Shetland avenue, Twenty-first ward, an eight-room frame house on 30x100 feet, for $5,250.

Lang avenue: The John K. Ewing Co., owners of the Union Realty Company, sold for T. S. Lloyd of Chicago to James Laird a frame house on 50x120 feet at the northeast corner of Lang avenue and Juniata street, Twenty-second ward, for $6,500.

Frankfort Springs: W. L. Scott & Co. sold for W. J. Savage to Albert A. Spivey the Frankfort grist mill, with new machinery, a nine-room frame house and eight acres of land at Frankfort Springs, for $5,000.

Webster avenue: S. Arnold & Co. sold for M. Bernstein two eight-room brick houses on 37x80 feet, at Webster avenue and Wooster street, Eleventh ward, for $7,500.

The following sales are reported by James W. Drape & Co.: Two houses on the Drape row in Kelly street, Twenty-first ward, for $13,000; a vacant lot, 38x110 feet, at Penn avenue and Thirty-sixth street, for $5,500; a brick house and lot near Frankstown avenue for $6,000. The firm also reported placing the following mortgages: $7,500 on two residence properties in the East End; $4,000 on a house and lot in Wilkinsburg; $2,500 on a house and lot in Carver street, East End; $5,000 on a house and lot near Negley avenue, East End; $4,250 on a residence property at Edgewood.

Good Purchase at Thornburg.

Through the office of Keck, Helle & Daschbach another fine residence at Thornburg has been disposed of, the price being $6,900 cash. The property consists of a 10-room brick and shingle house on 190x125 feet, and is located at Princeton and Hamilton avenues. The buyer is C. A. Carpenter, who secures the property for a home from W. S. Kidd, who has moved to Beaver.

Irwin avenue: William H. Brown sold to Frank Pearson 50x150 feet on the south side of Irwin avenue, near Murray avenue, Twenty-second ward, for $5,000.

Sheridan avenue: Samuel Young sold to William S. Kuhn 40x90 feet on the west side of Sheridan avenue, near Grafton street, Nineteenth ward, for $4,000.

Hawthorne street: The Stanton Land Company sold to Sarah A. Brody 60x120 feet on the southeast side of Hawthorne street, Eighteenth ward, for $2,000.

Associates Honor Holliday.

Another testimonial was given to Col. W. D. Holliday, former assistant general freight agent of the Wabash system here, last night. The men who have been associated with him in the freight, passenger and express offices at 320 Fifth avenue last evening presented him with a very handsome imported bronze electrolier. The presentation was entirely informal, and took the colonel by surprise, at his home in Edgewood. When he opened the door to admit a person he presumed was a caller, the beautiful electric table lamp was handed to him, with the message that it came from "the boys." Those who participated in the presentation were General Freight Agent H. J. Booth and the freight office force, Assistant General Passenger Agent Fred H. Tristram and the passenger department employes and General Agent A. S. Hitchcock of the Pacific Express Company. Col. Holliday retired from the Wabash November 1.

CAPTURED
THE ELUSIVE MR. LOOSE OF THE LEADER DEPARTMENT STORE
(THE LARGEST CO-OPERATIVE STORE IN AMERICA.)

By ELUSIVE MR. LOOSE.

Thursday was a strenuous day for me, and I had very many narrow escapes from capture. The weather during the week has been such as to discourage me several times to the extent that I actually hoped to be captured, and when I sauntered forth this morning into a dreary day, such as it was, I made up my mind that I would give everyone even greater opportunities than heretofore. I must admit that my capture by Mr. Derr was unexpected, happening as it did so soon after my entrance to the store. Mr. Derr was coming out the Market street entrance as I was going in and he hailed me. I exerted every effort to avoid him, increasing the speed of my movements and otherwise trying to shake him off my tracks, but he held on and put the correct sentence to me and I acknowledged my identity.

On Saturday I will exhibit my various disguises to the Leader patrons on the second floor of the great store during the following hours: 2:30 until 4 in the afternoon, and from 7:30 until 9 in the evening.

Captor and Captured, Mr. Loose and A. G. Derr.

THE ELUSIVE MR. LOOSE will appear at the store today and describe and illustrate his various disguises and escapades.

BY ARTHUR G. DERR.

Having read of the Elusive Mr. Loose of the Leader Department Store, and having several purchases to make, I concluded to make them at the Leader and place myself in position to endeavor to run down the prize man.

Leaving my office about 9:45 I reached the Leader at 9:50 and was immediately approached by others, who, like myself, were after Loose. Every man in the store seemed to be sought for. Arriving at the Gents' Furnishing Department I purchased several neckties and made a careful observation of many others who evidently were on the same mission as myself. I returned to the store a second time, having overlooked the purchase of a handkerchief. Having acquired this I again made my way toward Market street, and it was there I observed a gentleman just on his way in who struck me as looking very much like the Elusive Mr. Loose.

The National Biscuit Co.'s famous Zu Zu Band will give a concert on the second floor of the Leader Department Store, This Evening from 7 till 10 o'clock. Free samples of the famous Zu Zu Biscuits will be given.
